

Primitive Era of Life Marks White Indians

Race of Mysterious Origin in Central America Exists in Strict Aloofness.

By International News Service. New York, June 26.—The tribe of white-skinned Indians—a race of mysterious origin—three members of which are being brought home by the Marsh expedition from the jungles of Darien, Panama, were also encountered by Dr. Frank B. von Teuber, Austrian explorer, in the same vicinity almost 20 years ago.

Short, Snappy Lafs Wanted

Jokes With "Kick" Most in Demand, Easy to Write.

Where to see Local Lafs today: Lythrop theater, Omaha; Lyric theater, Omaha; Empress theater, Central City, Neb.; Rex theater, Albion, Neb.; Auditorium, Hastings, Neb.

MACDONALD BEST ORATOR IN HOUSE

London, June 26.—Although no one ever has referred to the British house of commons as a "cave of the winds," statistics show that it gets its full share of ferid and fulsome oratory.

BABIES AND HUBBY URGED FOR WOMEN

London, June 26.—"This freedom" age of women is "the bunk," in the opinion of Mrs. Wintringham, one of the eight women members of the British house of commons.

FAMOUS CHURCH IS NEAR A FALL

London, June 26.—St. Paul cathedral, one of England's most famous churches, and well known to all visitors to London, is in danger of collapsing, according to eminent architectural authorities.

The Hall of Democratic National Convention as a Session Opens

Pacific and Atlantic Photo.

New Childbirth Is Minus Pains

Boston Hospital Authorities Watch New Anaesthetic Work.

Boston, June 26.—Boston hospitals, for the present, will not accept "synergistic analgesia," the newest childbirth anaesthetic, discovered by Dr. James T. Gwathmey, noted New York obstetrician, and formally announced at the convention of the American Medical association, in session at Chicago.

The doctor predicted that childbirth would be a painless process within the next 10 years. Hailed as one of the greatest steps in overcoming the ordeal, it has been used at the Boston Lying-in hospital, but complete indorsement is withheld until further results justify its use.

"Dr. Gwathmey's preparation is surely an important contribution to obstetrics," declares Dr. Judson A. Smith, resident staff physician, "but our observation of it has not warranted its unqualified use."

"In some instances its results have been most successful, in others it has not been as effective as our own method. We are still using nitrous oxide and consider it one of the finest things in obstetrical surgery when handled by a competent physician."

"The method of Dr. Gwathmey consists of hypodermic injections of morphia in a solution of magnesium sulphate. It is called a 'synergistic analgesia' because the action of the morphia is prolonged.

"It is used in the first stage followed by a preparation of ether and quinine, dissolved in oil, when the distress becomes more intense.

"In the last stages, of course, some anaesthetic like ether or chloroform must be used," Dr. Smith explained.

"Several of the New York hospitals have adopted the 'synergistic analgesia,' but we have not seen it uniformly successful. "In drugs like ether and chloroform and nitrous oxide there is less difference in individual reactions. It is because of this that we have not adopted Dr. Gwathmey's method—simply that many patients did not react successfully."

Burgess Bedtime Stories

By THORNTON W. BURGESS.

Contentment you will find to be To happiness the golden key. Prickly Porky.

Prickly Porky's Great Surprise.

Prickly Porky was perfectly happy. While it takes a great deal to make some people happy, it takes very little to make others happy. One of the latter is Prickly Porky the Porcupine. Contentment is the surest means of happiness. And given plenty to eat Prickly Porky is contented.

With the coming of spring and the bursting forth of new leaves on the trees Prickly Porky found all about him tender, delicious food of the kind he likes best. Everywhere was new, tender bark, and equally tender young leaves. So Prickly Porky ate, slept and was happy. He didn't even miss Mrs. Porky when she was out of his sight much of the time. He didn't even wonder what she was doing. In fact he didn't think about her at all.

Then one morning as he shuffled along toward a certain tree he had decided to breakfast in, he met Mrs. Porky. Now Prickly Porky's eyes are rather dull, and at first he didn't know where they had come from and he didn't care. Wherever it was, they could go right straight back there. He lifted the thousand little spears in his coat and rattled them, and made his teeth chatter angrily. Then he started toward those small Porcupines.

But he took only a step or two. Quite suddenly Mrs. Porky was right in front of him. Her thousand spears were rattling and she began to chatter angrily.

"What is the matter with you?" she demanded. "Nothing is the matter with me," grunted Prickly Porky. "But I don't intend to have any strange Porcupines around here."

"Same on you," retorted Mrs. Porky. "Don't you see how small they are?"

"I don't care how small they are," replied Prickly Porky. "I don't want them around here. The Green Forest belongs to us, and no strange Porcupines can make their home here."

Mrs. Porky's dull little eyes actually snapped. "This is a nice way to treat your own children I must say!" she cried. "You ought to be ashamed of yourself, Prickly Porky! You're a nice kind of a father!"

From sheer surprise Prickly Porky allowed all his little spears to drop back out of sight in the hair of his coat. "My children!" he muttered. "My children! I haven't any children!"

"Yes, you have," retorted Mrs. Porky. "You are looking at them right now."

