Women at Republican Convention

Mrs. Edgar B. Penney—Mrs. Draper Smith

It is expected that 1,000 women will be at the republican national convention in Cleveland, 425 of whom will be women delegates and alternates. The total number to date of women delegates is 121 and of alternates is 255. No returns have been received from one state and the returns from several states are incomplete.

In addition to the women delegates there will be present the women members of the republican national executive committee and associate members of the republican national committee.

Mrs. Draper Smith of Omaha is delegate-at-large to the republican convention.

Mrs. Edgar B. Penney is national republican associate member from Nebraska.

Many nationally known women are found among the official list: Mrs. Charles Sumner Bird of Massachusetts, one of the women members at the conference on limitation of armaments; Mrs. Douglas Robinson of New York, sister of President Roosevelt; Mrs. Charles H. Sahin, president of the Women's National Republican club; Mrs. Medill McCormick of Illinois.

Mrs. Harriet Taylor Upton, vice chairman of the republican national executive committee, who has been in charge of the women's activities with headquarters in Washington, and Mrs. Leonard G. Woods of Pittsburgh, vice chairman of the republican national committee, will arrive in Cleveland, June 1, and will be in charge of the women's national headquarters during the convention.

(Mrs. Woods is the wife of a Pittsburgh manufacturer. She is very often mistaken to be the wife of General Woods.)

The republican national committee will entertain at tea every afternoon at the Hollenden hotel, beginning with Saturday afternoon, June 7. Mrs. Leonard G. Woods, vice chairman of the committee, will be in charge of these teas.

A dinner will be given by the women's committee of 50 in honor of the associate members of the national committee and women members of the national executive committee on Saturday or Monday evening preceding the convention.

A sail on Lake Erie is being arranged by the general entertainment committee. There will be special showing at several theaters and many other special events.

Mrs. William Grainger of New Orleans is the guest of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. E. W. Taylor.

Golfers Go to Lincoln

Wednesday will be open day for women golfers at the Lincoln Country club, and many Omaha women plan to motor down. Among them are, Mesdames Carl Lininger, Howard Goodrich, Walter Silver, Clifford Calkins, E. V. Arnold, Blaine Young, M. M. Levings, Maynard Swartz, Victor Roos, C. R. Jewell, J. J. McMahon, Will Platner, Louis Clarke, Glenn Wharton, Walter Roberts, John Redick, George Redick, J. E. Megeath, W. F. Megeath and Henry Bohling.

The gymnasium class luncheon and bridge party scheduled for Wednesday at the Field club will be postponed one week, owing to the Lincoln open day.

Will Spend Summer in Honolulu

Miss Jenn Palmer, who graduates this week as president of her class from Bryn Mawr, will return to Omaha in three weeks, bringing with her Miss Martha Cooke. Later they will leave to spend the summer in Miss Cooke's home in Honolulu. Miss Palmer will return to Omaha in October.

Her mother, Mrs. George Palmer, who has been in the east for the commencement exercises, will return to Omaha next week.

Mrs. Benjamin Harwood and daughter of New York, are guests of Miss Louise Dietz at the Blackstone.

none of them care to go with you any more.

My dear friend: I am working in an office and one of the men, who is much older, has taken a liking to me. His wife is going away next week and he has asked to take me out with him. Would it be all right for me to go with him? I get lonesome. I am not in love with him. NELLIE.

You are in a very dangerous situation and don't seem to realize it. Married men who ask young business girls to go places with him when the wife is away are bad men, and girls who associate with them suffer. They lose their reputations, if nothing worse. I wish I could say words strong enough to make you realize your mistake if you go with him. You would much rather go with a nice young man your own age. Wait for him and let this other man know you are not deceived by his objectionable attention.

Your Problems

By Martha Allen

My girl wants to superintend my ties and select the cloth for my suits. She thinks she owns me. Now, I've passed the word along and most of the fellows I know tell the same story. It makes some of them sore and makes some of them grin, but all of them wonder how it is that when a fellow is about 25, goes around with a girl of about 20 (object matrimony) she thinks she has to run him and tell him how to do a lot of things he managed to handle very well before he set eyes on her.

What puzzles me is whether after marriage this going to develop into nagging, or whether it is just a girl's way when she likes to show the world that she's got a fellow lashed to the mast. Will you supply the answer, Martha Allen?

The girl "thinks"—she doesn't know, but imagines and so fortifies her own doubts by acting twice as sure as she really is! Perhaps she wants to parade her conquest before the world and her own uncertain heart. This may well be why she fusses a bit and advises a bit and does all in her power to make you and herself feel that you are dependent on her.

The average fine woman just has to "mother" a man a bit when she cares for him tenderly and sweetly. So, since a girl can't cook your meals and regulate your home life, she eagerly handles a few details that come within her grasp and scope. She isn't necessary to you, and so she makes a great to-do about the little things where she is able to persuade herself that her judgment will help you.

Dear Miss Allen: I am 17 and have gone with boys some, but don't care for them. They keep on asking me to go to places and I tell them I don't want to. How can I stop them? TROUBLED.

