In the Judge's Hands.
No "Apres Vous."
Radio in Politics.
Ford on Peace.
By ARTHUR BRISBANE

The parents of Leopold and Loeb show wisdom in having the young men plead guilty to murder.

This does away with all harmful talk of "millions being used to save them from the gallows."

It puts the young men's fate in the hands of the judge.

Of his own volition, although the guilty men have waived all rights, the court will decide as to their responsibility, and sentence them accordingly—to death, or life imprisonment.

Predicting anything about this election is dangerous. But if the old parties make a milk and water campaign, a sort of "after you Alphonse" fight, La Follette may surprise them.

The radio will play an important part in the campaign, a blessing for La Follette, who will be obliged to make short speeches, thus saving strength.

La Follette is the best speaker of the three presidential candidates beyond comparison.

The people do not elect a president to make fine speeches, but they do give preference to the good speaker when they "tune in."

Henry Ford says peace is a great thing, and adds that millions of airplanes will soon be flying overhead.

If Ford, who could do it better and more rapidly than anybody else, will help to make the "millions of airplanes" a reality, he will do much for peace. With enough airplanes and submarines this country need not worry.

Ford's prediction about airplanes shows how rapidly things change and compel us to change our opinions. A short time ago at Dearborn Ford was saying to this writer that the time for commercial development of the airplane had not arrived.

Now he sees the possibility of the all-metal monoplane. And doubtless he will proceed to make possible a reality.

"Muscle Shoals could make America invincible and war could be ended by the mere threat of United States power," says Ford. Muscle Shoals could provide enough nitrates to blow any nation into the air and Ford should have been allowed to develop the Muscle Shoals power for fertilizer factories in peace, and nitrate factories in war.

But to manufacture flying machines on a "Ford" scale of production would mean more for peace than all the explosive nitrates on earth.

Alexander E. Miller, playwright, called in his colleagues, Shamus O'Brien, and said, "The world is valueless to me, and I am of no value to it and then I killed himself."

There never comes a time when a human being is of no use to the world.

The Greek philosopher, 90 years old, that killed himself because he stumbled on leaving his class, made a mistake. He should have said: "I may stumble, but I shall go on teaching."

Every one can be valuable to the world by setting an example of courage and endurance.

The other day a young woman lay in a hospital with both her legs amputated. That was the price she paid for giving birth to a child.

She might have said, "The world has nothing more for me." What she did say was, "I am delighted to lose both my legs, if I must, as long as I have my baby."

That's worth a good deal to the world.

Scientists have discovered in tea a new vitamin called "bios," the Greek for "life."

There is no doubt that tea possesses great powers. Men working in the woods at 40 degrees below zero drink cold tea and say they get from it heat, another name for life.

Mongolians drinking great quantities of tea, sometimes with yak butter and yak ham floating around on top of it, have remarkable endurance and live long.

Greater knowledge of the vitamins and of our assortment of "ductless" glands, will add 50 years to the average life before this century ends.

What about "birth control" then?

Disabled Veterans Plan Annual Fund Raising Campaign

November 8 Set Aside by National Heads as Day for Forget-Me-Not Sale.

Wounded and disabled veterans of the great war, in Nebraska, have received official notification from the national headquarters of the Disabled American Veterans of the World War, Cincinnati, O., that the annual "National Forget-Me-Not day" campaign of the organization will be conducted throughout the United States on Saturday, November 8. Several hundred cities and towns in the country will participate in the distribution of forget-me-not flowers by women workers and the disabled veterans themselves.

National Commander Frank J. Irwin of New York City said that President Coolidge will probably follow his example of last fall and endorse the drive, also taking an active part in the success of the local campaign in Washington, D. C.

"The late Presidents Woodrow Wilson and Warren G. Harding were among the warmest supporters of the annual national movement," Commander Irwin said, "and high government officials, military leaders and other executives of government and state have been among the sponsors of individual campaigns in their respective cities."

Citizens' committees to be named by mayors and city officials in Nebraska will supervise the various campaigns, assisted by the women and girl workers who will make the actual sales of the forget-me-nots, the commander said. Proceeds from the day's activities will go towards the relief, welfare, rehabilitation, hospitalization and legislative assistance for the wounded and disabled world war veterans of the country.

The photograph of this corn palace, the first one in Nebraska, together with the story surrounding its erection, was published widely. Glen Pales, president of the Cheyenne County Farmers' union, will be permanent chairman, with County Agent Willey as secretary.

FEEDING SYSTEM MAY BE CHANGED

Douglas county commissioners are contemplating a move at the next session of the legislature to have the power of feeding county prisoners vested in them instead of Sheriff Michael Endres.

