Maids and Matrons Play First Season of Golf

Each year takes on its quota of beginners at the ever-increasingly popular game of golf. And the new players are not found at any particular age, but include players among the younger school girls as well as matrons.

Miss Eleanor Burkley takes her first golf lesson this week. Summer travels, and interest and skill in riding and swimming, have occupied her time heretofore to the exclusion of golf.

Misses Dorothy Davidson and Betty Paxton are making good progress this season with their first tryouts at the game. Miss Laura Richardson is another promising pupil of the summer.

Mrs. Charles Burgess took her first lesson only a few weeks ago, and, according to the Country club professional, has made most promising progress.

Cool morning hours have found Mrs. A. B. Currie and Mrs. E. R. Houghton carefully following directions for stance and swing. They have developed their game with unusual rapidity.

Mrs. Guy Kiddoo is playing in her first season. Mrs. W. J. Coad has played previously, but has engaged in the game more seriously this summer than before.

Mrs. E. H. Bruening has become a devotee of golf and plans to continue next year.

Engagement of Miss Lobeck Announced

Mrs. Charles O. Lobeck announces the engagement of her daughter, Miss Marguerite, to William Hart Alger, Jr., of Chicago. The wedding will take place in September at the home of Miss Lobeck's sister, Mrs. Raymond Young, where the bride-to-be and her mother make their home when in Omaha.

Miss Lobeck is the daughter of the late Congressman Lobeck. She returned a month ago from Chicago where she was engaged as a student and worker in art.

Mr. Alger is a house guest of Mr. and Mrs. Young over the week-end.

Country Clubs

At Carter Lake.

A dutch treat dinner in which an out-of-town guest was Mrs. W. L. White of Corydon, Ia., sister of Mrs. Emerson Lauck, was given last night at Carter Lake by Messrs and Mesdames Lauck, Roland Jones, J. V. Wessner, Paul Vollmer, O. M. Taylor, Henry Bartling, Leslie Johnson, H. G. Frederick and J. A. Rodman.

Dr. White will motor from Corydon in two weeks to take his wife and Mrs. Lauck home with him.

Mr. and Mrs. Fred Robbins had six guests, the L. B. Hoyts, 4; and Miss Ellanore Lambrecht, 14.

Mr. and Mrs. W. F. Guild entertained Messrs and Mesdames Leroy MacMonigle, Max Smith, W. R. Gibson, Guy Furness, Fritz Nelson, Charles Campbell, E. A. Stringer, Ed Gesman.

War Mothers' Club.

Omaha Chapter American War Mothers' Kensington club will meet Wednesday, August 6, for 1 o'clock luncheon at Krug park. Following is the committee: Mrs. George Browning, chairman; W. A. Wilcox, N. Albreton, A. H. Burr, R. G. Bierman, Lola Craig, E. F. Doran and Julia Dwire.

Miss Field Hostess.

Miss Jean Field will give a tea Monday afternoon for Misses AURELIA TOLLMAN and Burke Wells, guests of Mrs. Ira Porter, and for Miss Julie Bill, guest of Miss Burton Howard.

Engagement Announced.

Announcement is made of the approaching marriage of Miss Alta Davis, daughter of Dr. and Mrs. W. M. Davis, to Wade Reeves. The wedding will be solemnized this month at the home of Miss Davis' sister, Mrs. Leo Wilson.

Mr. Reeves is a Y. M. C. A. secretary and Miss Davis is a teacher in the Omaha schools.

In Army Set.

Miss Margaret Robinson left Tuesday for Portland, Ore., where she will visit for several weeks.

Mrs. Larmon Honored.

Mrs. Frank P. Larmon, past registrar and state chairman of genealogical research, has been appointed a member of the national committee on genealogical research by Mrs. Anthony Wayne Cook, president general.

On Art Committee at Minnesota Fair.

Maurice Block, who has been in Chicago, plans to visit in Ohio soon. He will go to Minnesota later to serve on the art committee at the state fair.

Omaha Whist Club Moves to Clear Lake for Week

Messrs. and Mesdames L. C. Gibson, June Abbott, Louis Nelson, Ernest Sweet, Frank C. Cowdery, Murray Cook, John Austin, A. Dreyfoos, Harry Barton and D. M. Davis will leave soon for Clear Lake, Ia., where they will take part in the annual summer outing whist club tournament held at this resort.

Entrants are mostly middle-westerners, the majority Minneapolis and St. Paul people, but a few enthusiasts from the Pacific and Atlantic coasts join play each year. One hundred contestants are expected this year.

J. R. Broderton, who with his family moved to New York on Saturday, will be missed in the games this year. He has for 18 years been one of the club's most skillful players.

Competition will be keen for the Daniels' trophy, the major prize which two years ago was won by Mrs. Gibson and Mr. Dreyfoos and last the following season to Minneapolis players. The Omaha trophy, it is hoped, will fall into Omahans' hands.

The majority of the party is motoring up for the event.

Novel Membership Drive Planned by Business Woman's Club.

Mrs. Julia Crawford Chiles is the newly appointed membership chairman of the Omaha Business Women's club. The present membership is 207.

