All Lincoln on Hand to Greet Bryan

Governor Has Difficulty in Getting to Car Through Thousands Who Come to Welcome Him.

Big Downtown Parade

Special Dispatch to The Omaha Bee. Lincoln, Neb., July 14.—Governor Bryan was accorded a real ovation in his old home town today. It reminded the oldest of the days when Lincoln had fallen into the habit of ovating for his brother when he came home from Democratic conventions with a presidential nomination in his hand.

The crowd at the Burlington depot was large—some ten or twelve thousand, all told—and it was with some difficulty that the governor found his way to the automobile reserved for him. But Boy Scouts acting as guards managed to keep a lane fairly well opened and after some delay the governor reached his car. The route from the Burlington station to the executive mansion was lined with people. Lincoln crowds are never demonstrative, but this one gave the former mayor, present governor, and vice presidential nominee, a reception equally as cordial as that given to former candidates and even some presidents.

The Elks' band headed the procession, followed by the Lincoln unit of the National guard. Then came a troop of Boy Scouts, followed by an auto conveying the governor, J. Cass Cornell of the Chamber of Commerce and Judge William H. Thompson.

Makes Short Speech. At the executive mansion Governor Bryan was permitted to enter before any speechmaking, and was met by his wife and daughter, and by his sister, Mrs. Tom Allen.

Mayor Zehrung, who defeated the governor for mayor once upon a time, introduced the vice presidential candidate to the immense throng gathered at the mansion. He voiced the city's appreciation of the honor conferred upon its distinguished citizen.

Governor Bryan talked very briefly. He said he had not seen anything that looked better to him than Nebraska.

"I have heard it intimated that I was nominated for vice president by the Democratic convention," but so little have no official knowledge of the fact," he said. "However, I am a bit apprehensive that the rumors are true. I am not going to make a political speech. This is neither the time nor the place to discuss political issues. I recognize that you are here not as friends, but as partisans; that you greet me merely as a neighbor. The people of Nebraska have done more for me than ever I can repay. Later in the campaign, after I have been officially nominated, I will have time enough to discuss issues. Now I just want to meet you as friend meets friend."

Declines to Discuss Politics. Governor and Mrs. Bryan and their daughter, Mrs. Harrisberger, stood in line while hundreds passed by to shake their hands and express their congratulations to the governor.

A committee from the various civic organizations of Lincoln met Governor Bryan and his party at Ashland. It was headed by J. Cass Cornell. A small crowd met the train as Ashland, among them being the governor's new son-in-law, Mr. Harrisberger. His daughter went down on the train just ahead.

John Hopkins, Jr., J. H. Hanley and Lee Herdman were among the prominent Omaha democrats accompanying the governor to Lincoln, and there were several quiet conferences on the way down.

Governor Bryan refused emphatically to say a word about any possible successor on the state ticket. "I have been wholly out of touch" (Turn to Page Two, Column One).

We Have With Us Today

Dr. Charles L. Reese, Baltimore, Md., Chemist.

Like many of the foremost scientists, Dr. Reese finds it difficult to talk about his profession, except with his fellow workers. He chats interestingly about other subjects, however, and occasionally makes remarks tending to show the interesting nature of his work. When speaking of automobiles, for example, he casually mentioned that only recently laboratories under his direction have discovered a permanent automobile body finish that can be applied by a novice with excellent results.

Dr. Reese is technical director of the E. I. DuPont de Nemours & Co., president of the American Institute of Chemical Engineers and a consultant director of the United States war service at Washington. He was born in Baltimore, his present home, and stopped off in Omaha en route to a convention of chemical engineers in Denver.

Paris, July 14.—The United States army fliers who are circling the globe swept over Paris this afternoon and landed safely at Le Bourget airfield, 14 days behind schedule, but with a gain of 12 days to their credit since they left Tokio.

The pilots of the three planes and their assistants were in fine health, in spite of weeks of heavy strain, but they were tired and almost overcome by the enthusiasm of their reception.

Encounter Storm.

"This is one of the most agreeable landings yet," remarked Lieutenant Wade, but his chief, Lieutenant Smith, inquired:

"How do we stand in the Olympic?" M. Laurent Eynac, under-secretary of the French air ministry extended France's welcome and congratulated the fliers to all the Americans listened modestly, rather shyly and were anxious to be away, to clean up the marks of their air voyage, which soon after the start from Vienna was thrilling sought because of a storm.

Local hall insurance writers and adjusters claim that the total protection sought against hail damage in this part of the state is far below that of last year, due chiefly to a discouraging crop condition about a month ago and the tendency of farmers to assume their own risk. Even the state hall insurance written in the Platte valley will show considerable shrinkage in totals, according to the county clerk of Buffalo county.

yan Spruces Up for Re-election Here, Tips Porter $1

leave the train, will they?" You know I am scheduled to arrive in Lincoln this morning and I had hoped to slip back home in a modest way.

