

Organization of Corn Growers in Nebraska Planned

Aim of Association Launched in Iowa Is to Control Market by Effective Co-Operation.

Des Moines, Ia., April 3.—The Corn Growers' association, organized in Iowa several months ago to bring corn growers' "cost of production plus reasonable profit" for their corn, by controlling the movement of that product to market, has asked Gov. C. W. Bryan of Nebraska to issue a proclamation calling Nebraska corn growers to Lincoln, April 10 to discuss organization of an association with similar purpose in Nebraska, officials of the association announced today.

The Iowa Corn Growers' association was organized by A. J. Banks of Montour, Ia., "dirt farmer" candidate for the republican gubernatorial nomination in Iowa and prominent in the affairs of the Iowa Taxpayers' league. It has grown rapidly since its organization last winter, and now has a number of local and district organizations radiating from the state-wide association. Its officers claim for it that it has already influenced the corn market for higher prices.

TWO DROWNED IN DAKOTA RIVER

Sturgis, S. D., April 3.—John Newcomb, 65, and Peter Richards, 55, were drowned in the Bellefourche river Wednesday according to word received here today. Former Lincoln Girl Hurt in Riot in China

Lincoln, Neb., April 3.—Advice received from Shanghai, China, by relatives in Lincoln told of a riot in which a former Lincoln girl, Harriet Harmon, daughter of Dr. A. D. Harmon, former president of Cotner college and now president of Transylvania college at Lexington, Ky., was hurt. Miss Harmon was one of a party of five Americans who were attempting to take pictures during a Chinese celebration when an attack was made upon them by natives. She was hit on the head with a stone. Others of the party were injured, none seriously, it was said.

Platte County Farmers Plan Wolf and Crow Hunt

Columbus, Neb., April 3.—Wolves and crows will be hunted in a drive to be made by Platte county farmers and Columbus men north of the city Sunday. During the last winter, according to Henry L. Lasher, who is organizing the drive, which will include several hundred men, there is scarcely a farmer whose chicken coops have not suffered from night raids by coyotes. Fields in some localities are black with crows, whose activities, farmers declare, would be absolutely ruinous after corn planting has been finished.

Court Award Settles Husking Hook Litigation

Columbus, Neb., April 3.—The court battle made by Joseph C. Zoucha against the estate of Joseph M. Koziol, inventor of the husking hook, involving claims that Zoucha had been frozen out of business by Koziol after the latter's factory was given a start on funds obtained from Zoucha, was settled when the district court awarded Zoucha $2,300 in a lien against the Koziol estate. Zoucha's suicide last summer was caused, friends declared at the time, by Zoucha's allegations that the latter had been unfairly treated.

Ripley, evangelist for the Des Moines district of the Methodist churches. Wednesday Mr. Ripley and his five children were at dinner when the fire broke out. Mrs. Ripley recently died.

Men Who Are Making Omaha

William F. Gurley

Placing a label on this picture is wasting time. Anyone who sees it knows who it is, for he looks just like that. William F. Gurley was one of a group of unusually capable young lawyers who came to Omaha during the early or middle 80s. Others were Charles A. Marple, who was his law partner for some years; Henry D. Estabrook, a native son; Herbert J. Davis, who rose to be district judge, and others, who adorned a group that became noted for wit and eloquence, as well as ability to expound the law. It was not all easy sailing for these fellows, but each was an industrious worker, and "Bill" Gurley was probably the most patient plunger among the lot. He just practiced law, in season and out. Taking his share in the political life of the community, he established himself as a dependable republican, although he never sought office. His counsel was sought, however, and in the stirring days from the 80s up through the 90s and into the new century, Gurley was almost as busy in politics as he was in law. He came to Omaha in 1881, fresh from his father's law office over in Iowa, and his first job was in a lumber yard. He moved along until in 1888, he resumed the work for which he had been specially trained, and set up as a lawyer. He was made deputy county attorney by E. W. Simeral, and a little later, when Ben S. Baker was made United States district attorney, Mr. Gurley was appointed by President Harrison to be assistant. In 1900 he was chairman of the republican delegation from Nebraska to the convention at Philadelphia that nominated McKinley and Roosevelt. Mr. Gurley has won a nationwide name as an orator; he is one of the most genial of men personally, and wears his 63 years lightly.

Nobility to Attend Funeral of Man Believed to Be Austrian Archduke

New York, April 3.—The body of an elderly man who died in a Bronx hospital Monday under the name of O. N. Orlow, doctor of philosophy, but whose death certificate bears the name of Johannes Saluator, long missing archduke of Austria, is to lie in state in St. Andrews church in Fifth avenue. So strong is the conviction among his friends that he was the archduke, that some of them propose to keep his body in a vault so that a small birthmark on his right arm may establish his identity later when the royal documents are found, it is said. As far as possible, it is stated, the funeral will be accompanied by the honors to which an archduke is entitled.

