

This is the way Virginia Valli, the screen star, sends Easter greetings. Perhaps, Virginia wrote the greeting with her own little hand, but it's a foregone conclusion her press agent had a hand in the idea. But no matter, it's cute anyway.

"Come 7, come 11; stay away snake eyes." Cute? No word for it! They'll "fade" you at the Junior league's charity revue which will be held at the Brandeis restaurants Friday and Saturday night. The bright-eyed young miss on the left is Miss Ruth Wallace. The winsome young lady with the curls on the right is Mrs. Lester Klopp. Rinehart-Marsden photo.

In charity performances the balloon girl is as inevitable as the cigaret girl. But Miss Elizabeth Elliott is sufficiently attractive and clever to relieve the role of its monotony and you'll be sure to enjoy her in the Junior league's revue at the Brandeis restaurants Friday and Saturday nights. Rinehart-Marsden photo.

Miss Marian Towle, president of the Junior league, which gives its annual charity revue Friday and Saturday nights at the Brandeis restaurants. Photo by Rinehart-Marsden.

Tom Wise as "The Old Soak" in Don Marquis' comedy at the Brandeis theater for four days beginning tonight.

Jean Hastings, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Byron Hastings, was born on Easter Sunday, 1916. Today is the closest she has come to an Easter Sunday birthday in her 8 years. Easter will not again fall on April 23, her birth date, until the year 2,000, when she will be 84 years old. Photo by Heyn.

Gilda Gray and Ann Pennington will have to look to their laurels. They're too busy in New York to come to Omaha for the Junior league's charity revue at the Brandeis restaurants Friday and Saturday nights, but who cares? Not as long as Miss Adelaide Foggy is among those present. And she will be, in this very nifty and attractive costume.