I don't understand you. Most girls of 17 enjoy the company of boys about their own age. When they say they don't, I think either they are not telling me the truth or they are different from the average girl. I am inclined to think you are not telling me the truth, for if you were just "different" you wouldn't be enough interested to write me for advice. But if you are sincere, and don't want to go with the boys, just tell them so, simply and kindly, and they will soon come to know that it is no use to ask you. But beware. You may be sorry if

Tech High Open for Inspection

Visitors Shown About New School This Week; Musical Programs.

Open house was held Monday at Technical High school to give parents of students an opportunity to see just what kind of an institution their children are attending.

The occasion marked the first day of the week that has been set aside for the dedication of the school. Each day the building will be opened to the public, guides will be furnished, and every part of the institution will be shown and explained.

The dedication services are to be held Thursday. On that day a special program will be given in which more than 1,000 students will take part.

Visitors Monday were escorted about the building. The musical organizations of the school took turns in putting on programs in the auditorium.

Throughout the morning each musical group in the school gathered at the auditorium for one period and furnished music for the visitors. The band played, the Glee club sang and the orchestra played.

A fair crowd visited the school early in the day. A larger attendance was expected in the afternoon.

Misner Summer School

The Misner School of the Spoken Word opened summer school Monday with its largest summer enrollment. A large percentage of the enrollment is made up of high school teachers taking this course in order to supplement their regular teachers' course.

About June 10 a company of students will leave for a 12 weeks' chautauqua tour, traveling throughout Minnesota, Nebraska, Iowa, Illinois, Missouri and Indiana.

Wesleyan Rites to Be on June 3

The 35th annual commencement season at Nebraska Wesleyan is now on. The baccalaureate sermon was given Sunday morning and the university sermon Sunday evening at the First Methodist church.

Class day exercises will be held June 2 on the campus. Tuesday morning commencement exercises will be held with the graduation address delivered by Rev. M. S. Rice of Detroit, Mich.

Summer School

School of Individual Instruction summer session will open Monday, June 9, for private pupils and Monday, June 16, to public schools, positively limited to 50 pupils. This school has proved that it can teach boys and girls how to study.

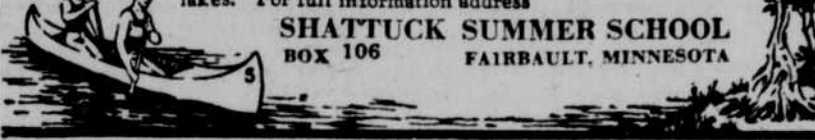

"The school is not seeking to expand," says Mrs. Pratt, "it prefers to enrich in quality of work. More than 100 boys and girls of all ages and in all grades attended the fall, winter and spring sessions. There were 15 seniors and 22 eighth grade pupils graduated this year."

Open June 9 for Private School Pupils Open June 16 for Public School Pupils

We bring work up to standard, complete one full semester, or prepare the way for the next term. We do not experiment. We feature the old-fashioned fundamentals. We have proved that 10 in a class can learn more than 30 in a class. We eliminate mental strain by carefully explaining assignments. We teach pupils how to study. We co-operate with the public schools and the public schools co-operate with us. Every pupil recites every lesson every day. Boys and girls in all grades and high school. Hours 9-12.

Van Sant Opens Summer Session

The last two weeks have been busy ones at the Van Sant School of Business for girls and women, enrolling new pupils for the summer session which starts June 2, and in placing many graduates, for whom there have been more calls than they have been able to send on account of several of them being out of town when calls come in. The Van Sant school takes pride in the fact that it has no trouble in finding positions for its graduates. This school graduates pupils each month.

Miss Duffly says that one firm in Omaha for the last 20 years has recruited its office force from the Van Sant school.

University Training for Business

Creighton University College of Commerce, Finance and Journalism offers work in nine specialized departments. Each of these departments is under the direct supervision of its own Advisory Board, made up of men who are leaders in their special field of business. These Advisory Boards act as the student advisors, furnish actual business problems, and serve to keep each department functioning as a practical business institution.

SALES MANAGEMENT For those wanting to enter sales and sales management work in any commercial and industrial field well in advance of those who must learn while working.

ADVERTISING MANAGEMENT A well-grounded, thorough training for advertising agency, retail, wholesale, newspaper and industrial advertising work.

RETAIL MANAGEMENT Training for prospective owners, managers, controllers, department heads, superintendents, etc. of any retail business.

ACCOUNTING This department offers the work necessary for commercial, industrial and governmental accountants, cost accountants, public accountants, treasurers and auditors.

JOURNALISM An exceptional course for those wanting a thorough training for metropolitan, small-city and weekly journalism in any department of the newspaper.

BUSINESS ADMINISTRATION A general course in commercial management for those who anticipate becoming business heads and who do not wish to specialize in any particular field of work.

BANKING AND FINANCE Collegiate training for prospective bankers, commercial and industrial financial directors, treasurers, brokers, etc.

SECRETARIAL SCIENCE A comprehensive and thorough training for secretarial work and commercial teaching.

PRE-COMMERCE COURSE A two-year commercial school training of collegiate grade plus additional work in allied subjects that gives the student who cannot attend a four-year course a broad but complete business preparation for commercial work.

This course approved as the two years of a college course necessary to enter the college of law.

Either day or evening courses lead to degrees of Bachelor of Commercial Science or Bachelor of Science in Journalism. Write or call for personal interview. D. R. Harmon, Secretary, 1228 First National Bank Bldg. Telephone A-7413.
