

Winners Elated, Losers Satisfied, at Vote Outcome

"We Got Over in Fine Shape," Says Mayor; Butler to Continue His Fight.

The mayor and city commissioners who were re-elected on Tuesday relaxed Wednesday morning after the city campaign.

"We got over in fine shape. It was a dandy fight," the mayor said. "I feel the election was an endorsement of the administration. It was a great compliment to myself and associates."

"I intend to fight for the same principles and policies I have stood for in the past," was a statement by Commissioner D. B. Butler, re-elected. "I will not change my course in the council. I will fight for law enforcement and economy in city government. The people spoke. My statements were voted. The people should take more interest in city affairs."

"I thank the people," said Commissioner Hummel. "They appreciate service and efficiency which we have given them in the park department."

"The results were gratifying and show that notwithstanding false statements which are circulated a public official will succeed if his previous record is clean," said Commissioner Koutsky.

Commissioner Dunn said he thanked the people who supported him and added that the voters were not stampeded by "slush."

"The election showed that the people appreciate honest and efficient service in city government. I thank my friends," said Commissioner Hopkins.

Dean Noyes, in charge of the street department, stated that he wished to thank his friends for their fine support. "I am convinced that people appreciate the service my department has given in keeping the streets clean and repaired. We will endeavor to give this same efficient service during the next three years."

Those who failed of election also spoke:

T. P. Reynolds—"I rather expected defeat, considering three slates in the field and two independent candidates."

T. F. Stroud—"I am feeling fine. I am entirely satisfied. My family is satisfied. Everybody is satisfied. It is lovely weather. We got what we wanted. Let us have what we want."

R. J. Sutton—"So many things might be said and they would not look nice in print. I am still able

Symphony Conductor Praises Omaha Talent; Orchestra Asset to City

Enthusiasm for Omaha's musicians who will make up the Omaha Symphony orchestra on the occasion of its first concert Friday night at the Auditorium, is outstanding among the impressions to which Engelbert Roentgen, guest conductor, has given voice since his arrival Monday.

He has been rehearsing the orchestra every day this week from 9 in the morning until 1 in the afternoon, and has expressed himself as highly gratified with the results.

"I believe Omaha will have the surprise of its life at the concert Friday," he declared. "Its symphony orchestra contains some of the finest material I have ever encountered in any city. Even now the ensemble is wonderful, and the intonation is perfect. Every day there is improvement.

"It will be a great pity if Omaha does not support the orchestra permanently, not only for the artists it would attract, but for its cultural, and even its advertising value."

Mr. Roentgen left the Minneapolis symphony orchestra on tour in New Orleans, and will rejoin the organization at Salina, Kan., next Sunday. He declared that members of the orchestra on tour frequently are asked about Minneapolis.

AURORA WARS ON DANDELION PEST

Aurora, Neb., May 7.—Aurora Chamber of Commerce has decided to make next week clean up week on dandelions in Aurora. A committee composed of T. E. Williams, chairman; C. A. Carlson, George L. Burr, C. S. Brown and P. E. Edgerton, has planned a program.

The schools have been asked to eliminate the dandelions from the school grounds Monday. Tuesday the business men under four captains from the four sides of the square will eradicate the dandelions from the courthouse grounds. Wednesday the churches will eradicate the pest from their grounds. Thursday, Friday and Saturday each household will make the attack on the home grounds.

It is hoped by the committee and the Chamber of Commerce that by Saturday night the dandelions in Aurora will be largely eradicated. Workers will spray the dandelions along the streets with sulphate of iron. A half page ad in each local newspaper will advise the people of the campaign and of the best means for eradicating the dandelion from the lawns.

POLICE TRACING POISONED CANDY

Chicago, May 7.—A bar of candy, its wrapper and seal apparently intact, but actually containing enough paris green and arsenic to kill three persons, today sent police and detectives in search of a poisoner whose intended victims, it is believed, were the two little sons of Nicholas C. Wagner of Park Ridge.

Wagner found the candy in his yard last Saturday. Suspicious of what it might be, he took it to Chief of Police Duvall of Park Ridge.

An analysis was made today and revealed that poison had been inserted through three small holes in the wrapper.

BUSINESS MAN ON TRIAL FOR ARSON

Grand Island, Neb., May 7.—The trial of Frank Olsen, Grand Island business man accused of arson, is in progress at Ord, where the alleged crime was committed. The witnesses so far placed on the stand testified as to the contents—gasoline—of the can found in Olsen's sales barn, fire in which was discovered by the night marshal in time to extinguish it in its incipency.

Edward Anderson, the youth, who confessed to the officers that he was bribed by Olsen to set the barn afire, repeated the confession on the stand.
