

400 in Long Klan March at Bluffs

Robed Knights and Women in Silent Tramp Through Downtown Streets.

Amid explosion of firecrackers, 250 robed klansmen and 150 women members of the organization, also robed, marched silently through the streets of Council Bluffs Friday evening.

The parade was headed by three kiegles on horseback, wearing the scarlet-lined capes significant of their rank, and another mounted klansman carrying a large American flag.

Several lesser dignitaries of the order and a woman kiegale occupied four white-draped motor cars just back of the four horsemen. Marching two abreast, the hooded members on foot made up a parade nearly six blocks in length.

The line of march was from Dodge park at Fortieth street and Broadway, east along Broadway to Sixth street, south to First avenue, east to Fourth street and north to Broadway. The paraders then boarded street cars and automobiles for the return to the park.

No Demonstrations.

No anti-klan demonstration of any character featured the progress of the silent marchers through the streets. Broadway was lined on both sides from Fourth street to Dodge park with automobiles filled with spectators, while hundreds of persons stood on curbstones and at intersections.

The paraders marched masked by the visors of their white helmets, with exception of a few of the dignitaries. Members from Omaha and several southwestern Iowa counties united with the Bluffs klansmen for the demonstration.

Uniformed policemen were stationed as traffic officers along the route of the parade, while Chief of Police George Gillaspay and several aides patrolled the line of march in an emergency car.

"Konklave" at Park.

The "konklave" at Dodge park was in progress from 11 a. m. until after midnight. Picnic parties and speaking were featured in the afternoon program, and all of the members, men and women, were lined up in their robes, but unmasked, for an "official" photograph.

Thousands of spectators gathered at the park for the fireworks display after the parade. This consisted of an elaborate collection of set pieces at the west end of the field, in addition to colored lights and numbers of aerial bombs.

KLAN FIGHTING ITS EMULATORS

Special Dispatch to The Omaha Bee.

Grand Island, Neb., July 5.—Local authorities of the Ku Klux Klan are offering a reward of $500 for information leading to the arrest and conviction of the person or persons responsible for burning the fiery cross at East Twelfth street, about a week ago, or in the vicinity of Schimmers lake, a pleasure resort, where Sunday evening dances were held.

