The more he thought about it the more Peter thought it would be a good joke. It would be something to brag about-how he, Peter Rabbit, actually frightened Skunk. He chuckled at the thought and very quietly hopped a few steps nearer. Three times he made ready to make a flying jump over that old log, and each time his courage falled him. But at last he mustered up courage enough and with a quick run of a few steps made a long jump over that old log.

Safety First

How can we put an end to street accidents? That's easy. Let every individual follow the rules of common sense. Don't turn your car in the middle of the block. Watch the fellow ahead of you. Look for his signals. Don't drive your car with one arm around your girl. Keep your eyes eternally on the road ahead of you. Don't run on the wrong side of a street car. Don't try to crowd some other car aside. Take your time. Don't be a-

Give your brains a chance to work and they'll save you a lot of agony.