Legislators to Pass Farm Aid Measures Soon

Will Drop Investigations and Turn to Other Matters, Says N. B. Urdike on Return Here.

700,000 bushels, it means that the farmer would sell 300,000,000 bushels of wheat in the world's market at the world's price. For the balance of the wheat which would be used at home, he would receive a higher price than the world's price.
"In other words, he would receive the price that he will today for 3 per cent of his crop, and a price in line with what he has to pay for what he buys, for 70 per cent of his crop. He, himself, however, would have to stand the expense of the organization necessary to handle the business as he now has to pay the expense pertaining to marketing his wheat.

Million More for Farmer.
"Another way this matter is explained is that the farmer would receive under the exact conditions that exist today, several hundred million dollars more for his wheat crop than he is getting. This additional price would of course have to be paid by the consuming public. Whether this can be brought about, depends upon the congressmen and senators representing the people of the United States. If they are willing to vote that the farmer is entitled to receive this money at the expense of the consumer the bill will go through.

"The argument of those who support the plan is that the consuming public, especially in the coast states and in the thickly populated districts in interior states, is getting a much better deal under existing laws than the farmer. Therefore it is held that as a matter of fairness the farmer should be given his chance.
"The McNary-Haugen bill, if confined to wheat, would form a corporation to which the government would lend $200,000,000. These funds would be used to buy wheat at a ratio price, which is generally estimated at $1.50 a bushel.

Organize National Pool.
"The farmers under this plan would in effect be organized into a national pool, with the corporation handling the crop. The present marketing system would not be interfered with and the elevators, both in the country and at primary markets would be used as they are now used.
"The expense of the pool would be paid for by the farmers and the funds loaned the corporation would be paid for by the government.
"It is claimed that when you figure out the details of the McNary-Haugen plan, it is hardly practical to try it on anything with the exception of wheat. If so worked out the results would show whether it was satisfactory. Then other farm products could be given attention.
"Friends of the bill are afraid to cut out other articles on account of the influence it might have on votes in congress as well as at home. Some of those who speak in favor of the bill, but who are really its enemies, are trying to load it down with more articles rather than less. Should the bill work out in reference to wheat alone, it is generally thought that it would automatically bring up the prices of other farm products.

Amended Every Day.
"Various associations and individuals hesitate to be too emphatic for or against the bill until they can see the bill as finally amended. It is being amended in one way or another practically every day in the committee.
"It will also be amended to a considerable extent when it is one of the floor of the house and senate.
"If one can believe what he hears that the farmers will get some helpful legislation during this session of congress. The great problem is to get enough of those interested in the farmer to agree on some plan that will bring this about.

Loans to Germany for Purchase of U. S. Wheat Discussed by Senators

By P. C. POWELL, Washington Correspondent, The Omaha Bee

Washington, April 3.—While the house agricultural committee is struggling to break the filibuster of Congressman Voigt against the McNary-Haugen farm relief bill, the senate committee is considering a bill to advance money on the $150,000,000 in alien property seized during the war for purchase of wheat and other raw materials by Germany, Austria and Hungary.

The bill is receiving strong backing from many quarters and is held to be a more direct means of aiding the middlewest farmer than the McNary-Haugen bill. It also escapes the price fixing objections advanced by enemies of the McNary-Haugen bill. The bill calls for establishment of a corporation to be in existence for five years or less, depending on the will of the president.

Three directors to handle this fund will be named by the president. These directors are empowered to make extensive loans to firms and individuals in Germany, Austria and Hungary for purchase of grain and raw manufacturing materials. All money advanced by the corporation must be used in purchasing grain and raw materials from the United States and no other country.

As a guarantee of payment on raw manufacturing goods, a lien is taken on the finished product in the country to which it is sold. In case of wheat and other foodstuff, requirements of securities other than a note, trade acceptance or other commercial paper, may, in discretion of the directors, be disregarded, provided credits or advances unsecured by liens do not exceed $2,000,000. At the present time there is $27,000,000 in interest accrued in the federal treasury on the $150,000,000 in alien property seized by this government during the war.

Six Per Cent Interest Rate.
The money is to be loaned at a rate not to exceed 6 per cent and the corporation shall not give credits or make advances to individuals or governments when there are outstanding over-due repayments of credits, or advances previously made exceeding $5,000,000. The bill also provides that any loans suffered by the corporation shall be charged the $27,000,000 and not to the $150,000,000 principal.
The only objectors at the committee meeting today were attorneys for persons injured by Germans or German instruments during the war, who are fearful the fund will be dissipated, and suits for damages brought against the fund will, if successful, deplete it. Friends of the bill assert under safeguards inserted the principal is certain to be returned.