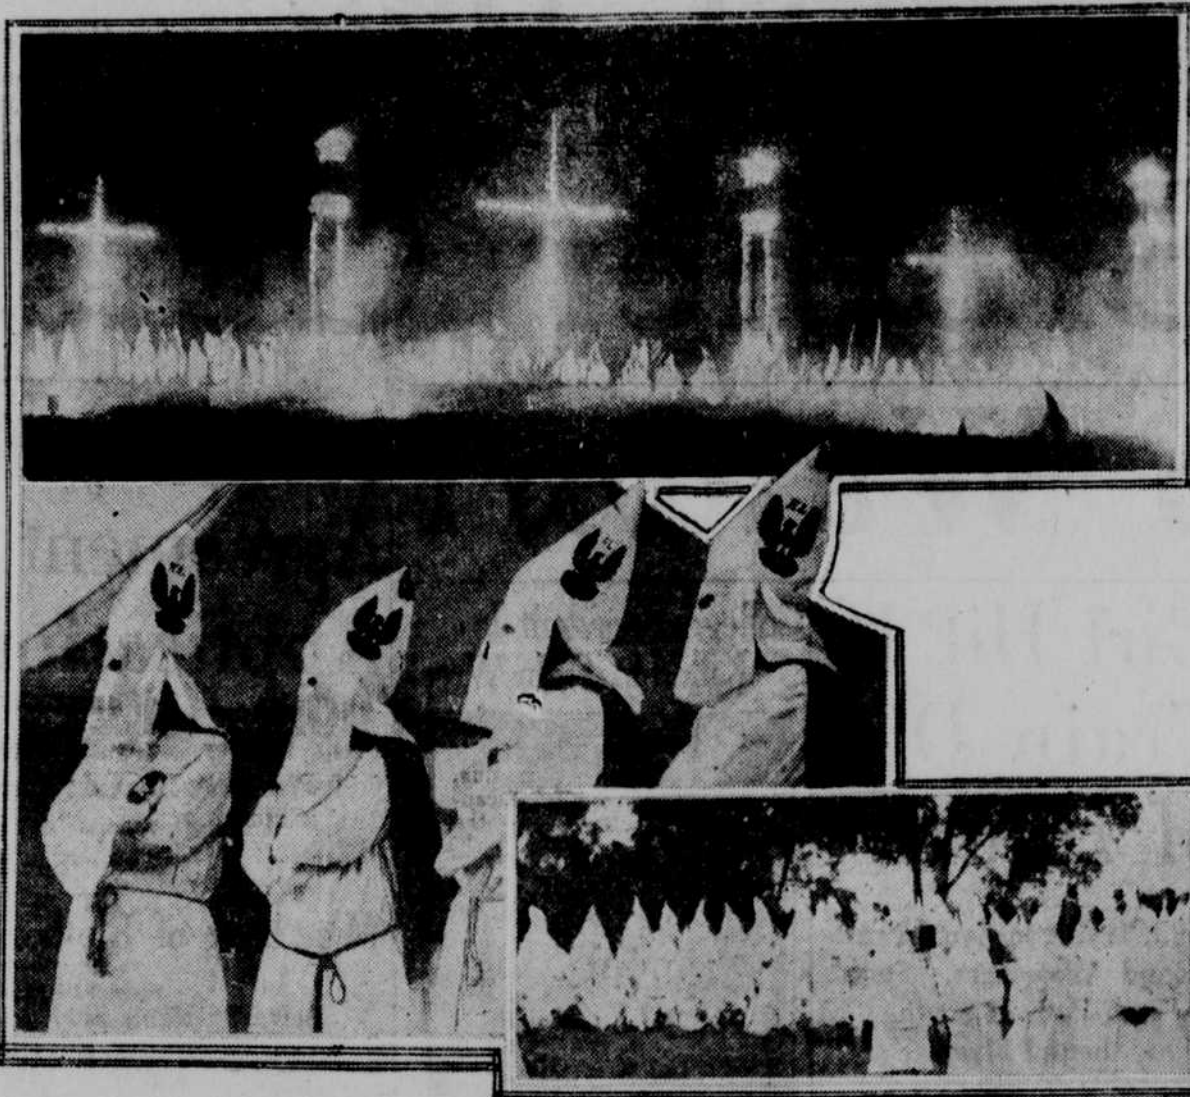

The Klansmen declare that the burning was unauthorized by the Klan.

Woodrough to North Platte.

Federal Judge J. W. Woodrough left Saturday for North Platte, Neb., where he will spend two weeks on the federal bench.

Hooded Knights and Women in Big Bluffs Klonklave

Upper—Klansmen and women in impressive tableau before glewing set piece of fiery crosses in Dodge park, Council Bluffs, Friday night. The robed women stood in line, each holding aloft an American flag, while the men, similarly hooded, knelt before them, with one arm raised.

Center—Three men kiegles and one woman of similar rank, who participated in the Ku Klux Klan "klonklave" in the Bluffs Friday. The woman is second from the left in the picture and minor differences in the detail of her costume may be noted. The spread eagle, emblematic of the rank of these dignitaries, is plainly visible on the left side of their hoods.

Lower right—Group of klansmen and women in Dodge park Friday afternoon, just after they had posed in their robes for the "official" photograph, which was taken with visors up.

Ex-Congressman Jefferis, Who Placed Charles G. Dawes in Nomination, Chosen to Deliver Notification Address Honor Comes to Nebraskan Because His Delegation Stood Solid From Start.

Word was received in Omaha Saturday that former Congressman A. W. Jefferis is to make the notification speech at the ceremonies at Evanston, Ill., July 29, advising Gen. Charles G. Dawes of his nomination for vice president on the republican ticket. Jefferis made the nomination speech at Cleveland and now is to "follow through" by advising the candidate.

This honor comes to Nebraska chiefly because it was the Nebraska delegation that brought about the nomination of General Dawes. While other names were being discussed, Nebraska stood solid for Dawes, in the meanwhile working with might and main with other delegations.

Nation-Wide Attention.

