

HILL NOMINATED FOR COUNTY CLERK

Geneva, Neb., Aug. 6.—At the democratic convention held here Earl Hill of Ohio was nominated for county clerk.

Robert B. Waring of Geneva was elected chairman of the county organization and Mrs. Percy Bedford, the former secretary, was re-elected.

Resolutions were adopted honoring the memory of William H. Slater, who had served as county clerk two terms. His daughter, Miss Rebekah Slater, of Los Angeles, attended the convention.

Dunn Ordered to Return Dismissed Officers to Duty

Merely "Laid Off," Judge Rules, and Must Be Given Precedence When Funds Available.

The 21 police officers discharged May 13 are still members of the police force, according to a decision handed down Wednesday by District Judge Hastings, before whom the suit of 17 of the officers for reinstatement was heard.

They have been merely "laid off," the judge holds. They must be reinstated on active duty and attached to the payroll as soon as funds are available or vacancies occur. No other men may be added to the force until these have been put back.

If this order is not complied with, any of the 17 who filed suit may apply to the court for a writ of mandamus to compel the mayor and city commissioners to put them back on the force.

The decision of the judge was in accordance with the resolution passed by the city council when the men were dropped from the payroll. It is signed with the O. K. of City Attorney Van Dusen.

Police Commissioner Dunn said he expects to reinstate six men September 15. To make funds available, every man on the force will be asked to take one day "off" a month without pay.

He didn't say which six men he will reinstate.

Freckles Gained on Motor Trip Annoy James Montgomery Flagg's Model Wife

Rather Have Artist for Husband, Than Business Man, She Says—Illustrator Admits His Persistence Led to Happy Marriage.

"I'd rather have an artist for a husband than a business man." So declared Mrs. James Montgomery Flagg, bride of the famous illustrator and a former New York model, when asked for inside information on artistic temperaments.

Mrs. Flagg's ardent declaration in favor of art over business came following a free admission that artists are temperamental and that temperamental people are not always easy to live with.

"We Both Suffer." "But you see she's just as temperamental as I am," countered Mr. Flagg, "so we both suffer a little. But it's worth it!"

The Flagg's spent Tuesday in Omaha. They are en route to New York by motor, and having driven to the west coast on their honeymoon over the Santa Fe trail they are returning on the Lincoln Highway.

Mrs. Flagg was questioned concerning reports that she had turned down the proposals of her husband two or three times before accepting him for better or worse.

"Wouldn't You?" "Look at him," she responded, laughing. "If you were a girl wouldn't you turn him down two or three times before marrying him?"

To this her very much tanned husband responded: "Well, persistence finally won. I admit I had a hard time winning her, but here we are, in a manner of speaking. We were married May 10 at the Little Church Around the Corner in New York and we're still married, which is something, after all."

Mrs. Flagg was formerly Miss Dorothy Wadman, the model for scores of Mr. Flagg's magazine illustrations. The Wadman profile, the Wadman figure, the Wadman hair—which is not bobbed—and the Wadman ankle all have added grace to many a short story and serial, as reproduced by Flagg's skillful brush.

"Quite Young Enough." But Flagg was not satisfied to capture his model on canvas alone. He conducted a whirlwind suit, now quite famous, and is now saving money by not paying it out as salaries to models.

Flagg is 47 years old and doesn't mind telling his age to the world and sometimes wickered world. Mrs. Flagg sees no need for broadcasting his "advanced years," declaring he is quite young enough to be "awfully nice," and that he "doesn't look half that old."

The model-bride is worried over two things: First, she doesn't like the freckles which have appeared on her extraordinarily fair countenance since they began their motor-honeymoon trip, and, second, she's afraid she's getting fat.

"But, even though I may not be as good looking as when we started from New York, I've enjoyed the trip," quoth Mrs. Flagg. "I thought Los Angeles and San Francisco were wonderful cities, but I wouldn't want to live at either place. It seemed to me that women simply dressed to please men, devoted their lives to that and nothing else out there. Of course, that was only an impression."

The Flagg's were guests of William S. Hart while in California, and Mr. Flagg was wearing a wide sombrero presented to him by Hart.

Kearney to Hold Election on Issue of School Bonds

Kearney, Aug. 6.—The certified check of the Kearney school bond buyers has been returned and Kearney is about to go to the polls to fight out the school bond issue in the manner originally urged by a large number of people who were opposed to the petition method of voting.

The final check-up shows that the original petition was short six voters of the required 51 per cent. It has also been shown that 19 persons were assessed between the first and 10th days of April when the petitions were filed.

Property Secured at Twentieth and Dodge—To Be Larger Than First Planned.

The northeast corner of Twentieth and Dodge streets is the new site chosen for the proposed Jewish Community Center building. The deed was filed Tuesday at the Douglas county courthouse.

It was decided that the previously purchased lots west of the El Beudor apartment was too small for the building which is desired. The new site is 132 by 120 feet. The building will be 88 by 120 feet.

James Allen, architect, is preparing plans. Excavation will be started by September 1, it is hoped.

The structure will be between three and six stories high and will cost over $300,000 or $50,000 more than the building to have been built on the former site.

The new building will contain a swimming pool, tennis courts, a large auditorium and a gymnasium. It will house all Jewish organizations in greater Omaha.

The building is expected to be completed by next June.

Muny Gas Station Closed; Price Cut Given as Reason

Could Not Tell Without Loss, Says Hopkins' Assistant; May Be Reopened Later.

The municipal gasoline station, which was opened February 15 at Sixth and Nicholas streets by City Commissioner John Hopkins, was closed at 10 Wednesday night.

"Violent competition of the nearby 'mystery' station is given as the reason by Paul Leidy, clerk in charge. The 'mystery' station has gone to 11 cents a gallon and the muny station has been selling at 11.2 cents for a few days to get rid of gasoline on hand."

10.9-Cent Price. H. M. Michel, operating the Service Oil company at Eighteenth and Izard streets, announced Wednesday morning that he would sell gas at 10.9 cents a gallon Wednesday afternoon.

"We opened the muny station to fight for a principle, but we cannot sell at 11 cents without a loss," said Leidy, speaking for Commissioner Hopkins.

The municipal station gasoline fund now has about $3,500 surplus and it is understood the station will be reopened when conditions make such action necessary.

Fair Price, Purpose. "Our purpose was to establish a fair selling price for gasoline," said Leidy. Michel Wednesday morning charged that the "mystery" station is being used as a whip "to make gasoline dealers behave as good children, or else close their doors." He also claims that the "mystery" station has accomplished a second victory by the closing of the municipal station.
