Gas Price War Under Way Here

Stations Cut to 17 Cents and Commissioner Hopkins Announces Reduction to 15.

Elrod - Howell Follows

Despite an announcement by Commissioner John Hopkins that he would reply to a 17-cent gasoline price at filling stations by reducing the price at the city filling station to 15 cents a gallon, his station was still selling fuel for 17 cents last night.

The Elrod-Howell station, adjacent to the municipal station, was selling gasoline at 15 cents, however.

Hopkins' announcement followed a slash in prices throughout the city to 17 cents and was believed to be the forerunner of a "gas war," although big distributors indicate that they have reached their low mark.

Local officers of the various companies issued statements, either oral or written, to the effect that they would lose money selling the gas at 17 cents, basing this claim on the fact that while the municipal station has little overhead expense and furnishes no service to motorists, the privately owned filling stations have to deal with high overhead expenses, including taxes, and in addition that give motorists considerable extra service.

In reply to these claims Commissioner Hopkins said:

"We have no desire to put other filling stations out of business. We are proceeding on the theory that these filling stations can make a profit selling gas as low as 15 cents."

Only in Omaha.

A. B. Richardson, president of Standard Oil company of Nebraska explained that the price cut applied only in Omaha, and that it was made to meet a local emergency.

"Effective Tuesday our price on high test gasoline at all service stations in Omaha is 17 cents a gallon," said President Richardson. "Out only reason for making this price, at this time, is to meet existing competition, to protect our business and to protect our customers."

"We are in the oil business exclusively and have organized and operated our business so as to give all consumers of gasoline and oil the best service, at the most conveniently located points, at the lowest price consistent with so handling our business."

Hopkins claims victory.

"This company contemplates this situation with much concern, but we expect to continue as far as possible, in the future, as in the past, to give our patrons the best service at the lowest price as they can get from any legitimate competitor. We hope the present unusual conditions will only be temporary."

"The fact that this price reduction applies only to Omaha indicates a big victory for us," said Hopkins. "Priced at 15 cents a gallon, gas is selling about as it should."

To meet competition.

"We cut the price to meet competition," was the explanation of Stockton Heth, treasurer and manager of the Nicholas Oil corporation. "However, taking into consideration the overhead expense which is necessary to give the public real service such as air for tires, water for radiators, water for batteries, etc.—in addition to taxes and upkeep on conveniently located stations, managed by cautious, efficient men who render the auto owner prompt service, eliminating waste of time—gasoline marketed at this price will be at a loss."

The Nicholas Oil corporation stands for constructive rather than destructive methods and is 100 per cent for a gallon Omaha."

"The oilmen's price on gas is about 10 cents a gallon today," said Hopkins. "I wouldn't want to contradict the officials of these companies, but with a good, sharp pencil, it can soon be ascertained that the filling stations can sell their gas at 15 cents, and not suffer a loss."

Howell Renews Attack on Farm Board Members

Nebraska Senator Flays Appointment of Former Chairman—Asserts Books in Poor Shape.

Washington, May 20.—The fight against the nominations of members of the federal farm loan board by the late President Harding was renewed late today by Senator Howell, republican, Nebraska, this time on the floor of the senate, after the nominations had been favorably reported by the banking committee.

Entering a series of charges involving the conduct of the board and declaring the question had arisen as to whether the "senate could afford to put its stamp of approval on the methods" of administration adopted by the board, the Nebraska senator was met with the assertion by Senator Glass, democrat, Virginia, a member of the committee, that the nominations had been approved after a complete hearing.

The nominees—Lewis J. Pettijohn of Kansas, Elmer S. Landes of Ohio, Merton L. Cory of Nebraska and Edward E. Jones of Pennsylvania—were given recess appointment a year ago by President Harding and their names were sent to the senate last December by President Coolidge.

Violation charged.

Senator Howell charged there had been "a violation of a cardinal principle of public policy" which should be assessed against the board in the matter of the appointment of Charles E. Lobdell, its former chairman, to the post of fiscal agent, at a salary of $25,000 per year. This action he declared was "unlawful procedure in the creation of a new official."

Other charges included:

"Looseness and gross misconduct of affairs in the board, indicating incompetence," and evidenced by the lack of books of account.

Senator Glass again declared the hearings had been closed only after Senator Howell had been asked if he "had any new questions to present."

"Books Merely Analyzed."

"The senator had gone," Senator Glass said. "If he will present them now, we will go further."