Naturally Nebraska attracted much national attention as a result of the big incident. Now Nebraska is to gain further distinction because a Nebraskan has been selected to make the speech of notification. He is one of the Nebraska delegates who stood like a rock for the nomination of the former Nebraskan.

Jefferis has received a telegram from W. H. Butler, chairman of the republican national committee, inviting him to make the address of notification. Congressman Burton of Ohio had been originally designated, but will be in Europe.

"I deem it a signal honor to be invited to make the address of notification," said Jefferis. "Of course, I shall accept. The nomination of Dawes was an honor to Nebraska, our delegation's work for Dawes attracted favorable attention to our state and now this honor will give Nebraska still greater prominence.

Nebraskans to Attend.

"I do not know what arrangements will be made by Nebraskans to participate in the affair, but I presume a number will attend. Mrs. W. A. Prince of Grand Island, a member of the Nebraska delegation to the Cleveland convention, was designated as the Nebraska member of the notification committee."

Tentative plans are being made for the attendance of a number of Nebraskans, former friends and associates of General Dawes and members of the Nebraska delegation. Nothing will be announced, however, until after consultation with Mrs. Prince, the Nebraska member of the notification committee.

Former Omahan Dies.

Walter Forsythe Kinross, former Omaha man, died on July 2 at Portland, Ore., according to advice received here Saturday. He is survived by three daughters, Mrs. C. D. Atkinson of Coronado Beach, Cal.; Mrs. I. E. Leininger and Miss Claire Kinross of Kansas City, Mo.

U. S. Solon Stirs French Hearers

"You'll Find Us Elbow to Elbow When Fighting Comes," Reed Says.

By Associated Press.

Paris, July 4.—United States Senator David A. Reed of Pennsylvania stirred a distinguished gathering at a Fourth of July banquet of the American Chamber of Commerce of Paris tonight, when, addressing the Frenchmen, he declared:

"You'll find us there, my friends, when the fighting comes, elbow to elbow," the words "elbow to elbow," being said in French. The senator, who was hailed as a wartime officer, brought his auditors to their feet when he added:

"We may differ about the detail, perhaps, but together we'll save civilization and if we are divided we cannot exist."

Premier Herriot replied, asking the continued aid of such Americans as General Pershing, General Dawes and Senator Reed.

"Blessed be the dear Americans who crossed the sea to succor wounded France, who loves you and who will remember you forever," he declared. "We still have need of you, and I demand your aid for my noble, great country."

The premier then scored the "insolent materialism of Germany" and declared that the peace treaty would not have a far-reaching effect without the aid of the United States.

Kellogg Entertains.

London, July 4.—Ambassador Kellogg this afternoon entertained several thousand British and Americans at the embassy and tonight he presided at the annual dinner of the American society. At the dinner were several cabinet members, including Arthur Henderson, Philip Snowden, Lord Oliver and J. H. Thomas.

In a facetious vein, Mr. Thomas said that if the Americans of 1776 had dreamed a labor government would have attained power in England in 1924, the split between the old country and the colonies never would have occurred.

"We cannot blame them; we can only sympathize," he said. "We cannot condemn them for they knew not what they did."

Toasting "The Day We Celebrate," Ambassador Kellogg said the principles upon which the United States was founded were those for which the British people had struggled and fought for 500 years. They were the same principles the United British and American peoples fought for during the world war and principles the forthcoming allied conference would attempt to follow for the betterment of the world's civilization.

Gravel Shot Out From July 4 Cannon Tears Flesh From Boy's Leg

Gerald O'Connor, 14, 1508 South Twenty-fifth street, was painfully hurt Friday when stones fired from a cannon belonging to unidentified boys, tore part of the flesh from the calf of his leg. After firing the cannon, several boys about 15 years old fled from the neighborhood and were not caught.

Arthur and Ernest Rinschin, 7 and 5, respectively, 1507 South Twenty-fifth street, were also hit by the gravel and stones with which the cannon was loaded. A doctor was immediately called for the O'Connor boy, but his condition is not serious.

Rufe Hoskins says the hotheaded boys may go out of style, but that Mr. Bryan will probably continue to wear his hat that way.—Oklahoma City Times.
