

Speech of Walsh Fails to Excite Democrats Here

Refuse to Be Quoted on Their Reaction to Notification Address Monday.

Clarified Waters. "Walsh," he said, "merely clarified the waters and informed those who do not understand or who do not think in a straight line. The trouble with many of us is that we do not think straightly."

William M. Burton said: "In view of W. J. Bryan's published criticism of John W. Walsh prior to the latter's nomination, and of the oft-repeated and utterly false claim of the democrats that they have a monopoly of national progressive principles, I am not at all surprised that Senator Walsh should devote approximately one-half of his notification address to a defense of Mr. Davis. But the people cannot be fooled."

W. J. Topeel, democrat, said: "Senator Walsh showed the same open mind he showed during the oil investigation last winter."

Judge Ben S. Baker rises to remark: "Senator Walsh indicts Mr. Davis of intimate associations with the obnoxious big interests and then makes a weak defense for him. The people will accept this indictment as true and will pass upon the defense made by Senator Walsh in the ballot box."

Loyd Mackey, democrat: "I am further convinced of the sound political judgment of Senator Walsh. He has devoted the major part of his speech to the weakness which has ever been apparent in the candidacy of Mr. Davis, the fact that he represented large corporate interests and that, hence, he may be presumed to look at our national affairs from their point of view."

Clear, Strong Statement. I. J. Dunn, attorney: "It was fine. I think it is a clear, strong statement not only of the fundamental principles of the democratic party, but also of the attitude on present-day conditions. It shows clearly the differences between the republican and democratic parties. His speech covers clearly and comprehensively the issues of the coming campaign."

600 Million Eggs Laid Annually by Nebraska Hens. When the happy cackle of the Nebraska hen resounds throughout the barnyards of the state, it means 600 million eggs annually, which at 20 cents a dozen, are worth $10,000,000 a year.

Nebraska's egg production is playing a more important part each year in contributing to the state's wealth. The number of chickens in the state has increased 28 per cent in the past ten years.

In marketing and distributing Nebraska's poultry and eggs, the local and long distance telephone is used by everyone from the farmer to the consumer, furnishing a rapid and convenient means of communication.

The demand for telephone service increases with Nebraska's steady growth. This requires the Bell System to spend about three-fourths of a million dollars annually for new telephone equipment in this state.

Inasmuch as immense sums of money are required to provide for the growing demands for telephone service, Bell System stock and bonds must be sold constantly. About half a million people in all walks of life already have a financial interest in the business. We shall be pleased to have you join this vast army of telephone investors. Full information about Bell stock or bonds can be obtained from any telephone employee, or call our Manager.

As Nebraska prospers, the telephone is successful. Therefore, we constantly strive to provide reliable telephone service at the lowest possible charges consistent with reasonable wages to employees and a fair return on the money invested in the business.
