Costume of One Shade With Matching Hose and Shoes Now the Correct Thing

nearly so as may be. Hose of flesh or near flesh, or of contrasting hue Arbor. This amount was realized in with the gown, a mode which has reached such a height of popularity in a ten-day campaign by the underthe last few months, are now on the rapid decline, according to latest graduates and represents pledges by radiograms from Paris. "The gown and its accompaniments must match," is the edict. A frock of beige or gray must have hose and shoes to match. the shoes being preferably of suede in the simple strap patterns, though there are lovely imported kid skins that match the lighter wood tones of

The black gown, or one of black and white, is considered more distictive now when with it is worn a black kid slipper and sheer, black or gun metal hose. An ultra smart effect is achieved when white hose are worn with the black footwear.

With white shoes, delicately tinted hose matching the dainty summer gowns, are favored. Among the more popular shades are powder blue, atmosphere, sunburn, peche, peau, jonquil, orchid, illusion and moresque. Casual observation will show how quickly the latest dictates of fashion are expressed in Omaha. The entirely matching costume, though yet so new, is being worn by many of the city's smart dressers and particularly by women who have recently returned from the east.
