Dorothy Judson Weds Wallace Shepard

The gold and white of the Easter season was carried out in the wedding of Miss Dorothy Judson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Judson, and Wallace Shepard, son of Mr. and Mrs. Wallace Shepard of Cleveland, former Omahans, which was solemnized Wednesday evening in the First Presbyterian church.

Eastern lilacs and greens, with white candles golden-flamed furnished a fitting setting.

The bride was gowned in white satin in laces, a gown fashioned with a wrap-around skirt, and a blouse beaded in true lovers knots of crystal and pearls. Her train was the latest thing, for she had discarded satin for tulle, which billowed several yards behind her, and on which rested her dearest lace veil. The veil itself was held by a coronet of rose point and pearls. White satin slippers with rhinestone buckles completed her bridal array.

Lilies of the valley were grouped in a wedding bouquet.

Miss Florence Hyde of Kansas City, maid of honor, wore a gown of cloth of gold, with a head-dress of strands of this material braided into a coronet. She carried a great sheaf of Easter lilies.

Misses Eleanor Burkle and Claire Daugherty wore white crepe de chine gowns, on which golden wheat was embroidered; side trains of the silk were veiled in a golden mesh which formed girdles. They too carried Easter lilies, and wore gold shoes with white slippers. Their head-dresses were similar to the coronet worn by Miss Hyde.

Little Miss Becky Peters, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Peters, was flower girl, carrying a basket of pink roses. She wore a white organza frock embroidered in French knots.

The Reverend Edwin Hart Jenkins performed the ceremony, at 8:30. For the half hour preceding Mrs. Louise Shattuck Zabarskie had given an organ program.

Donald Shepard served his brother as best man. Groomsman included Dave Caldwell, Paul Shirley, Dr. Herbert Davis, James Connell, and usher, Dennen Kountze and Phillip Dennis. Douglas Peters was master of ceremonies.

Following the wedding a small reception was given in Fairacres. Mrs. Judson was stunning in powder blue embroidered in pastel beads, and Mrs. Shepard in a headed gown of white.

Later Mr. Shepard and his bride left for two weeks at the Broadmoor, Colorado Springs. Mrs. Shepard wore a going-away costume of French blue, tulle-trimmed of French blue, with a jaunty short cape to match.

A Three-Piece Costume of Black Crepe Belles for Its Interest on Pleating and a Smart Striped Trimming.

Sally Milgrim.

With the approach of warm weather comes the problem of a smart and practical street costume. This must be cool as well as chic, distinguished in line, and, if black, trimmed with some bright bit of color to give it a springlike, gay appearance.

Costumes for street wear have never been as attractive as this season. There are countless models of thin silks and satins, designed for the first warm days of spring that are as practical as they are chic. The materials for the most part are crepes, satins and the new silk alpaca. The majority of these costumes are black, but they are invariably relieved from any look of somberness by a bit of colorful trimming, or by the combination of some gay striped material.

Such a costume is pictured today. This is a charming three-piece affair of black crepe and printed silk.

The skirt is finely pleated and edged with a band of striped trimming in red, white and black. The close-fitting overblouse is of printed silk in the same coloring, and the graceful short cape is edged in the same manner as the skirt.

Gay printed silk makes the bodice, and the skirt and cape of this black crepe costume are edged with striped ribbon.

They Are Wearing

A bouffant gray tulle gown, almost touching the floor, was in marked contrast to the long, slim, modish chosen by most of the women in our open auditorium, this week. Color was supplied by a big Spanish shawl.

The Spanish type of comb and various modifications of it, was conspicuous as a substitute for other hair ornament. It was affected with the smooth type of headdress.

Among the metallic wraps noted at the opera was one interesting as a possible forecast of next winter's style, because it was made of a very small leaved pattern of gold closely covering the silk ground, a style that is strongly suggested in the winter 1924 collection of a leading French silk manufacturer.

The silver wraps seen close together in the lobby of the Metropolitan were interesting for their contrast in texture. Both were straight and long, and colored in schimble. One was of heavily crinkled, dark silver; the other had the metal worked in delicate stripes in a white satin ground, shot with light silver.

Although not particularly smart, the bright red hat which nearly always arrives with early spring is used as an occasional adjunct of the dark costume.

Buttons for the summer frock: Colored buttons or crystal buttons that look like door knobs. But they must be many.

Keep the head clear for business. Heavy foods clog the system and dull the brain. Kellogg's with milk or cream are pure nutriment, easily digested.

Interior Decoration.

Nothing is daintier, however, for the bedroom this spring than fine, marquisette curtains. There is a choice of dainty plaids some of which also have dots. And then the edges are attractively frilled.

Classed chairs in used for lamp shades where a quaint cottage effect is desirable. It also harmonizes attractively with any room furnished in wicker.

A lovely but inexpensive set for the dining room consists of silver plated nickel silver with a covered compact and pair of low flaring candlesticks all with pierced silver rims.

The Facts About Coffee

FOR more than three years an exhaustive investigation of Coffee has been carried on at the Massachusetts Institute of Technology.

This investigation was made at the invitation of the Coffee trade of the United States to determine by scientific research the truth about Coffee and Coffee making. It was one of the most thorough investigations ever made of any food product. The report covers many hundreds of pages, for every aspect of Coffee and Coffee making was studied.

The result of this scientific research, as announced by Professor Samuel C. Prescott, Director of the Institute's Department of Biology and Public Health, shows that Coffee is a wholesome, helpful, satisfying drink for the great majority of people. Professor Prescott has disproved old prejudices and superstitions, and given Coffee a clean bill of health. He says—

"It may be stated that, after weighing the evidence, a dispassionate evaluation of the data so comprehensively surveyed has led to no alarming conclusions that Coffee is an injurious beverage for the great majority of adults, but, on the contrary, that the history of human experience, as well as the results of scientific experimentation, point to the fact that Coffee is a beverage which, properly prepared and rightly used, gives comfort and inspiration, augments mental and physical activity, and may be regarded as the servant rather than the destroyer of civilization."

This statement, coming from such an unquestioned scientific authority, confirms the judgment of the American people, who drank much more Coffee last year than ever before.
