One of my friends wanted to know why I headed these ads "FOLKS?"

I said, "well, I get tired trying to think up headings that will attract attention, and besides, I don't always want to talk about cleaning or dyeing clothes, or rugs, or house furnishings. We want to make these ads so interesting that people will turn to and read them just to see what The Pantorium has to say today. Just like we all turn over and read Will Maupin's 'Sunny Side Up.'

"You see 'FOLKS' includes everybody, and nowadays practically everybody sends their soiled clothes to the Dry Cleaner. We want to so impress the name of The Pantorium on you, that when your clothes need cleaning or pressing, you just naturally think of us.

"As I view it, advertising is only a means of getting your name before the people and acquainting them with your business. The quality of your work, or goods, and the treatment they receive from you determine whether they are to be regular patrons or not.

"I am proud of the fact that we have on our books hundreds of people who have been con-stant patrons for more than a quarter of a

CHARACTER

Upon your printed literature rests the responsibility of correctly portraying the character of your product and organization.

Pictures linger longest in the mentality of the reader, and the success or failure of your printed salesmen may depend upon the impression created through engravings.

Don't let poor engravings mar a reputation that has taken years of time and money to build. Use our "deeper etched" cuts and be sure that the presentation of your product and organization is the finest that is possible to make.
