

German Singers to Give Concert Thursday

These are the German singers of Omaha, members of the Omaha Musikverein, who will take part in the Diamond Jubilee Saengerfest of the North American Saengerbund to be held in Chicago on June 11th, 12th, 13th and 14th.

Before going to Chicago to attend the Jubilee Saengerfest, the German singers of Omaha will give a grand concert in Krug Park on Thursday, June 5th. A number of the songs to be rendered by the chorus in Chicago will be given here in Omaha at that time. Extended preparations have been made to make this occasion in Krug Park one of the most successful ever held there. The chorus of the Omaha Musik Verein now numbers over one hundred trained voices, and is directed by Theo. Bud Reese, well known local conductor and composer. This local Saengerfest has been extensively advertised, not only in Omaha, but in surrounding cities, and a large attendance is expected.

This chorus gave a very successful concert at the University Temple theater at Lincoln, Nebraska, on May 28th.

Swimming Pool Attracts Thousands; Artificial Waves Delight Bathers

Swimming—the ideal summer sport—attracts many thousands of people to Krug Park each year.

Constructed according to the latest designs in pool engineering, the Krug Park pool was declared at the time of its construction to be the most modern and the finest appointed concrete pool in the United States. Complete in every detail, the pool itself is as large as a small lake with a shelving beach of real sand that extends down into the water itself.

Particular attention was given to the matter of the purity of the water. Exhaustive tests of methods of purifying large quantities of water were made and an immense plant, capable of turning hundreds of thousands of gallons of water, as pure as chemists, electricians, aerating experts and sanitation engineers could devise, was installed and to date it has never failed a single day.

At the west end of the pool a beautiful cascade of fresh water pours into the pool continuously. Suction pipes draw off the older water from the center of the pool and send it back through the plant to be remade again.

A wave machine, powerful enough to create rollers that wash the far beaches is situated on the bathhouse side. Swimmers take a keen delight in swimming up close to it to get the full force of the waves.

Nothing was left undone to make the bathhouse complete in every way and to equip it so that it handles large crowds easily and with dispatch. The system provides for quarters for men, women and children, and the capacities of the establishment, although often taxed to full amount, are sufficient so that all are accommodated in a few minutes.

Cascades Serve Purpose.

Contrary to the public's belief that the cascades at Krug Park were installed to add an artistic touch to the pool, the actual purpose of these cascades is to expose the water to the sunlight.

The cascade pump circulates over the steps of the cascade 120,000 gallons of water each hour, or the entire capacity of the pool in less than eight hours. Aside from the fact that the water is freshened by being aerated and sun-rayed, the cascade adds a picturesque touch to the pool.

Amusement parks have almost driven the traveling carnival out of business, as far as good sized towns are concerned.
