Six Most Beautiful Hawkeye Co-Eds Selected by Artist

FIRST: BERNICE RICHARDSON. SECOND: HELEN FAIR. THIRD: LOUISE SHANNON. FIFTH: ZORA STEWART. SIXTH: ESTHER HARDING.

These six beautiful girls are "from Iowa," too. They're all native born Hawkeyes and proud of it.

They are the six most beautiful girls among the throng of beauties who are co-eds at the University of Iowa.

And not a one of them has bobbed hair! The 1925 Hawkeye, year book of the University of Iowa, will be issued soon with a "beauty section."

For this section, it was decided to select the most beautiful girls on the campus—and a committee of professors and students chose 15 from the hundreds of photographs, and sent the 15 to Coles Phillips, the artist.

Mr. Phillips then selected the six winners. And it is worthy of note that southwestern Iowa ranks right out in front in this list of six.

The young women, in the order of Mr. Phillips' selection are: Bernice Richardson, Perry, Ia. Helen Fair, Ottumwa, Ia. Louise Shannon, Atlantic, Ia. Mary Elizabeth Dowling, Harlan, Ia. Zora Stewart, Clariton, Ia. Esther Harding, Des Moines, Ia.

TEN MINUTES after you take Adierka it will be relieved and in two hours a complete cleansing of BOTH upper and lower bowel takes place, removing foul matter which poisoned the system for months. It is astonishing the great amount of poisonous matter Adierka draws from the alimentary canal in its QUICK action. Never thought was in your system. There is no long waiting for in ten minutes gases are expelled and in two hours a complete cleansing action takes place. It is excellent to guard against appendicitis. Sherman & McConnell.

Forests at Niobrara and Besse Will One Day Bear Useful Timber

By L. C. GRAHAM.

Gradually a forest is growing among the sandhills of Thomas county, on what was once barren plain. This is in keeping with the dreams of the men who fostered the idea of woods in districts of Nebraska that were little more than wastes a few years ago.

Approximately 20 years ago the United States government set aside a tract near Halsey as the first national forest in this section. Planting of pine trees was begun at once. Experiments were made to determine the best method of planting and the best type of trees to plant. The first experiments were disheartening. No method could be discovered whereby the seedling trees could be started well.

Now the men in charge have found a method of planting that is not only rapid but very effective. A furrow is turned with a plow. Behind the plow is attached a heavy knife that digs a shallow trench in the furrow. Men walk behind the plow setting out the seedling trees, tamping the dirt around their roots and giving the tiny plants a start in life. The work is now being carried on so rapidly that 1,000 acres of trees are set out each year.

The national forest is composed of two reservations, the Niobrara and the Besse. Each is approximately 100,000 acres in extent. During the years the forest has been under construction more than 10,000 acres of trees have been planted. Of these almost all are living today.

Insects were a source of worry for several seasons. At times the little mites that infest the forests of America threatened to wipe out the whole project. But with the opening of forestry schools and the extending of research work means of ridding these pests were discovered.

A new insect, known as the "tip" moth because of its attacks on the tips of the pine tree branches, has now made its appearance. The insect is attacking the entire forest, but its greatest damage is being done among the newest timber. Those who have met and answered other questions are now studying this one. Some parasite will be found that will prey upon this new moth.

Nebraska will see a day when, with the passing of the forests of the northwest, it will have a timber supply of its own.