"I have heard that Endres makes as high as $30,000 a year, mostly by the fees he gets feeding prisoners," said County Commissioner Charles Kubat.

"That's the bunk," said Endres. Citizens' committees to be named by mayors and city officials in Nebraska will supervise the various campaigns, assisted by the women and girl workers who will make the actual sales of the forget-me-nots, the commander said.

Attempt to Break Jail Frustrated at York

York, July 22.—A man giving the name Edward Bradford, who was arrested Sunday by city police on charges of attempted auto theft at Bradshaw and breaking and entering the Burlington depot there, and was lodged in jail in York, tore a metal brace from the sink in the lavatory and started to dig through the air ventilator in the hobo cell. Chief of Police Olson, who happened to be in the court yard just outside the cell, heard the noise and entered just in time to prevent the escape. Bradford was then locked in a cell in the iron cage. Bradford is a young man and claims Whitefield, Tenn., as his home.

Fight to Bring Fliers to City Grows in Vigor

General Duncan Will Urge Omaha Visit in Letter to Washington Authorities.

Omaha's fight to bring the American "round-the-world" fliers through here on their way to the west coast and a completion of their history-making flight around the world, is being prosecuted with more vigor each day.

Gen. George B. Duncan, commander of the seventh corps army area, announced Tuesday that he will write to his former classmate, Gen. Mason M. Patrick of the army air service, asking that the ships be routed through Chicago and Omaha over the regular transcontinental air mail route.

General Duncan made this promise to Randall K. Brown, chairman of Chamber of Commerce federal relations committee. Mr. Brown is enthusiastic over the prospects of bringing the fliers to Omaha, and predicts that if Omaha is successful a record-breaking crowd, not only from the city but from the surrounding country, will be on hand.

Duncan's Letter Helps.

He also is confident that General Duncan's letter to General Patrick in Washington will carry sufficient weight, added to the shower of telegrams from a dozen Omaha organizations, to insure the success of Omaha's efforts.

"But we must not relax our efforts," said Mr. Brown. "Other cities also are eager to have the fliers visit them."

Word reaching here Tuesday morning from Chicago indicates that Chicago is taking as active a part as Omaha in the effort to bring the fliers west over the regular air mail channel.

Dispatches state that William R. Daves, president of the Chicago association of commerce has wired Secretary Weeks and Assistant Postmaster General Henderson in charge of air mail, urging that the fliers follow the air mail route. The Aero club of Illinois also is planning an active part in the movement.

City Council Joins Fight. The city council also will lend a helping hand toward getting the "round-the-world" fliers to stop in Omaha on their transcontinental flight.

The following resolution, offered by Harley Conant, on behalf of the publicity bureau of the Chamber of Commerce, was adopted Tuesday morning by the city council:

"Where, Omaha is a pioneer city on the transcontinental air mail route and has given every possible aid to the establishment and successful continuance of that service and.

"Whereas, The American 'round-the-world' fliers must cross the continent of America from the east to the west coast on the last lap of their historic flight, and

"Whereas, Regular and special air mail fields, well marked and supplied with equipment and expert mechanics are available on this transcontinental mail route making it the safest possible channel in which to fly, and

"Whereas, The citizens and public spirited organizations of Omaha are eager to do honor to these fliers on their triumphal flight across their native country, therefore, be it

"Resolved, That the city council of the city of Omaha, in regular session on this, the 22d day of July, extend a most cordial invitation to the war department through Gen. Mason M. Patrick, chief of air service, to send the American 'round-the-world' fliers over the air mail route through Omaha."

TWO FIRE ALARMS IN FEW MINUTES

Two fire alarms within a few minutes Tuesday afternoon brought out an unusual display of fire apparatus. A pan of oil at the Black and White Taxi office, 1318 Harney street, caused a small blaze which was nearly extinguished when the firemen arrived.

A roof fire at a rooming house, 509 South Twentieth street, gave the firemen a few minutes work with the chemicals.

Officials in Conference on Columbus Track Change

Columbus, Neb., July 22.—Three officials of the Union Pacific Railroad company from Omaha met this afternoon with a special city council committee to talk over the proposed change in the location of the Union Pacific tracks in the western part of the city. A. W. Woodruff, general superintendent, and R. B. Robinson, maintenance of way engineer, held out hope of a favorable consideration of the proposition when the city has effected necessary readjustment.

The proposed track change would eliminate the street crossings as well as the tracks which now bisect the west end of the city.

The baseball committee is lining things up for four fast games, but formal announcement has not been made as yet. Harry Sage of Omaha will umpire all the games.