The club is to be divided into Davis and Coolidge camps this year. There will be prize awards for those who get the most votes (memberships) for their candidate. The following women—one for each monthly group—will act as campaign managers: Misses Mable Sackett, Anna M. Haskin, Mable E. Casey, Anna E. Ruser, Alice M. Austin, Margaret Fields, Lillian David, Fannie Wallace, Hulda Isaacson, Alma Peters and Mesdames Florence Waterbury and Dr. Francis Turner.

The campaign starts at once and will continue until the annual membership banquet, October 31. All women actively engaged in business or professions—including teachers—are eligible for membership in the Omaha Business Women's club which is affiliated with the National Federation of Business and Professional Women's Clubs.

In Young Set.

Miss Charlotte Smith has as her guest Miss Virginia Morrill of Concord, N. H., a former classmate at Miss Madela's school in Washington, and now at Vassar. Miss Smith leaves late this week for Huron Mountain, Mich., for a house party to be given by Miss Eleanor Farwell of Chicago.

Saturday Picnic.

Picnicking north of Florence, and dancing later at the Country club, were Messrs. and Mesdames E. A. Creighton, J. M. Souby, Misses Mae and Eva Mahoney, Messrs. Charles Magaw and Stockton Beth.

Birthday Party.

Mrs. Dwight Evans gave a party for her little daughter, Betty, in honor of her first birthday.

Country Club Is a Hamlin Town

Young People Danced Away, Not to Piper Strains, But to Solemn Chant of Rules—Will They Be Observed?

By GABBY.

HAMLIN town, after the Piper, took the rolling boys and girls after him, must have been like the Country Club is at present, with the Pepper Potters and their school friends absent at the house party being given by Mr. and Mrs. E. F. Folda for their daughter Marcelle, at Ephraim, Wis.

The great difference is that after two weeks of yachting, swimming, boating and dancing, our young people will return, and if Mr. and Mrs. Folda's plans carry, they will return safely, for instead of dancing off to the sweet strains of a piper, they marched away soberly to the chant of safeguarding rules laid down by their host and hostess.

Excited conversation before the house party guests departed early this week, centered around the "rules" proposed. It is said they are to be rigidly observed during the outing.

No smoking!
No swimming unchaperoned!
No individuals permitted to separate themselves from the group.

Lights out at 10 o'clock.
These and other restrictions. They could not be cause for remark considering the fact that most of the boys and girls in the party are in schools where such regulations are taken as a matter of course.

But mothers at home are divided into two camps; those who think the rules will not be a real success and the others who arise quickly to the defense of their sons and daughters and say:

"Of course they will observe with entire respect all the wishes of their host and hostess."

Time will give the answer.

THESE rules for traveling parties are not a new thing.

This summer Gabby heard of a young affianced couple traveling in a private car through the east who followed set rules, which regulated the times they should be in one another's company to a uniformity with the hours they would normally spend together. Thus though they were in the comparatively small confines of a single car, they had "engagements" either for the morning and evening, or for the afternoon. The plan had been suggested by the two mothers-in-law to be, who naturally wanted the house to run along serenely and peacefully without the danger of becoming inebriate. It was found to be most successful.

GABBY told her readers recently of a young man in Omaha, possessing a New York and Paris background, who on one occasion when his private motor was not available, took a street car out to his West Farman home. It was at the night rush hour and the car was crowded to the guards. Remarkable on his harrowing experience later he is reported to have said: "I had no idea the beastly trams were so popular."

One of Gabby's unknown readers refuses to take the young man's astonishment seriously and writes as follows in a vein which we regret to say suggests disrespect for the sheltered and obviously refined youth.

Dear Gabby: A word in regard to the authenticity of the young nobleman who recently surprised at the patronage accorded our "trams." From the premise that the gent is a native of this region one may draw the following conclusions:

1. His grandfathers probably referred to granddaddies as "the woman."
2. They both run a sporting chance of having been Baptists or Methodists.
3. His father probably was engaged in some iniquitous and profitable form of barter.
4. His father probably thinks of Walt Whitman as a minor political lounge of the 19th century.
5. His male forebears have probably all worn detachable cuffs at some time or other.
6. All have been devout republicans or democrats and three-fourths have been habitual chuffers of tobacco.
7. Thirty years ago, if we can see clearly into that remote past, we might have spied three or four handsome brass spittoons dropped grandly about this Walpole's future home.

Why, shucks, I'll bet his sisters used to do "burnt wood" box covers not to mention leather fringed pillow cases, educator shoes, "Ma, can I have an ice cream cone?" "In my merry Oldsmobile"—sporting a grandfather and one or two sea shells, bought her by the case and put a dollar in the plate every Easter.

Washington Girls' Club Gives Sunset Dinner
Washington Girls' club will give a sunset dinner at Carter Lake club, Wednesday, August 6. Reservations may be made with Mrs. Byron P. Demorest, Harney 5285.

Northern Motor Trip
Mr. and Mrs. Charles F. Gruening and Mr. and Mrs. G. Farish Jones leave this week for a month's motor trip to Minnesota and points in Canada. Their first destination is Itasca Park, Minn.

Miss Fallon Hostess
Miss Marguerite Fallon entertained at the Athletic club roof last evening for Mr. and Mrs. Charles B. Moresarty, who have returned from their honeymoon.
