

Objective of Farm Engineer Outlined by South Dakotan

Tries to "Help and Encourage Judicious Spending of Money, R. L. Patty Tells Meeting.

Lincoln, Neb., June 20.—The aim and objective of agricultural engineering in extension work through the state colleges and departments of agriculture is to "help and encourage the judicious and efficient spending of money for farm improvements and farm equipment," according to R. L. Patty, state agricultural extension agent in engineering in South Dakota. Patty expressed this aim in addressing the meeting of the American Society of Agricultural Engineers, meeting here tonight.

In opening his address the speaker declared that extension work in agricultural engineering offers the greatest field of service in any line of agricultural engineering. He declared that although sometimes the engineers on the extension staffs feel "blue over inability to get the work across as well as we should," when they view the projects completed and saving farmers money and land and livestock they "feel like real missionaries."

Cites Two Cases
He then cited "two extreme cases in South Dakota," in which two farmers, although both using modern methods were making anything but equal profit. They both have the same amount of land and practically the same chances for making money on the farm, he said. However, one farmer is able to afford a few luxuries while the other is practically poverty-stricken. This he said, was due to the latter's inability to spend his money judiciously.

"A glance around the places will tell the story," he said. "On one place you will find poorly planned and freakish buildings, cast-off equipment that was worthless or wasn't needed and there is waste everywhere. On the other farm every building and every piece of equipment is 100 per cent efficient and scarcely a dollar has been wasted."

Convention Closes
The last census showed an expenditure of eleven and one-half million dollars for farm buildings, he continued. "The annual expenditure should be around five hundred million dollars," he said.

This more efficient building cannot be accomplished in one year, but it can be done and is being done through the demonstrations and service of the county agents and engineers, he said. Mr. Patty declared that the majority of commercial interests were helping greatly in this efficiency program.

The convention closed this evening following inspection of the office methods used in the Nebraska agricultural extension service.

LAW TO TAKE HAND IN GASOLINE WAR

Lincoln, June 20.—Threats of a gas war, dissimilar to that now being fought in Omaha in that it is to be waged with the weapons of legal jurisprudence instead of the price-cutting ax today loomed in the offering for Lincoln.

M. B. Atkins, head of the A. B. A. Independent Oil Company of Nebraska, calling at the state house this morning, emulated Paul Revere by warning of the approaching conflict.

An injunction suit to prevent the state of Nebraska from selling petroleum to the public will be brought in behalf of Lincoln citizens and taxpayers who object to use of state funds for purchasing the fuel, Mr. Atkins said.

Demand for Harvest Hands Less Than in Former Years

Columbus, Neb., June 20.—The Columbus Chamber of Commerce employment bureau today became a recognized bureau for the United States employment service under the direction of Herbert Hahn, secretary of the Chamber of Commerce. Last year the employment bureau here found work for harvest hands in practically every wheat-growing state. This year's wheat harvest demands in Nebraska, the bureau says, will not be as heavy as in former years. Less wheat acreage in central Nebraska, a lower yield, with farmers retrenching, and the continued purchase of threshing outfits by farmers, resulting in neighborhood threshing, are given as the reasons. Meanwhile the demand for employment, especially among transients, is constantly growing.

Fenton Ordered to Show Cause Why Matthews Held

Lincoln, June 20.—Federal Judge T. C. Munger this morning issued an order commanding W. T. Fenton, warden of the penitentiary, to appear Tuesday morning at 9:30 to show cause why W. V. Matthews, now serving a term for embezzlement, should not be issued a writ of habeas corpus.

Matthews was formerly connected with the Guaranty Securities company and the Pioneer State bank, both of Omaha. Officers of these institutions today issued a statement defending their action in the court.

Milk, Ice Fund of Poor Tots Opened

Hot Days Coming; The Omaha Bee Distributes Cash; Nurses to Aid.

Again rises the wall of the helpless babies as hot weather lays its pitiless hand upon them.

And again the readers of The Omaha Bee are given the opportunity to do the noble work that they do every summer.

The Free Milk and Ice Fund is hereby opened, and all persons of generous heart are called upon to save the infants from illness or worse. Usually it opens earlier, but was delayed a few days this year on account of cool weather.

The fund is administered without expense. The Omaha Bee receives the contributions. The Visiting Nurses investigate each case, and, where milk and ice are required, order these things and draw upon the fund to pay the milkman and ice man.

It is the ideal charity, because nobody gets any "rakeoff." Every cent goes to help the helpless children of poverty-stricken families where, in most cases, the poor mother wages an unequal fight with the world.

Already there have been numerous calls on the fund, and it is greatly in need of money if the babies are to get the milk they so greatly need.

Just enclose your contribution in an envelope and address "Free Milk and Ice Fund, The Omaha Bee, Omaha." It will be quickly converted into milk to be greedily consumed by a hungry infant.

And you will be given credit for the good deed forever.

DAMAGE CASE IS TAKEN FROM JURY

District Judge Stauffer took from consideration of a jury the $80,000 suit of John Lester Clary, 14, against the street railway company, Friday.

His mother alleged he was struck by a car at Tenth and Hickory streets, January 22, and that he has been deaf and mentally deficient since that time.

Wymore Couple Drive to Council Bluffs to Wed

Wymore, Neb., June 20.—Howard B. Campbell, son of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Campbell, old residents of Wymore, and Miss Eula Schoff, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George Schoff, also of Wymore, drove to Council Bluffs and were married Thursday afternoon.

The young couple are prominent here the bride having been a bookkeeper for a Wymore business firm since graduating, and the bridegroom being employed in the Burlington superintendent's office at Wymore.

Yardmaster Slain.

Wymore, Neb., June 20.—Pearl Terhune, a former Burlington railway conductor, running out of Wymore 15 years ago, who was yardmaster for the Missouri, Kansas & Texas railway at Fort Worth, Tex., for the past 10 years, was attacked by a tramp in the Fort Worth yards and stabbed to death. He was a son-in-law of the late Burlington conductor, John B. O'Connor of Wymore.

There's a Difference in Bread

Packed Full of Goodness

BETSY ROSS Bread—the milk and honey loaf—will prove a revelation of goodness to you. Where but in BETSY ROSS can you find such fine flavor and rich nourishment? It is the ultimate result of many years' constant search for a way to pack more food value and flavor into a loaf of bread.

Here is the secret of BETSY ROSS' goodness: For sweetening we use delicious strained honey and for greater nourishment we add a liberal quantity of milk, which also adds to the delightful flavor of the loaf. Too, the milk and other rich ingredients give BETSY ROSS a velvety firmness of texture that is visible evidence of its inward quality.

Every grocer in Omaha sells BETSY ROSS. It's delivered to him fresh twice every day. Ask for it by name.
