French and English Premiers to Discuss Dawes Plan; German Forecasts Success.

London, June 21.—The conference between the new French premier, M. Herriot and Premier MacDonald at Chequers court today will be private. It is announced and nothing will be issued for publication. Diplomatic writers say no formal program of discussion has been arranged but that naturally the Dawes reparation report will occupy a large share of the time, while the inter-related debts are also expected to be the subject of an exchange of views. It is not supposed the conversations will lead to definite formal agreement on any subject.

Paris, June 21.—The subjects of the premiers' convention at Chequers court will be, first, how to put the Dawes plan into execution so as to assure payment of reparation by Germany and second, the problem of France's security.

The premiers are expected to consider how military occupation of the Ruhr can be reduced, made invisible and ultimately suppressed, as Germany makes good her obligations.

M. Herriot is expected to insist upon the necessity of supervising Germany's disarmament, and means will be discussed to replace the tripartite guarantee which the United States and Great Britain failed to ratify.

Paris, June 21.—"Do you believe in the possibility of an agreement between France, Great Britain and Germany, based on the Dawes report?" the newspaper L'Oeuvre asked the German socialist deputy Breitscheid, whom Premier Herriot received Thursday evening. "Yes, I believe such an accord is possible," he replied. "Germany has accepted the report by vote of the reichstag and the government is preparing laws for its execution. Other governments have accepted or will do so. There is the basis for the pacification of Europe."

After looking the project over here, Mr. Hanson declared that a greater volume of cream would be necessary before such a concern could operate successfully here. He further suggested that farmers increase the size and quality of their herds and that they enter into a scientific feeding program toward that end.

Walter P. Chrysler says Maxwell Now Sets a New Pace.

The good Maxwell is displaying the possibilities of the four-cylinder car, in the very things people want in motor cars, in a way they have never been demonstrated before.

With the active participation of the Chrysler Six engineering staff, the process of betterment begun three years ago was tremendously accelerated.

Knowing that the latest Maxwell developments approach the revolutionary in both practice and results, I have every justification in the world for calling Maxwell a most wonderful four-cylinder car.

Further than that, I have no hesitancy at all in urging you to confirm my judgment in any way you choose.

The difference in the way the Maxwell rides and drives and steers will impress you instantly.

You will be expecting the vibration you've always felt behind a four-cylinder engine.

But you will be delightfully disappointed—and surprised. For we have taken that vibration away from Maxwell. It's gone.

There is hardly need for me to tell you that people today want vibrationless riding—and no rumble in their closed cars.

The device which accomplishes these results in Maxwell—for the first time, we believe, in a four-cylinder car—is as simple as revolutionary things usually are.

It is nothing more than a floating platform spring mounting under the front end of the motor—but it is exclusive to Maxwell.

Now here are some of the other results you get in Maxwell; results that put it right out in front.

You can safely count on 22 miles to the gallon or better, and 18,000 miles per set of tires. Those figures are not ours, but the average of Maxwell owner reports.

Main bearings rarely if ever replaced; a longer-lived, smoother-running car because vibration is practically eliminated.

That's the way we are building the good Maxwell today—with a far greater proportion of costly alloy steels than is usual at its price. Those are the revolutionary results of 20 years of experience in building something like 2,000,000 cars.

Those are the results which I want to drive home to every man and woman who is in the market for a car.

You probably have your own ideas about a motor car and what you want it to do.

The most I ask is that you compare Maxwell riding and driving and performance with those ideas of yours, and then decide for yourself whether any other four you know of can match up to Maxwell.
