

Former Teacher in Omaha Schools Is Happy, Though Now an Invalid

Loses Athletic Vigor, But Enjoys Work Among Foreign Students.

By J. F. ARMSTRONG. Ten years ago Miss Kraus was an athletic, out-door girl, the kind of a girl who radiates good cheer and laughs happily on slight provocation.

Carrie Kraus.

The accident occurred in 1917. Miss Kraus was bathing at Lake Okoboji. Laughing sayly, she started to slide down the long, slippery chute into the lake. Her arm struck against one of the braces at the side of it. A triple fracture resulted, and when she struck the water she was helpless.

Spinal Trouble Result. A young man with whom she had been swimming rescued her. But a doctor was hard to find, and finally she was brought to Omaha without having received medical treatment.

These young people from abroad are so eager to learn, and the word that I was willing to help them with their English traveled rapidly.

Finds Pupils Interesting. "The work doesn't tire me, either, although I am not strong. It is so interesting, and my pupils are so thankful. In my class now are two women from Russia, one of whom is married. Then there is a young man named Emil Koska, who speaks four languages and is a graduate of a continental university. I have to be very careful of my own English when these pupils are here."

Miss Kraus has had her hair bobbed. She likes bobbed hair, and sees no reason why she shouldn't enjoy its comforts as well as others.

"Of course I still have hope that some physician may cure me," concluded Miss Kraus. "But I am not building my happiness on that hope. One can be happy after realizing that happiness is a state of mind. And I am happy."

Moreover, her parents are Bohemian, and she spoke that language fluently. She also spoke German. She is a graduate of Peru Normal school, and at the time she was injured was a teacher in the Omaha schools.

So, instead of folding her hands in hopeless resignation, she began teaching the young men and women the English language, throwing in a dash of Americanism whenever possible.

"There wasn't any trouble getting pupils," explained Miss Kraus.

QUICK RELIEF FOR INDIGESTION KI-MOIDS

Combing Won't Rid Hair of Dandruff The only sure way to get rid of dandruff is to dissolve it, then you destroy it entirely. To do this, get about four ounces of ordinary liquid arvon; apply it at night when retiring; use enough to moisten the scalp and rub it in gently with the finger tips. Do this tonight, and by morning, most if not all of your dandruff will be gone and two or three applications will completely dissolve and entirely destroy every single sign and trace of it, no matter how much dandruff you may have. You will find, too, that all itching and digging of the scalp will stop at once, and your hair will be fluffy, lustrous, glossy, silky and soft, and look and feel a hundred times better. You can get liquid arvon at any drug store and it never fails to do the work.