The governor slipped on his coat, removed his skull cap and donned black felt hat. The porter whisked at the vice presidential nominee with a broom, dusted the gubernatorial hat and received a $1 tip for his pains.

Bryan Dignity Threatened. "I believe we had better walk back to the observation car platform, Judge," said Bryan, twisting his mustache vigorously, and starting toward the rear of the train as it approached the bridge across the Missouri river.

The quiet Bryan dignity nearly was lost between the last two cars, as he tripped over two suitcases piled in the vestibule, but he succeeded in recovering his poise in time to greet a New York traveling man, who introduced himself in the observation car and proffered his wish of success.

"We lost so much sleep and missed so many meals back there in New York that it seems I have been gone much longer than three weeks," he rolled into his own state.

Richard Boxing Guest.

"We had a wonderful time at the convention, despite the prolonged session. Tex Rickard was kind enough to take me to a boxing exhibition in the baseball park. I am an enthusiastic patron of this sport and Tex remembered it.

"Here's another record broken at the convention. It was the first time that two brothers ever received votes simultaneously for the nomination. W. J. received one vote from the Minnesota delegation on one ballot, although he was not a candidate. Well, here we are in Omaha and here's the gang waiting for me!"

Kansas City, Mo., July 14.—Representatives of seven states—Kansas, Oklahoma, Missouri, Minnesota, Iowa, South Dakota and Nebraska—took action in protest to reopening of Kansas grain rate case by the interstate commerce commission at a meeting here today.

A telegram was sent to Henry C. Hall, chairman of the interstate commerce commission, Washington, D. C., urging a speedy decision in the two-year fight and protesting the reopening of the case.

The conference here today was a result of the fighting recently with the interstate commerce commission by the railroads of a motion to reopen the case. The case involves an annual reduction of freight rates on grain and hay of $17,000,000 of which $3,000,000 would be due Kansas wheat farmers, the representatives said. The commission has had the case under advisement since March.

The delay resulting from reopening the case would prevent a reduction in freight rates on this year's crops, it was stated.

Olvany New Chieftain of Tammany

Executive Committee Names Judge of General Sessions Court Successor to Late Charles Murphy.

Demo Support Pledged

New York, July 14.—Tammany hall today chose General sessions judge George W. Olvany grand chief to succeed the late Charles F. Murphy, and voted its "undivided and loyal support" to the Davis-Bryan ticket and the "progressive and forward-looking platform" of the national Democratic party.

The vote for Judge Olvany, before it was made unanimous by the 68 men and women representatives of 23 districts, was reported to have been 22-23 to 13 for Martin G. ("Marty") McChie.

Too Strong to Resist. "The call is too strong to resist," Judge Olvany told the executive committee of Tammany hall, after he had been escorted to the Fourteenth wigwam by two veterans of the organization—a man and a woman, both gray-haired. Surrogate Judge A. Foley had been elected grand chief last May, immediately after Murphy's death; had accepted and then, on the advice of physicians, had declined the post.

"In a few days I shall resign from the bench and undertake to carry on the work as ably, unselfishly and successfully preformed by Charles F. Murphy for more than 22 years," Judge Olvany's statement continued. "Our first great public duty will be to roll up a great vote for our national ticket."

The election of Olvany was a compromise between an active leader, upon whom the district chieftains insisted, and a man from the ranks, as advocated by those who caused Surrogate Foley's election in May. That it also was a compromise between the forces of Governor Alfred E. Smith, who appointed Judge Olvany to the bench, and the forces of Mayor John F. Hylan and W. R. Hearst, was seen in this paragraph of the new grand chief's acceptance speech:

"Mayor Hylan has stood faithfully for the principles he advocated in the last municipal campaign, in which he received and extraordinary vote of public confidence. We should fully support him in carrying out these principles."

Jump From Boat to Keep It Afloat

16-Year-Old Miss, Half-Crazed, Rescued After Drifting in Disabled Canoe Three Days.

Brechin, Ont., July 14.—Having drifted in a disabled sail canoe for three days and nights, after her two boy companions were drowned, 16-year-old Margaret Murchison collapsed today as rescuers found her, half crazed, struggling through the marshes skirting Lake Simcoe.

With Wilbur Hoskins and Edgar Smith, the girl set out from Big Bay point last Friday in a light sailing craft. They had reached the middle of the lake when a sudden storm descended upon them, partly overturning the boat and pitching its occupants into the water.

Hoskins and Smith, realizing that the disabled craft would not bear them all, shouted to their companion to "hang on" and bade her adieu, and in the gathering gloom headed for the distant shore. They sank before they got out of sight, Miss Murchison related.

She rode out the storm in the craft, then for 72 hours drifted about the lake. Last night the shifting winds grounded the boat on Concord point. Rescuers found the girl there, sprawling and stumbling her way toward safety.
