3 Bandits Terrorize Ogallala

Marshal Is Driven Through Streets at Point of Gun and Robbers Flee; Caught by posse. Irvington Job Suspects

Omaha police believe three of the four men who held up the bank at Irvington, just outside of Omaha, last Tuesday and took $2,000 may be under arrest in Ogallala, Neb., after an exciting chase by officers there.

Marshall Art Braman, famed as the slayer of the assassin of former Sheriff Heiser, entered the Searle hotel in Ogallala Friday to search a room.

He threw open the door, only to find himself "covered" by three revolvers in the hands of the men he was looking for. They marched him out of the hotel and through crowded streets and locked him in the jail.

Then, holding back the crowd, they commanded the Keithley taxi and ordered the driver to take them out of town toward the west. After a wild ride of six miles they met E. A. Smith, president of the Farmers bank of Ogallala, who was driving a sedan.

They stopped him, ordered the taxi driver into Smith's car and forced Smith to drive toward the hills. Posse Is Raised.

Meanwhile Marshal Brennan had released himself from jail, organized a posse and roused the surrounding country.

The fugitives left Smith and his car near Belmar and walked into that town, half an hour before the posse from Ogallala, Lewellen and Big Springs came up and surrounded the village. They surrendered to Sheriff Jump, who brought them back to Ogallala.

In their room at the hotel $4,000, 10 watches and other things were found. Part of this money may be the loot from the Irvington bank. Omaha police believed.

Yeggmens in Pistol Fight With Eagle Marshal Escape

Fail to Get Cash From Bank Safe When 15 Shots Are Fired at Them—Lead Cable Cut.

Lincoln, May 3.—Bank robbers who attempted to loot the vault of the Farmers State bank of Eagle, 15 miles east of here, early this morning, escaped after engaging in a gun battle with William Norris, night marshal of the town. It was thought that the marshal wounded one of the men.

Four men are thought to have been in the bank, and one man walked on the outskirts of the small town with an automobile. The sound of the explosion in the bank started the marshal and he opened fire on a man who emerged from the bank.

The robber answered the fire and other men came out and fired shotguns and revolvers at the marshal. Norris said he fired 15 shots.

The lead cable into the town was cut, so that officers had to go five miles to telephone to Lincoln.

Police Raid May Cause New Break

Russian Ambassador at Berlin Leaves for Moscow After Making Vigorous Protest. Soviet Offices Searched

Berlin, May 3.—A diplomatic rupture between Germany and Soviet Russia was imminent tonight as a result of a police raid upon Soviet trade headquarters.

According to the authorities they were trailing a communist suspect when they entered Russian trade headquarters. After a futile search police withdrew.

The Russian envoy immediately made a protest, alleging violation of extra-territorial rights. The Russian ambassador, M. Kretinsky, announced his intention of leaving for Moscow immediately. He hurried to the railway station, but missed his train, making it necessary for him to remain until tomorrow.

Semi-official German opinion is that the Russian envoy is "bluffing." Kretinsky charged that police brutally maltreated Russians while searching Soviet trade headquarters. He claims that furniture was smashed with bayoneted rifles.

Some arrests were made, but Foreign Secretary Stresemann quickly ordered their release. Kretinsky bitterly protested against "brutal violation of diplomatic usage."

Local Court Given Rap in Decision

Practice of Permitting Jury to Drink Evidence Liquor Scored by Circuit Judge. Omaha Ruling Reversed. St. Paul, Minn., May 3.—The federal district court of Nebraska was taken to task for allowing liquor, an exhibit in a bootlegging case, to be passed around for members of the jury to sample, in a decision handed down here today by the United States circuit court of appeals.

The decision reverses the ruling of the lower court in the case of Hector Jansone of Omaha, who was found guilty on a charge of conspiring to violate the prohibition law, and the case was remanded to the lower court for retrial. Records of the case reveal that during Jansone's trial the court ordered one of the bailiffs to pass some of the whisky secured from the defendants to the jury for examination. Some of the jurors, the record shows, apparently felt it was necessary to taste of it before they were certain it was whisky.