Answering Senator Dial, democrat, South Carolina, Senator Howell said there has as yet been no audit of the board's account books—merely an analysis of them.

"I am not making any charges of dishonesty," he added. "When I asked for a statement, the board sent one which would not balance. I sent it back and it took them two weeks to make it balance."

"But it did balance?" persisted Senator Dial.

"If you will accept the statement that we received so much and spent so much, of course it balanced."

Bond Fixed For Alleged Bribe Taker

Thomas County Attorney Pleads "Not Guilty" to Charge of Soliciting Money.

"I'm Ruined," He States

Ivan D. Evans, county attorney of Thomas county, charged with soliciting and accepting a $10,000 bribe from E. V. Svoboda, cashier of the Security State bank, South Omaha, was released Tuesday afternoon on $1,500 bond.

Evans entered a plea of not guilty when arraigned.

He was arrested at 6:30 Monday night in his room in the Harley hotel by Sheriff Endres and Deputy Sheriff Phillips, accompanied by County Attorney Beal and Deputy Gross.

Ten thousand dollars in marked $100 bills was taken from him when he was arrested. Svoboda told County Attorney Beal Monday that Evans came from Theford and informed him he possessed papers, secured from the failed Theford State bank, which would incriminate Svoboda and his bank, and offered to quiet the case for $10,000. Svoboda said.

Marked Bills Trap.

A trap was laid. Sheriff Endres was provided with a warrant. Svoboda obtained the money and the party went to the Harley hotel. Svoboda walked into Evans' room and laid the money. Then entered Phillips and said: "Where did you get that money?"

"I haven't any money," Evans is alleged to have replied.

"Stick up your hands," said Phillips. Evans refused.

Phillips drew his gun and repeated the demand. Evans complied.

The money was taken from his hip pocket. He was taken to the county jail.

W. E. Myers, official of another bank in Theford, was also taken to the county attorney's office but released. He said he and Evans came to Omaha to get a statement from the bank.

Has Wife and Baby.

Evans' voice trembled as he spoke in the county jail Tuesday. He is a tall, tanned, pleasant-faced man of 29 with a wife and a 17-month-old baby in Theford.

"It will be hard on your wife," someone said.

"Not as hard as it will be on father," he replied. His father is John T. Evans, a lawyer. They are together in the firm of Evans & Evans. Young Evans is in his second term as county attorney.

He asked County Attorney Beal to fix bond right after the arrest.

Bond at $1,500.

"What bond would you fix on me if I were in your place in your county?" inquired Mr. Beal.

"You wouldn't be in my place," replied Evans. Then he added: "I might as well go through. I'm ruined. If I got a million years I couldn't be ruined any worse."

Bond was fixed at $1,500. Beal offered to write Mr. Evans.

"No, don't do that," said the young man. "I can't bear to do that."

Evans married Lucetta Norris, 19, of Theford, in Omaha March 22, 1922. He was a sergeant in the army and has been adjutant of the Theford American Legion. He attended Creighton Law school.

Looking for Author of Report That He Had Been Murdered

O'Neill, Neb., May 20.—J. S. Jackson, editor and publisher of the Inman Leader and postmaster at Inman, published in last Thursday's issue of the Leader a general denial of his death, an account of which had appeared in the Bonesteel (S. D.) Enterprise. Editor George H. Cross of the Bonesteel Enterprise, after the receipt of a letter from Editor Jackson denying that he is dead, last week retracted the death notice, but not the nice things said about the Inman editor in the obituary notice.

Mr. Jackson first heard of his reported death when a telegram was received at Inman from South Dakota friends inquiring how he was killed. Other messages continued in pour in from Bonesteel, where Mr. Jackson once was publisher of the Gregory County Pilot and also a member of the Bonesteel city council. Mr. Jackson got a copy of the Bonesteel Enterprise of May 1 and was horrified to find in it that his body had been found in a thicket of trees a few days before with the head crushed in and the throat cut. Also that he had received a considerable sum of money on the day of the tragedy and that his empty purse was found a short distance from his body.

The implied motive of robbery convinced Mr. Jackson that he had not been murdered and he immediately notified the Bonesteel editor to that effect. In reply he was informed that a letter saying that he had been murdered and signed Mrs. Jackson had been responsible for the story. Now Editor Jackson and Mrs. Jackson are hunting for the letter writer.

