"True Story of Roosevelt-Taft Break Must One Day Be Told"---Pinchot

In two Omaha clubs Tuesday interesting papers were read, one from the Atlantic coast, written by Gifford Pinchot and sent to his kinswoman, Mrs. Crosby Shelvin. The other from the Pacific slopes, a paper written by Mrs. J. E. Elwood of this city, who recently opened a book shop in Hollywood. It was read by Mrs. Rudolph Rix to Chapter B. M. of P. E. O. meeting at the home of Mrs. F. F. Stroud.

Mrs. Shelvin read Governor Pinchot's review on Lord Charnwood's "Life of Roosevelt" before the Smith College club, which met for its monthly luncheon and literary review at the home of Miss Marjorie Barrett.

It is interesting in this day of political investigations for a bewildered public to hear Governor Pinchot say of the book, "It is true that Lord Charnwood falls into error, by no means rare among Roosevelt's biographers, of radically misrepresenting the origin, nature and result of Taft's break with Roosevelt, the true story of which must one day be told."

Others who gave reviews were Mrs. Henry Clark and Mrs. W. A. Gordon.

In Mrs. Elwood's paper on "Old Books, Manuscripts and Catalogues," the writer told of a young artist connected with the movies who has been browsing through her old volumes for authentic settings and costumes to be used in costume plays.

Out of one group of French poems he purchased another moving picture company hopes to work up a plot for a period film.

Omahaans who have visited Mrs. Elwood's shop in California report it a most successful venture.

When Mrs. Shelvin learned she was to review this work she immediately wrote Mr. Pinchot, who forwarded the review with a personal letter in which he mentioned seeing her grandmother, his cousin, who visited here two weeks ago.

Bejewelled Society Women and Indians Mingle at Oklahoma Reception

To be in the receiving line at the inaugural ball given for Governor Chase of Oklahoma is one of the interesting experiences which Mrs. Blanche Paterson had on a visit in Oklahoma, from which she returned Tuesday.

Mrs. Paterson said 5,000 people danced on three floors of the capitol building that evening. Some of them the most smartly dressed and richly bejewelled women she has ever seen, and also a few Indians, in from the reservations, dressed in modern fashion.

While Mrs. Paterson was in the city she shared honors at several affairs with a group of musicians whose southern visits were coincident with hers. Among them were Mrs. Edward MacDowell, wife of the late composer; Mrs. Henri Fishcher, a singer, and wife of the Italian consul.

Mrs. Paterson was frequently mistaken during her visit for Mrs. Marquand Huckins, who is considered the most beautiful woman in Oklahoma City.

President-Elect Tuesday Musical

Mrs. C. W. Axtell was elected president of the Tuesday Musical club at the annual meeting Tuesday afternoon at the home of the retiring president, Mrs. C. M. Wilhelm. Mrs. Lucien Stephens is the new vice president; Mrs. S. S. Caldwell, recording secretary; Mrs. Walter Preston, membership secretary; Mrs. Forrest Richardson, treasurer; Mrs. George Ledick, auditor; directors, Mesdames C. M. Wilhelm, A. D. Dunn, Myron Learned, A. V. Kinsler, A. L. Reed, Karl Connel and Miss Juliet McCune.

It was nine years ago that the Tuesday Musical club ceased being a "house club" and adopted the present plan of organization. Since that time, Mrs. Axtell has continuously served the club, filling offices and chairmanships. The body closed the year with a membership approximating 1,200.

The club closed the year on the right side of the ledger. Some of the concerts made money and some lost for the club, but the total figures show several hundred dollars for the treasury in starting next year's program.

Mrs. Axtell is sponsor in chief for the Junior Musical club which gave its annual recital last night at the First Central Congregational church.

For three years she has been on the board of the Fortnightly club, and she

Girls Want to Be Popular

Dear Miss Allen: We are two girls who want to be popular. Is that wrong? We don't like "necking parties" and our folks don't want us to kiss the boys. But they don't like us if we tell them not to. What can we do about it?

BLUE EYES and FRECKLES.

Of course it is all right for you to want to be popular. We all do. But some of us won't sacrifice what is right for the sake of a wrong kind of popularity, and some of us will. There are two kinds of popularity. One kind picks up a few friends today who are gone tomorrow. Their regard for us is not based on anything with lasting power. We all do this. There is the popularity which is based on respect. Haven't you noticed some people in your life who have the respect of everyone in town? It isn't because they have tried to please, but because they have tried to do right.

The kind of popularity which is worth the having is the kind based on respect. After all, an easy way to be rid of undesirable people, is to refuse to lower your standards for them. They will seek their kind in others and leave you free from annoyance by them.

Limiting Friendship.

Dear Miss Allen: At a party I met

At the wedding breakfast at the bride's home, following the ceremony, covers will be placed for 12.

a young man who took a liking to me. He has taken a girl friend of mine out with him, and lately he has taken me, too. Ever since then this girl friend of mine has treated me very coolly. Among my circle of friends unpleasant things have been said about my taking this girl's friend away. Would you advise me to stop going out with him? We have no thoughts of marriage as yet.

DIXIE.

There is no reason why young folks should limit themselves to one friendship. But possibly your circle thinks you were a bit shy and disloyal in trying to make an impression on a lad in whom your best friend was interested. Don't throw away a fine girl's friendship to prove your power or satisfy your vanity. Be square with her and you can reach an understanding. You wouldn't steal a stamp from her desk when she wasn't looking. Don't coax away the attention of someone she may feel you are "stealing from her."
