Laugh at yourself.
One Rockefeller Year.
No Passionate Coolidge.
Bobbed Hair Bandit Lady.
By ARTHUR BRISBANE

Chauncey Depew, 90, gives good advice, "laugh at yourself."
As man contemplates his early dreams and later failures, the natural thing would be to weep and jump off the roof, but that isn't good for you. Laugh at yourself, as Mr. Depew advises, and you will live longer.

Laughter causes vibration, and that kills microbes. While you are laughing you can't think, that rests your brain.

In 1923 the Rockefeller Foundation did these things, among hundreds of others:
Fought malaria in seven foreign nations, from Brazil to Palestine.
Combined with 20 outside governments to fight hookworm.

Contributed more than a million dollars to musical education in the British islands, gave half a million to the University of Alberta, pledged a quarter of a million to the University of Pennsylvania.

Supported medical schools and 25 hospitals in China.
Granted 194 fellowships in Germany to support scientific workers. And that's only 1 per cent of it.

If there were not a great deal of water going over Niagara, you couldn't get any power there.
If there were not a great deal of money in the Rockefeller fortune, all that work couldn't be done.

The longer you live the more you realize that providence knows what it is about.

A solemn editorial writer complains that President Coolidge's recent speech "revealed no inner flame of passionate belief." Certainly not, and that's one proof of Coolidge wisdom. Passionate belief is all right, when you are chopping off the head of Charles I, or Louis XVI, or putting a Trotsky in place of a Romanoff.

But when you are managing, as Mr. Coolidge is, a big nation engaged in business and anxious not to be "jolted," the fewer "passionate beliefs" you indulge in the better for your political prospects.

Wise Mr. Coolidge is "keeping cool with Coolidge." No passionate beliefs for him.

The bobbed hair young lady bandit of many holdups, dressed herself nicely to meet the reporters, and not at all worried or ashamed, she said, "Gee, I will go and get a look at the circus when I get out of this."

At the same moment, John T. Leonard, a young man convicted of murder, was "proceeding jauntily" in the direction of the deathhouse.

Indifference to the opinion of others causes 90 per cent of all crimes.

A dispatch from Shanghai says that the effort to line up the races in Asia against the whites is increasing. That interesting gentle poet, Rabindranath Tagore, leads in attacking western civilization.

Such a nice poet is about as dangerous to western civilization as a baby white rabbit would be to a cageful of wildcats.

Japan's hostility is more important. But as that hostility develops, the value of the Japanese yen drops. That will offset a good deal of Asiatic hostile feeling.

Mr. Moreau of San Francisco, who thinks he has found a way to harness the sun's heat, says he has concentrated that heat with an intensity sufficient to melt a diamond. This will be discussed incredulously, as the flying machine was discussed 25 or 30 years ago. After awhile the heat of the sun will be used as freely as we now use the waters of the lake or ocean. But are we ready for that yet. It would make life too easy, and hard struggle is still the only planetary university.

Everybody knows that this country will soon be selecting presidential candidates—or rather the country will have them selected for it. President Coolidge will be the republican nominee. What about the democrat? How do you think he will be chosen? Here's a description of the coming process, probably accurate, given by an able politician:

"Taggart will vote for Ralston of Indiana. Mr. Murphy of Tennessee will vote for Al Smith. They will work along those lines until they eliminate McAdoo. They will then go to a back room and decide who is really to be made the democratic nominee, and the name they choose will be the one nominated."

If you think that's imagination, you don't know United States politics.

Prof. Barton, specialist in Semitic knowledge at the University of Pennsylvania, says Jews did not originate the story of the flood, Noah's Ark, etc. That was a story borrowed by Jews from the older Babylonian civilization. Ancient writings prove it. But what difference does it make, as long as we believe in the flood, and behave better on that account?

More Entrants in Contest for Free Yellowstone Park Trip

Other Prizes to Be Awarded by Toilet Goods Exposition at Brandeis Store.

Vacation trips are something for which to strive.

At least a number of Omaha women think so and have entered into the fun of competing for a free trip to Yellowstone park as guest of the Brandeis-Omaha Bee Toilet Goods exposition, which is to open next Monday on the eighth floor of the Brandeis store.

"Then," as one charming miss said, "if I am not so fortunate as to be the winner of the grand prize, there's a lot of other nice things which are to be given and my friends who urged me to enter almost guaranteed one of those."

Three new entries were received Thursday. Mrs. Ralph Hayward, Thirty-second and Howard streets; Irene Van Dahl, 124 North Fortieth street, and Ruth Foran, 1065 South Thirty-fourth street. Included in the contest to date are the following:

Philomena Conslan, 1824 Binney street; Mrs. P. J. Welch, 429 Lincoln boulevard; Thelma Baier, 410 North Thirtieth street; Hazel Pennell, Blackstone hotel; Madeline Meehan, 2727 Howard street; Agnes Capita, 3765 South Thirtieth street; Anna Culkin, 3009 Harney street; Miss Elizabeth Brougham, 2748 South Thirtieth street; Carrie Seymour, 2314 South Tenth street; Mae Charnquist, 507 North Twenty-third street.

These entries were made by various women's organizations and a spirited contest will be waged by each to win the trip to Yellowstone park for their favorite.

Those who desire to register for the contest either for themselves or for one of their popular women friends

Wife, Lost One Week, Found in Jail by Husband

"I'm Going Back to Dad," She Tells Mate as He Rushes to Embrace Her.

John Hoffman, 28, 2503 Arbor street, rushed to the county jail Thursday morning when he was informed that his wife, Josephine, who disappeared from home last Friday, had been found.

He paced the floor of the matron's office. His voice trembled with emotion when he spoke.

His wife was brought in. He threw his arms about her and kissed her. But she gave no response to his demonstrations of love. She sat on a couch and looked at him with her big, black eyes, set in her thin but amiable face, shadowed by piles of black hair upon her head.

He might have been a stranger.

Claims Mistreated.
"Josephine, dear, I am so glad we have found you," he stammered.

"I'm not," she said. "I don't intend to live with you any more. You never treated me right."

"Let me send you to a hospital," he begged. "I want you to get well."

"No, I want to go back home to my dad. I don't want anything to do with you."

He wiped his face. His wife would say no more. When he turned to go, beads of perspiration stood on his brow. His whole face was streaming with moisture. He put his arms around her and kissed her as she sought to turn her face away. He declared he will get an alienist to examine her.

"I haven't hardly slept since she went away and left me and our 4-year-old girl," he said. "Her father is Leo Hestberg and he lives at Dwight, Neb. If she goes to him she will just have one of those attacks and then it will be to do all over again. I had her in St. Joseph hospital recently."

The woman was found wandering in the railroad yards last Friday and was brought to the county jail by a policeman. Hoffman notified the police Wednesday to look for her and she was identified by the sheriff's office by a description published in the newspapers.
