and a sector a sector a state of a state of the state of a state

Here is an attractive one-story bungalow. Or rather it is the one-story-and-a-half type of bungalow. It beasts of five rooms on the first floor and an attic. Across the front of the house is a porch, built as wide as possible to assure the maximum amount of comfort for warm weather. The porch is so designed that it may be glassed in winter to add another room to the home.

Down the center of the house, from front to rear, runs a hallway. This hall is designed to make it possible to move from one room to another without disturbing other occupants of the place

The hall is especially constructed to accommodate a stairway, should a room in the attic be contemplated. These plans are followed extensively by the Benson & Carmichael Company, 642 Paxton Block,
