Bock-McComb Wedding.

Entering to the strains of the Lo mengrin wedding march played by Mrs. L. C. Dunn at the piano and Mrs. Florence Senior Duerr at the organ, Miss Lela McComb, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. E. McComb, became the bride of Charles Book, jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles C. Bock, Saturday morning at the Second Presbyterian church at 10. The marriage lines were read by Rev. James P.

Miss Esther Hardy and Miss Lois McComb were bridesmaids and were nowned in yellow and lavender geor gette and carried corsages of pink roses and sweet peas. Mrs. Myrtle Peterson as matron of honor was in pink georgette, trimmed in ostricl feathers and carried pink roses. The Misses Dorothy Glee Porter and Florence Ranch were flower girls and they wore yellow organdy. Master John Stuart, nephew of the bride, carried the ring in a lily.

Mrs. Bock was lovely in her brida Mrs. Bock was levely in her bridal McComb) was a bride of Saturday at gown of white marinette crepe, and a very beautiful wedding. On Monsoms, and she carried a shower bouquet of lilies of the valley and brides' guest of the Bachelor Girls' club when Wedding Monday.

A wedding of unusual interest is that of Miss Leontine Louie, daughter of Mrs. Gustave Louie, and Mr Philip Cantone De Beixedon of New York which will take place Monday afternoon at 4 at the home of the bride's aunt, Mrs. Paul Skinner, and Mr. Skinner of Omaha. Rev. Hart Jenks will read the marriage lines with only the immediate family pres ent. After a wedding trip to the Can adian Rockies, Banff and Lake Louise Mr. and Mrs. De Beixedon will return to Omaha for a few days, and will then go to East Hampton, Long Is land, the country home of Mr. De Beixedon's parents. Miss Louie will be married in her traveling suit of brown, with hat and shoes to match. Searles Guest.

Donald Searles honored her guest, Miss Marjorie Green of Des Moines, at a 10 o'clock bridge which was followed by luncheon. Covers were arranged for 8 guests. Prizes guest prize to Miss Green.

Scarfs and Shawls Popular.

Scarfs and shawls are especially popular this year, and some of the younger girls pride themselves with beautiful heirlooms, when in years gone by their grandmothers and great-grandmothers wore them.

Among some of the handsome shawls one is owned by Miss June Davis, who has her great-grandmother's. It is a very lovely white silk with hand-made fringe and is two yards wide. Miss Davis also has a luncheon and later took his guests to Twenty-one guests were in attendvery stunning heavy silk scarf, of a movie blue and green the ends blend and resemble a peacock-another more elaborate one is a very gorgeous white Egyptian hand-made shawl, white Egyptian hand-made shawl, kensington. Out of town guests were Sunday from a two months' visit with which has strips of silver made onto Miss Edith O'Connell of Atlantic and friends in California, was entertained woven into the material. Miss Henry, who visited Miss Davis this last sum mer, brought these two gifts to Miss Davis from Europe.

Miss Jane Schoentgen selected her shawl while in Italy this last winter. It is of a very lovely blue silk, with red flowers embroidered into it and day when Mrs. Charles Grant of Omahas a long and beautiful fringe. Miss Elizabeth Douglas has an exquisite white silk Spanish shawl, em broldered in pink roses.

Miss Marjorie Peacock wears genuine heirloom which belonged to her great-great-grandmother. It is of pale tan silk, very large, and has a brilliant border design with a handsome fringe.

Miss Doris Ross wears an attrac tive pink silk fringed shawl embroidered in pink flowers, which her aunt, Miss Anna Z. Ross, brought to her from Italy Mrs. Albert Dean possesses an heir-

Miss Nancy Stillman wears an old wedding shawl of her grandmother's, the guests of Mr. and Mrs. George which is of tan silk with a handsome fringe.

Many matrons possess rare scarfs and shawls-Mrs. D. W. Bushnell has a very beautiful large white silk shawl, which is embroidered in white and has handsome fringe.

Mrs. J. H. Kintz has her mother's three-cornered shawl of handsome black silk lace, which she prizes very much and is over 70 years old. Mrs. Will H. Maurer wears a mos attractive Liberty scarf, of white silk chiffon, which has a beautiful border of pale pink roses. Mrs. Karl Werndorf expects to bring a scarf from Vienna and Jack Peacock will purchase a white shawl in Italy for his sister, Miss Marjerie Peacock.

Pershing's Aides.

Council Bluffs feels doubly honored when two of its sons were honored by General Pershing, who chose Gen. M. A. Tinley and Eldon C. wedding of more than usual nterest to many Benson people was solemnized Saturday, August 16, at p. m. in the Methodist church when Miss Fenella Pearl Legge, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. P. A. Legge, and Rudolf Carl Mueller, son of Mrs. R. C. Mueller of Columbus, Neb. were united in holy wedlock. Rev. Arthur H. Adams, Miss Legge's pastor, officiated. The color scheme in the church decorations was blue and gold; larkspur and goldenrod being used to carry out the idea. Powder blue satin ribbon streamers marked the aisle through which the bridal train proceeded to the altar, literally banked with palms and ferns. The bride was gowned in white satin crepe trimmed in pearls and wore the usual wedding vell. Her boquet was white roses and lilles of the valley. Miss Ella Mueller, sister of the groom, was maid of honor and was gowned in pale yellow satin. Miss Mildred Dunham, who wore blue crepe, was bridesmaid. Little Miss Mae Stephens, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Stephens, carried the ring. Frank Bange was best man and Paul Monroe and George Condy were ushers. Lohengrin's wedding march was played by Miss Roma Roth. Miss Aneta Drefahl sang "O Promise Me" from Robin Hood and "At Dawning" by Caedman. ## The Old Market Place

There was a time when women "sought out" the seller of goods without solicitation. In those early days a shoe was a shoe and competition was not strong.

Today it is different. Competition is keen; people buy not from need alone, but desire and vanity as well. To succeed today the merchant must induce people to prefer his wares and service BEFORE they go forth to shop.

To do this requires constructive advertising copy plus attractive, appealing illustrations made possible through our clean, "deeper etched" engravings. Phone AT lantic 1000 and let us put new life into your sales literature.
