Your Problems

by Martha Allen

Patience Wins.

Dear Miss Allen: As I have no mother to advise me, I wish that you would kindly advise me in the following matter:

Last September I met a young man in the country on my vacation, who showed that he cared for me very much. I did not realize how much I loved him until after we had left each other. I have thought of him every day since then, but have not seen him since. I know where to get in touch with him if I do wish, but do you think that he would respect me if I would do that? I don't think that he is financially able to show me a lot of good times, as he is a law student and works during the day, but I do not care for a lot of good times and would be satisfied with his company.

I will be waiting anxiously for your answer.

The young man probably has neither time nor money to spend on girls, and probably thinks that it would not be fair to make any claims on your time or society since he has so little to offer. Why don't you write him a note and invite him to take tea with you some Sunday. If you make it clear that you do not want to interfere with his work or ambitions, he may feel that he can afford your friendship; but, my dear, are you ready to sit around waiting years for him to make good? Are you willing to give up society and good times while expecting success for this man? Are you satisfied to chance that a long-drawn-out romance will come to a happy consummation? If you are fairly certain of your own patience, tact and courage, you can afford to make an advance. But, otherwise, why interfere with the man's program when your self-will might easily bring trouble to both of you?

O. K.

"Thanks" Always Proper.

Dear Miss Allen: I have read much of the good advice and suggestions given to others who come to you and will surely appreciate some help for myself.

I am a senior in high school this year, and would like to know if it is proper for a graduate to write a note of thanks to the ones from whom he or she receives good advice.

I shall thank you now for what you will tell me.

DOUBTFUL V. W.

It is always proper to express thanks for a kindness done you.

Veal En Casserole.

Lay in buttered casserole 1 1/2 pounds of best veal steak cutlets. Add a cup of seasoned stock. Make a dressing of 2 cups of bread-crumbs, an onion finely chopped, 1 egg, 1 tablespoonful of melted butter, 1 teaspoonful of salt, a dash of pepper, and spread over meat. Cover and cook one-half hour in hot oven. Uncover and brown. Serve with spiced gooseberries or any tart jelly. Prepare in oval casserole; three jellies.

Frances Ellick to South America

Fremont, Neb., May 5.—Frances Ellick, 19, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Ellick, formerly of Fremont, recently sailed for South America as a member of the Paveley Operatic company of Chicago, which played at the Chicago opera the past winter, according to word received by her grandmother, Mrs. W. T. Crook of this city.

Signor Enrico Bonacchi is in charge of the company of which Miss Ellick is a member. Their first appearance will be at Rio de Janeiro, to be followed by an extensive tour through South America.

Miss Ellick is a dancer of considerable talent. When her parents resided in Omaha, she began her lessons under Miss Mary Cooper and later continued her studies in Chicago.

"They Are Wearing"

An off-shade of blue gray made an A suede turban was of gold color, studded with bronze nail heads.

Dutch children are dressed in exactly the same style as their parents.

A heavy roll of silver tissue mounted on a curving bandeau of the same material was worn at one of the premieres of the week, but bandeaux are not general.

The jeune fille with her wore a suit of yellow beige with which she carried, but did not wear, a sable animal scarf. Both wore tricornes matching the color of their suits.

A smartly costumed woman wore a navy charmeen suit with hip length cape attached to the collar by five rows of shirring which formed a shallow yoke effect. Her black Milan hat had two ends at the right side of accordion pleated chiffon, one red, the other white.

For the Fastidious.

One of the first things about which a particular woman is especially particular is her personal stationery. It must be smart and it must conform to her code of good taste.

"Feather Edge" letter paper is ideal for the ordinary uses of social correspondence. The medium rough paper in large size with deckled edge, and the square flapped envelopes to match, are distinctive. For color, colonial buff, granite gray, or white, is equally correct.

Spinet Desk Charming Gift.

A spinet desk is a charming gift for the young housewife. So many women have no place to put their correspondence except odd corners. These desks, resembling the old spinet on which the maiden of long ago accompanied herself when she sang the old, sweet songs, is an ornament to the living room or library and a very useful, almost necessary, adjunct of the modern home.

To Whiten Skin with Lemon

The only harmless way to bleach the skin white is to mix the juice of two lemons with three ounces of Orchard White, which any druggist will supply for a few cents. Shake well in a bottle, and you will have a whole quarter-pint of the most wonderful skin whiter, softer and beautifier.

Massage this sweetly fragrant lemon bleach into the face, neck, arms and hands. It can not irritate. Famous stage beauties use it to bring that clear, youthful skin and rosy-white complexion; also as a freckle, sunburn and tan bleach. You must mix this remarkable lotion yourself. It can not be bought ready to use because it acts best immediately after it is prepared.

High Cost of Living.

The average householder is spending 47 per cent more to set his table now than in prewar times, it is shown by the latest price investigation completed by the United States department of labor. The investigation covered all the principal cities of the United States and deals with prices of common articles of food in retail or neighboring stores as they stood during February. At the same time the department conducted a nationwide investigation of prices of food in wholesale markets. These prices were shown to average 43 per cent above the prewar level.

The busy man—or woman either—rarely has time to clean the teeth after eating. Yet they should be cleaned, and