The circuit court reversed the lower court on several assignments of error. Charles Grau of Bennington was chairman of the meeting and Ted Robinson of Waterloo was secretary. The following committee, given power to negotiate, was announced: Washington County—J. J. Black, Union; Earl Cokrell, Chicago; Ed Parsons, Valley; Percy Vogel, Florence; John Cooper, Elkhorst; Otto Goetche, Jefferson; William Elton, McArdle; Prey J. Reimsers, Millard; William Zimmerly, Waterloo; M. T. Jensen, Douglas.

Dairy Men Oppose New Cut in Milk

Producers Say Creameries Pass More Than 1 Cent Per Quart Reduction on to Them. Reorganize for Fight

Milk producers of Douglas, Sarpy and Washington counties are indignant on account of the third reduction since January 1 in the price paid to them for their product by creameries. At a meeting in the county commissioners' assembly room Saturday afternoon 200 farmers of the three counties revived the Tri-County Milk Producers' association and named a committee to negotiate on a basis that will be equitable to both sides.

Pending definite agreement with the distributors, the producers will make it known in forceful terms that they will expect $2.50 per hundred pounds, f. o. b. Omaha. The third cut made by the distributors this year, on April 26, brought the price down to $1.90 per hundred, on the basis of milk testing 2.5 butter fat. This price means $1.50 per hundred delivered in Omaha, the explanation being that the farmers pay on an average 40 cents per hundred for delivery.

Washington county producers pay 50 cents per hundred hauling charge to Omaha, in which case, at the present price they would receive $1.40 per hundred. "This transportation charge cuts a big hole in your monthly milk check," asserted Charles Seafus of Washington county, who called the conference.

Charles Grau of Bennington was chairman of the meeting and Ted Robinson of Waterloo was secretary. The following committee, given power to negotiate, was announced: Douglas County—J. J. Black, Union; Earl Cokrell, Chicago; Ed Parsons, Valley; Percy Vogel, Florence; John Cooper, Elkhorst; Otto Goetche, Jefferson; William Elton, McArdle; Prey J. Reimsers, Millard; William Zimmerly, Waterloo; M. T. Jensen, Douglas.

Sarpy County—Herman Clausen, George Gramlich, John Becker, Henry Siebold, Benjamin Timmerman. The committee was directed to report to the association on May 17, at the courthouse, and to present a constitution and by-laws for consideration.

Love of Fun Blamed for His Arrest

Youthful Manager Admits Embezzlement of $1,615 From Piggly Wiggly; Shadowed Six Months. Wife, Baby Visit Him

Love of a good time and a desire to be known as a "good sport" led Frank E. Tatreau, 24, manager of a Piggly Wiggly store, to a cell at the central police station Saturday.

Tatreau was arrested on a charge of embezzlement by Detectives Frank Kiljan and William Davis after they had spent six months investigating his habits.

Breaks Down. In the office of Charles Van Deusen, chief of detectives, Tatreau broke down and admitted having taken $1,615 in cash and a quantity of groceries during the 21 months that he has been employed as manager of the store.

Suspicion of officials of the company was first aroused by parties given by Tatreau. They called on the two detectives and asked that he be investigated. Babe in Arms. His wife, with a 15-month-old baby in her arms, appeared at the station and was told of the confession. She heard it again when she talked to Tatreau in his cell.

"I had suspected Frank of doing things he shouldn't," she said. "But he was always so plausible that I didn't like to say anything. He always gave me his pay check and I kept it in a bank under my own name. He didn't have much money and so when he said that any liquor he drank was given him I believed it."

Spent on Parties. Officials of the company questioned Tatreau about a recent safe robbery in his store. He insisted that the robbery was genuine and that all the money he had taken had been in small amounts. All of the money alleged to have been embezzled Tatreau said he spent on parties. He signed a written confession.
