Rich Germans Loafing While Babies Starve

Swiss Arraign Profiteers Who Spend Money at Winter Resorts While Others Without Food.

Berlin, April 2.-Something like a public scandal has been roused by the fact that numerous German tourists spent their money lavishly at the most luxurous hotels in Switzerland during a winter vacation while hundreds of thousands of their countrymen are practically starving at Their conduct especially aroused indignation among Swiss people who have made and are still making large contributions to charity funds collected for relief in Germany. In a letter addressed to the Vor-waerts, a Swiss woman writes: "More than 1,700 German children are at present enjoying the hospitality of the Swiss people and are having a good time here. More of them are expected to come here in April. Collections have been started in schools and churches to starving German children. the beginning of December more than a million charity parcels are being dispatched to Germany every day. "At the same time it has become known that about 70 per cent of all hotel guests in Switzerland are Ger-The Swiss government ought to be after them to compel them to 'do their bit for their country' just as well, since they do not seem to be inclined to give voluntary. The Swiss are grumbling a good deal that these people have the nerve to go on living in luxury while, at the same time, lots of their countrymen are begging abroad for a piece of bread. They ought to be ashamed of their conduct."

The Vorwaerts, commenting upon the letter, says: "If the writer of this letter believes that there is the inkling of compassion with the plight of the broad mass of the German people within the unfortunately, very much mistaken. You cannot teach them anything even about a proper sense of the course of years in which they used to exploit the German people for their own pocketbooks.'
