

Capper Seen as Coolidge Mate to Appease West

Sentiment Favoring Kansas Senator for Vice President Nominee Growing in Washington.

By P. C. POWELL, Washington Correspondent The Omaha Bee. Washington, April 12.—With the nomination of Calvin Coolidge at the Cleveland convention practically assured the question of a vice presidential candidate is causing considerable comment and all signs point to a western man. Senator Capper of Kansas, continues to be the man talked of most, with Senator Borah of Idaho receiving much mention in eastern newspapers. However, it is not believed Borah would consent to the nomination.

In Capper's case there apparently is every reason to believe he will accept. He is geographically in the center of the midwestern trouble zone. His publications reach more farmers than any in the country. He is looked upon as sufficiently progressive to keep a majority of the middle western radicals in line in the election.

Kansas contains a number of influential public men who desire to get into the senate and undoubtedly will see to it that a Capper boom for vice president will be launched at Cleveland in order to clear the track for their candidacies.

This demand of the middle west for representation on the national ticket is being carried to Washington daily. The most recent message of this description was taken to the White House by Stanley Washington of Fargo, N. D. His ideas of the western situation as quoted in newspapers follow:

"The people in the west feel that Coolidge is on the square and will not play politics with big questions. The time to hand carbon monoxide to the menacing third party movement is now and not in November. The vice presidential candidate should be a man from the west. I expressed the same views to the president today."

M'MULLEN FRIENDS GATHER AT HOME

Special Dispatch to The Omaha Bee. Beatrice, Neb., April 12.—People in every walk of life gathered at the home of Adam McMullen Friday evening to congratulate him over his success in winning the republican nomination for governor.

Ex-Representative D. S. Dalbey presided. The Beatrice municipal band furnished the music.

Attorney John DeLachant spoke briefly and pointed out that McMullen was Gage county's candidate irrespective of party.

Miss Lettie Summers, head of the Beatrice Woman's club, spoke on behalf of the women voters of the county.

McMullen thanked his friends for their support and stated that if elected he would serve Nebraska to the best of his ability.

EX-OMAHA WOMAN WRITES SCENARIO

"Which Shall It Be?" is the title of a photoplay by Mrs. Madeline Brandeis, former wife of E. John Brandeis of Omaha, which has opened at the Casino theater, Broadway and Forty-second street, New York, and is heralded by an unique advertisement in the New York Times, which "invites Morris Gest, genius of the theater, to see a motion picture without a hero, villain, cabaret, bathing pool, jazz-crazed girl or a single suggestive thought."

Reviewers have directed attention to the fact that in some ways the plot parallels Mrs. Brandeis' life. "After a daughter was born to her, then came the great tragedy of her life," says The Times.

Mrs. Brandeis is reported to be preparing another film, "Maud Muller," an adaptation of the poem by that name.