Nebraskan Near Fight in Congress

Colleagues Restrain Representative Howard From Attacking McLafferty, Accused of Insult.

Walks From House Floor

By P. C. POWELL. Staff Correspondent The Omaha Bee.

Washington, May 20.—Two congressmen held Edgar Howard on the floor of the house today to keep him from hitting Congressman McLafferty of California, republican.

McLafferty, according to Howard, had passed insulting words to the Nebraskan.

The trouble started early when the house was following its usual custom of holding conferences before beginning the business of the day. Consideration of the McNary-Haugen arm relief bill was scheduled after the routine business.

"How about agriculture?" Howard asked the speaker several times. Finally, the Nebraskan arose and said: "Mr. Speaker, for the sake of agriculture, I make a point of order of a quorum."

A number of congressmen surrounded Howard immediately leaving him not to delay conclusion of routine work. Among them was McLafferty.

Howard was obdurate. McLafferty asked away muttering in Howard's ear.

"What's that?" Howard shouted and walked through the aisle after the seating California.

Yields to "Gentleman."

Other congressmen grabbed the Nebraskan's coat (tail and collar) pulled his coat off.

Mr. Speaker, I yield my point of order to a gentleman," Howard yielded. "As for personalities, I'll look them here but will make no compromise as to what I shall do off the floor of the house."

Howard rearranged his ruffled appearance and walked from the floor. McLafferty remained in his seat.

Washington, May 20.—Republican members of the senate foreign relations committee, faced with a democratic threat to force senate action on the world court question before adjournment of congress, gathered at the White House tonight to talk over the whole matter with President Coolidge.

The visit to the White House of the republican members, headed by Senator Lodge of Massachusetts, the committee chairman, and himself the author of a world court proposal, was preliminary to a meeting of the full committee tomorrow on the world court question.

This committee meeting was called by Chairman Lodge several days ago at the request of Senator Swanson of Virginia, ranking democratic member, who indicated in a public announcement that unless some action was taken he would move to discharge the committee, thereby bringing the world court question to the senate floor.

Senator Lodge, after calling the committee meeting, informed the president that republican members desired to consult with him as to the course of action to be pursued and tonight's conference accordingly was arranged. The meeting was presided by a lengthy conference between the president and Secretary Hughes.

Three world court plans are before the foreign relations committee and Senator Pepper of Pennsylvania, a republican member, was understood to have prepared for discussion at tonight's conference an outline of a compromise proposal on which he has been at work.

Mysterious Death Being Investigated

J. R. Burks Beaten With a Hammer and Strangled—Roomers at House Questioned.

Jealousy Theory Probed

Beatrice, Neb., May 20.—John R. Burks, Chicago rooming house proprietor, who was reported beaten and strangled to death there today, was the son of James Burks, pioneer Beatrice business man and for a generation prominent in democratic political circles.

The son, while a resident of Omaha some years ago, attempted suicide by slashing his throat with the jagged edge of a broken bottle. He was 47, single and leaves a sister, Mrs. Harley, Lincoln, Neb.

By Universal Service. Chicago, May 20.—Upon the findings of a chemist making an analysis of reddish brown stains on the shirt of Harry Marks, authorities today pinned their hopes of solving the hammer slaying of J. R. Burks' wealthy real estate owner.

Burks, a former student at the University of Nebraska, was found in his room in his three-story apartment house which he had converted into a rooming house. His head had been crushed with a hammer and a lace curtain wound tightly about his throat.

Nine roomers in the Burks house, two of them women, were taken into custody for questioning.

Wife Tells of Quarrel.

Among them is the pretty wife of Marks, found suffering from a fresh bruise over her eye.

"My husband and I quarreled," Mrs. Marks said, "and Iburks came into our room and separated us. I tried to commit suicide by drinking iodine."

It was thus she explained the reddish brown spots on her husband's shirt. In the quarrel, she said, her husband struck her.

Mrs. Marks admitted her husband was jealous and had accused her of receiving attentions from other men, including Burks, authorities said.

Robbery Theory.

Investigators also entertain the theory that Burks may have been the victim of a robber, as his roomers paid their rent last night and when his body was discovered no money was found in the pockets.

Two men, stating they were classmates of the slain man, but refusing to give their names, arranged for his funeral. They said Burks attended Nebraska university in 1895, but had not graduated.

An inquest is to be held tomorrow morning at which the report of the chemist is to be adduced, the authorities said.