Farmer Drops Dead in Road.
Beatrice, Neb., April 3.—Richard J. Wick, 69, a farmer living six miles north of Odel, was found dead in the road, half mile south of that place Wednesday. He had been riding his bicycle and had evidently dismounted to fix the chain on the machine when he suddenly expired. Heart trouble was given as the cause of death. He had gained a reputation in the county as a gopher trapper.

Red Cloud, Neb., April 3.—Miss Mary Peterson was elected for a third term as mayor here. William Hansen was elected city clerk, S. R. Florence, treasurer; A. H. Hoffman and T. T. Amack, city councilmen. A $5,000 bond issue for a junior high school was carried by 77 majority.

Commons Reject Levy on Capital

Labor Measure Defeated After All-Night Session of Lower House.

London, April 3.—The house of commons rose at 5:20 a. m. today after an all night session during which it rejected the policy of a capital levy, the chief labor plank in the last election, by a vote of 225 to 160. Action came on a conservative motion, designed to force the government to define its attitude on the question.
John Robert Clines, government leader in the house, admitted that the laborites could not hope for the passage of such a measure in the present parliament, but maintained that the country would ultimately be forced to it by its crushing burden of debt.

Miss Margaret Bondfield, Miss Dorothy Jewson and Lady Terrington stuck to their posts throughout the session. The government evaded otherwise inevitable defeat in connection with the rent bill by consenting to revision of the clause, objected to by both the liberals and conservatives, providing that a tenant should not be liable to eviction for nonpayment of rent when such failure was due to inability to obtain employment.

Electors Plan to Write Bryan's Name on Ballot
Columbus, Neb., April 3.—William Jennings Bryan's name will be written on hundreds of democratic ballots in Columbus and Platte county next Tuesday when the state primaries are held. Because there is no name of either a presidential or a vice presidential aspirant on the democratic ticket, efforts are being made here and throughout the entire third congressional district of Nebraska to place the commoner's name at the party mast head.

Cross Blazes on Columbia Campus

Robed and Hooded Men Stage Demonstration Against University Student.
New York, April 3.—The fiery cross blazed last night on the campus of Columbia university. It was set up and fired by a group of white robed and hooded men opposite Purnell hall, where Frederick W. Wells, a negro law student, has a room from which fellow students have recently tried to oust him. While the cross burned, Wells remained in his locked room heedless of calls and knocks.

The cross was brought to the campus in an automobile by men in civilian clothes. They left the car and scattered into every direction, only to reappear in a few minutes shrouded in the regalia of the Ku Klux Klan. As soon as the cross was burned out, the men again scattered, crying "down with the negro."
Dean Hawkes a short time ago refused to act on a student's petition asking for Wells' dismissal from the dormitory.

Bank at Pilger Closed.
Pilger, Neb., April 3.—The First National bank of this place closed its doors this morning. Gradual shrinkage of deposits and frozen paper were given as the cause. B. H. Schaberd was president and R. O. Brandt vice president. Deposits were given at $241,000 in the bank's last statement.

Steamer Afire Off West Coast

Schooner Reported in Flames on Pacific Near Santa Monica.

Los Angeles, Cal., April 3.—A large ship, believed to be a lumber schooner or a vessel of similar type, was reported burning at sea off Santa Monica today, according to messenger received here. A dense fog on the ocean made it impossible for watchers on the shore to definitely determine the type of vessel that may be burning.
It was reported that dense clouds of smoke were pouring from the ship and that flashes of flames were also seen.
Rescue boats were put out from Venice and Santa Monica to aid those on the stricken vessel.

YEGGMEN ROB BANK AT EMMETT

Special Dispatch to The Omaha Bee.
Wymore, Neb., April 3.—The bank at Emmett, Kan., was robbed early today by unknowns. The amount taken is unknown. Citizens were intimidated by shots fired by the robbers, who left in a high-powered car and are known to have taken gas at Onaga.
A car stolen on the streets at Table Rock late Wednesday night, and belonging to Guy Bonham, cashier of the Table Rock State bank, has been traced into Kansas and is supposed to be the one which took gas at Onaga and headed toward St. Joseph. A sedan was abandoned at Table Rock, two blocks from where the car was stolen.

A citizen of Table Rock claims to have seen six men enter the stolen car. It was a new car and bore Nebraska number 549. One license plate from it was found at the roadside a mile away and the men are supposed to have changed plates.
