WHEN THE FIRST UNION PACIFIC BRIDGE AT OMAHA WAS WRECKED. It happened in June 1877. A terrific windstorm swept away one span. This photo was taken by W. H. McKay, 5134 North Twenty-third street.

MISTRESS OF ALL IT SURVEYS. The giant German dirigible, the Hansa, flashes over the north sea like a silver monster in this recent photo taken off the Elbe river lighthouse, 30 miles west of Cuxhaven, Germany. P. & A. photo.

MORE THAN A CUB AT THE GAME. This playful 742-pound grizzly sets his weight at the rear end of his master's car at Los Angeles to get the full benefit of the radio concert. P. & A. photo.

HE "SHOT" MORE BUFFALO THAN ANY FRONTIERSMAN EVER DID. But it was with a camera that "Jake" Palmer of Great Bend, Kas., said to be the oldest photographer in the United States, did the "shooting" when buffalo roamed the plains. He was Buffalo Bill's photographer. P. & A. photo.

WHAT A LEAP! H. M. Abrahams of Cambridge when he won the broad jump at the Stamford bridge, England, track meet with a record of 22 feet, 8 and one-half inches. P. & A. photo.

CRASH! And that was the end of this pill box when it got in the way of a tank during a rehearsal for the big military exhibit at Alderhot, England. P. & A. photo.