(Copyright, 1924.)

The next story: "The News Travels Swiftly."

"My Children!" he muttered.

considered that the Green Forest belonged to himself and to Mrs. Porky. He didn't want any other Porcupines there. These were strangers, and they had no business there. He didn't know where they had come from and he didn't care. Wherever it was, they could go right straight back there. He lifted the thousand little spears in his coat and rattled them, and made his teeth chatter angrily. Then he started toward those small Porcupines.

But he took only a step or two. Quite suddenly Mrs. Porky was right in front of him. Her thousand spears were rattling and she began to chatter angrily.

"What is the matter with you?" she demanded. "Nothing is the matter with me," grunted Prickly Porky. "But I don't intend to have any strange Porcupines around here."

"Same on you," retorted Mrs. Porky. "Don't you see how small they are?"

"I don't care how small they are," replied Prickly Porky. "I don't want them around here. The Green Forest belongs to us, and no strange Porcupines can make their home here."

Mrs. Porky's dull little eyes actually snapped. "This is a nice way to treat your own children I must say!" she cried. "You ought to be ashamed of yourself, Prickly Porky! You're a nice kind of a father!"

From sheer surprise Prickly Porky allowed all his little spears to drop back out of sight in the hair of his coat. "My children!" he muttered. "My children! I haven't any children!"

"Yes, you have," retorted Mrs. Porky. "You are looking at them right now."

(Copyright, 1924.)

The next story: "The News Travels Swiftly."

Spooning Should Be Post-Nuptial

Girls' Counselor Says "Petting" Only for Married Couples.

Utica, N. Y., June 26.—Spooning is a necessary part of life, but it should come after marriage, declares Mrs. Alfreda J. Howell, girls' counselor of the New York Civic League and a recognized authority on marriage problems.

"As the child grows older avoid all things that will stir up unclear thoughts or lead to temptation," she advised. "We are out to subvert or abuse God's great gift of creative power. God has given that power to everything that lives."

"While the home, the school and the church have been silent on this subject, there are other forces that have not been silent. Unclean literature and commercialized amusements are making an appeal to this instinct, stimulating it and turning it into a destructive force."

"Petting" Held Normal. "Most young people indulge in what is now termed 'petting.' They seem to think it is a normal game and that if they don't 'pet' they are not normal. The girls say: 'If we don't let the boys hug and kiss they don't take us out and call us fat tires or dumbbells.' The boys say: 'The girls expect it of us.'"

"Both are mistaken. They get the idea from the movies, as there is plenty of it on the screen and often in the audience. The movies are not the only places. Often parents tease little children about the opposite sex and thus arouse sex consciousness and a perverted notion of love-making."

"How often a girl becomes an easy victim of petting parties! 'The result is an overstimulation of a consciousness that is neither normal nor wholesome. Spooning should not have a place with pre-adolescent people, or in the lives of boys and girls who have not set up their homes. Girls should confine their friendships to boys of their own age."

"Never look on spooning as a harmless game, or as a subject of ridicule. It has a place in life, but after the marriage altar. Mothers should talk to their boys as well as to their girls, as fathers generally will not."

"Be slow to censure or blame, but quick with sympathy and understanding. The teen age just suffers from lack of these qualities."

AT THE THEATERS

Joe Jackson, the original, head lines the new six-act bill at the World starting tomorrow. Jackson is the last word in silent fun. He is a headliner of national prominence and offers an act that has been frequently imitated but never equalled.

"Stop Thief," the musical farce which the Bert Smith Players present at the Empress tomorrow is one of the most successful of Broadway plays. Originally produced by Cohan and Harris "Stop Thief" had a run of one solid year in New York and almost as long in Chicago.

Scheduled to occupy six weeks, the pageant will be given in 12 bi-weekly performances, each performance adding an epic in the history of the British empire, until, with the presentation of the 12th episode, a complete history of the empire will have been built up.

Besides a large number of voluntary performers, a battery of horse artillery, a squadron of cavalry, two companies of infantry and a thousand Boy Scouts will take part in various roles in the pageant.

TODAY-LAST TIMES PALO & PALET 4 GIRTON GIRLS and a record-breaking bill.

WORLD

takes pardonable pride in presenting for seven days, starting

TOMORROW one of the most notable vaudeville and photoplay programs it has offered in many months.

6 Great Acts Built for laughing purposes only, headed by the world-famous silent comedian

JOE JACKSON The One and Original

A photoplay feature second to none in Omaha.

Elaine Hammerstein In a Story of Gay New York

"BROADWAY GOLD" With Elliot Dexter

TONIGHT at 8:30 AMATEURS

EMPIRESS

7 Days Starting TOMORROW

Bert Smith Players Offer the famous Broadway farce comedy—

"STOP THIEF"

A crook play that captures all laughing honors.

Two Mighty Screen Attractions ELLIOT DEXTER in

"BY DIVINE RIGHT" and the second story "TELEPHONE GIRL" series, each story complete in itself. Written by H. C. Witwer.

Static Makes Broadcast Stations End Programs

Pittsburgh, June 26.—Radio reception has been so poor during the past few weeks that many of the smaller stations throughout the state are closing down for the summer, and the larger stations are "cutting their programs."

