U. S. Plans Protest Note to Persia

Inadequate Police Protection Held Responsible for Slaying of American Vice Consul.

Letter Carries Warning

By Universal Service. Washington, July 26.—In protest against the murder of Maj. Robert Imbrie, American vice consul at Teheran by a fanatical mob, the Department of State will send a formal note to the Persian government Monday.

The note, which has already been drafted, is understood to declare that the government of Persia has neglected to maintain proper police protection in the public streets and that the unfortunate incident of Major Imbrie's death comes as a direct consequence of this inadequacy in the country's police system.

The note is believed to give a hint of warning by claiming that this was not the first instance where insufficient protection was afforded citizens of this country by the Persian authorities.

"Unpleasant Incidents." It is said that there have been unpleasant incidents before and that at previous times American citizens have been in danger. It is felt that these other circumstances finally led up to the murder of the vice consul.

By accusing the Persian government of insufficient police protection and, therefore, of being unable to maintain order in the public streets, this government would be placing the responsibility for Imbrie's death entirely with the Persian authorities.

Since the murder took place, the American minister at Teheran, assisted by Persian officials, has been carefully watching all the incidents leading up to the assault. It was the desire of this major Imbrie's wife to be entirely cognizant of all the circumstances of the murder before taking any definite stand and declaring itself officially.

City Under Martial Law. During the time this investigation has been in progress, it was learned that the city of Teheran had been placed under martial law and this government was led to believe that all possible protection was now being given Americans and other foreigners in Teheran. For this reason the investigation was continued for the purpose of determining the persons responsible for the crime.

It is thought that the State department's decision to protest to Persia was caused by a report from Joseph S. Kornfeld, the American minister, telling how Major Imbrie's wife had been insulted in the streets of Teheran. According to this report a Persian youth tore Mrs. Imbrie's veil and spit at her.

WOOLWINE IS NOT EXPECTED TO LIVE. Paris, July 26.—Thomas Lee Woolwine, former Los Angeles district attorney, who has been critically ill for a week with internal hemorrhages but a slight chance for recovery, Dr. Theanck, one of his French physicians, announced at 7 o'clock tonight.

Woolwine is still conscious and realizes his condition is serious. Frequently he turns to the assistant physician, who is constantly at his bedside, and asks: "Am I losing ground?"

"The patient suffered two more slight hemorrhages today. The failure to check the hemorrhages, which have been continuing intermittently since last Saturday, has gradually weakened him. Despite this, the temperature and pulse were normal this afternoon."

"We are prepared for the worst," members of the family said tonight. Mrs. Woolwine has not been informed of the gravity of her husband's condition.

Citizens of Hastings Tell Governor Local Officials Fail to Enforce Prohibition Laws.

Bryan Goes to Races

Lincoln, July 26.—Representative citizens of Hastings called on Governor Bryan for a showdown today as to whether the governor would assist county and local officials in enforcing the law there.

The delegation was headed by A. C. Epperson. It comprised a half dozen citizens from the Adams county metropolis. Immediately after the conference Governor Bryan hastened to Omaha.

"He had some business to attend there and besides he said he wanted to see some good horse flesh," F. C. Radke, his secretary, said.

It was learned that other complaints concerning lack of law enforcement had been received from Hastings. Every effort was made to keep the matter secret, so far as the state administration was concerned. W. H. Jones of Hastings is responsible for an embarrassing petition directed to the governor concerning the state of affairs alleged to exist in Adams county.

Under the state prohibition law the governor has the power to suspend officials who are charged with failure to enforce the state prohibition laws. Epperson, under close questioning after he left the governor's office, admitted a complaint had been made of conditions in Adams county, but refused to issue any statement that could be interpreted as political thunder.

Marx-Stresemann Cabinet Victorious in Strength Test

Nationalists Abstain From Voting in Effort to Overthrow Government on Dawes Plan.

By KARL H. VON WIEGAND. Universal Service Staff Correspondent. Berlin, July 26.—The Marx-Stresemann cabinet came out with flying colors today in a test of strength before the reichstag in which Ludendorff reactionists tried to overthrow it over the Dawes program.

The reactionists demanded a vote of "no confidence" but were defeated 172 to 62. The most significant thing about the test was that the nationalists who, hitherto, have voted against the cabinet, this time abstained from voting at all. They asserted they had stated their conditions for negotiating at London and at this time reserved their final decision until the London conference had completed its work.

This is interpreted as the beginning of the nationalist retreat from opposition to the Dawes plan. The vote today followed a two-day assault on the government by opposition parties. Only the communists voted with Ludendorff followers against the government.

The vote is tantamount to a mandate to the cabinet to go to London and negotiate for the best terms possible.

He would make an excellent governor."

Bryan Fails to Befriend Labor Group

Self-Termed Champion of Toilers Checks Work of Department Which Helps Injured Get Insurance.

Compensation Reduced

Charles W. Bryan, governor of Nebraska, candidate for vice president on the democratic ticket, has made a record for caring for working men and working women, injured while at work, that will be thoroughly investigated by The Omaha Bee. There is presented today a general review of this record. From time to time actual details in individual cases will be presented. Each one will speak for itself.

For years Governor Bryan has been capitalizing his interest in the men and women of the group of toil. He has wept over their condition, and has bemoaned the fact that "there is no man deputed of the king to hear" them.

But when Charles W. Bryan had his great opportunity to stand as the champion of the group of toil in fact instead of in words, he failed lamentably to measure up.

The facts are to be found in a brief history of the labor department of Nebraska. For many years the Department of Labor and Industrial Statistics of Nebraska was little more than a place in which to seat some political worker as a reward for his activities. It was not until 1909 that the labor department's annual appropriation reached the $5,000 mark. Only once between 1889 and 1917 were more than three persons employed in the department.

Function Begins in 1919. During all these years the duties imposed upon the department grew in number, but not until 1919 was it made possible for the department to function in the interests of the men and women it was supposed to serve. The compensation law demanded that if injured persons were to be protected and to receive what the employers were paying insurance premiums to secure for them, the department should be put upon an equal footing with other departments. It demanded a force sufficient to investigate accidents, protect the interests of the workers and secure what the employers were cheerfully paying for—compensation for the injured.

Governor McKelvie in 1915 made the labor department the equal in importance of the banking department, the agricultural department, the finance department, the Department of Public Welfare and the Department of Public Works. For the (Turn to Page Three, Column One.)

Pacifists Rebuked. Washington, July 26.—Branding as "unfair" and "misleading" the methods being employed by certain pacifist organizations in opposing defense day, September 12, President Coolidge today rebuked the National Council for Prevention of War for its opposition to national preparedness.

In a letter to Frederick L. Liddby, executive secretary of the organization, the president said, commenting on the War department's plan in setting aside a day for the observance of national defense: "Instead of being a military gesture, this plan is the exact opposite. It is a nonmilitarist gesture, for the purpose of keeping down to its lowest possible point the professional organization of the United States."