This announcement was made today by a radio official in response to numerous queries. There has been so much static, due to thunderstorms and artificial sources, that reception has proven unusually poor this year.

During the summer, radio officials will study conditions throughout the state in the hope of finding the causes of numerous electrical leaks and thereby insure better radio reception during the fall and winter.

7,000 Germans Allowed to Remain in French Zone

Coblenz, Germany, June 26.—The Rhineland commission, on the proposal of the French member, today annulled the expulsion of more than 7,000 Germans from the French zone of occupation. These exiles, with their families, number about 30,000 persons.

7,000 Germans Allowed to Remain in French Zone

Coblenz, Germany, June 26.—The Rhineland commission, on the proposal of the French member, today annulled the expulsion of more than 7,000 Germans from the French zone of occupation. These exiles, with their families, number about 30,000 persons.

The total number of persons expelled by the allies from the Ruhr and the Rhineland is about 150,000.

Burgess Bedtime Stories

By THORNTON W. BURGESS.

Contentment you will find to be To happiness the golden key. Prickly Porky.

Prickly Porky's Great Surprise.

Prickly Porky was perfectly happy. While it takes a great deal to make some people happy, it takes very little to make others happy. One of the latter is Prickly Porky the Porcupine. Contentment is the surest means of happiness. And given plenty to eat Prickly Porky is contented.

With the coming of spring and the bursting forth of new leaves on the trees Prickly Porky found all about him tender, delicious food of the kind he likes best. Everywhere was new, tender bark, and equally tender young leaves. So Prickly Porky ate, slept and was happy. He didn't even miss Mrs. Porky when she was out of his sight much of the time. He didn't even wonder what she was doing. In fact he didn't think about her at all.

Then one morning as he shuffled along toward a certain tree he had decided to breakfast in, he met Mrs. Porky. Now Prickly Porky's eyes are rather dull, and at first he didn't know where they had come from and he didn't care. Wherever it was, they could go right straight back there. He lifted the thousand little spears in his coat and rattled them, and made his teeth chatter angrily. Then he started toward those small Porcupines.

But he took only a step or two. Quite suddenly Mrs. Porky was right in front of him. Her thousand spears were rattling and she began to chatter angrily.

"What is the matter with you?" she demanded. "Nothing is the matter with me," grunted Prickly Porky. "But I don't intend to have any strange Porcupines around here."

"Same on you," retorted Mrs. Porky. "Don't you see how small they are?"

"I don't care how small they are," replied Prickly Porky. "I don't want them around here. The Green Forest belongs to us, and no strange Porcupines can make their home here."

Mrs. Porky's dull little eyes actually snapped. "This is a nice way to treat your own children I must say!" she cried. "You ought to be ashamed of yourself, Prickly Porky! You're a nice kind of a father!"

From sheer surprise Prickly Porky allowed all his little spears to drop back out of sight in the hair of his coat. "My children!" he muttered. "My children! I haven't any children!"

"Yes, you have," retorted Mrs. Porky. "You are looking at them right now."

(Copyright, 1924.)

The next story: "The News Travels Swiftly."

Buster Keaton

Natalie Talmadge

—and Their Two-Year-Old Son

BUSTER KEATON, Jr. in the Summer's Greatest Laugh Picture

'Our Hospitality'

TAKE A RIDE OF LAUGH AND THRILLS ON AMERICA'S FIRST RAILROAD TRAIN

Fun and Feuds

Quaint and Clever

ON THE SAME PROGRAM

Another Seven-Reel Feature

'After the Ball'

with Gaston Glass and Marian Cooper 13 REELS IN ALL

WE'VE COOLED OFF "THE SUN" MAMMOTH TYPHOON COOLING SYSTEM

Starts tomorrow THE SUN HAS THE PICTURES—No Let-Up SUMMER or WINTER

STARTS TOMORROW RIALTO

The MARRIAGE CHEAT

The spirit of South Sea Island love had caught them—the spirit few souls could resist.

Leatrice Joy Adolphe Menjou Percy Marmont and an entire company went to the South Sea Isles to make this story.

A drama that will startle you because it dares give a wife the rights a man never would.

FERERAS HAWAIIANS LLOYD HAMILTON "GOOD MORNING"

LAST TIMES TODAY SYDNEY CHAPLIN LOUISE FAZENDA

"Galloping Fish"

NOW Show Job & Nostrils NOW

The story of a girl who won her way in New York through beauty and bluff.

"BLUFF"

with Antonio Moreno and Agnes Ayers

SUN LAST TIMES TONITE

Daughters of Today

MOON LAST DAY

"Danger Trail"

Jack London's "Call of the Wild"

NEIGHBORHOOD THEATERS

GRAND - 16th and Binnay

HOBERT BOSWORTH in "THE SEA LEON"

Jack Mulhall in "The Social Buccaneer"

LOTHROP - 24th and Lothrop

Gaston Glass, Barbara La Marr in "THE HERO"

BOULEVARD - 33d and Leavenworth

REX BEACH'S "FLOWING GOLD"