

Score Injured in Riot at Trial of Leopold and Loeb

Frenzied Mob Fights to Hear Clarence Darrow Sum Up Case for Defense.

To Finish Monday. Mr. Darrow talked long after the usual hour for court to recess. He will resume his argument tomorrow—

State's Attorney Robert E. Crowe will follow Mr. Darrow. He will renew the state's demand that Leopold and Loeb expiate their crime on the gallows.

Defense counsel, in concluding his argument begun yesterday. He attacked the testimony of the state's alienists, contending their examination of the defendants had been superficial.

"It was as if a doctor were to examine a man's left hand and report that he found no injuries to the right hand," he argued. "What would that testimony be worth in the face of positive testimony by another doctor that examination of the right hand had disclosed a wound?"

Admits Slayers Intelligent. He admitted that the slayers were intelligent, adding:

"Our argument is that the very speed with which their minds developed contributed to the split in their personalities, since their emotional lives did not develop at a corresponding rate."

He resumed the state's argument that Leopold should be punished because of his boast that he was "super man, above the law." He said: "We are not defending his philosophy. We contend that his belief in himself as a super man is evidence that his mind is not functioning properly."

The young defendants appeared encouraged by the arguments of Mr. Darrow. The future did not look so black to them. When the state had delivered its attack they were nervous and Leopold was on the verge of collapse. But the trial is telling on them. The suspense increases as the time draws near for Judge Caverly to announce whether they are to live or die. Their faces are becoming serious, drawn. Gray hairs fleck their sleek heads.

Trial Tells on Youth. All through the long trial the youths have been fastidiously dressed. But they realize fine clothes must give way to prison garb or that their lives will be snuffed out by the rope. And it is telling on them.

The father of one of the boys, Nathan Leopold, sr., was in court today. His eyes were downcast. Albert H. Loeb, father of Richard, was not there. He has accused the courtroom since his son was arraigned.

Women Fight Hardest. In the wild mob that fought to gain admission, women were the hardest to control. Apparently sensing that bailiffs would be less severe on women, a number of them bunched together and made a mass attack. They forced their way into the courtroom. Men could not have done it. Physical force would have been employed against them by the deputies. In the struggle a score of women were nearly disrobed. Hats were knocked off and trampled upon and a number of the women fainted in the corridors.

When tomorrow's court session opens a strong detail of firemen and police officers will be thrown about the building.

CHARGE AGAINST MICHEL QUASHED

Police Judge George Holmes dismissed the charge of disturbing the peace against H. W. Michel, gasoline station owner, 117 Park avenue, by Clara Dahlin, his employee.

According to testimony, Michel reprimanded the woman when she insisted that he come down and eat breakfast before he shaved Thursday morning. She became enraged and Michel called police to quiet her, fearing to leave his wife alone with her, he said.

The woman declared that he used profane language. She said he told police to come out to his place, that there was a "coo-coo" woman there. When police arrived they found the woman in the back yard of the house surrounded by her belongings. They persuaded her to leave the premises.

Corruption Charge Hurlled by Davis in Opening Campaign

Presidential Candidate Declares Coolidge Has Failed to Meet Fraud Issue Squarely.

(Continued from Page One.) ... now before them. To this end and with this end only in my mind, I venture, here and now, to express the hope that the nominees of the republican party will see fit by some explicit declaration to join me in entirely removing this topic from the field of political debate."

There was another demonstration as Mr. Davis concluded and the leaders on the stand crowded forward to congratulate him on his declaration on an issue which is one of the foremost in this state. The crowd below the stand swarmed around the exit, cheering and waving to the candidate and it was only with great difficulty a way could be made for him across the street to "the little white house," the summer home of the New Jersey governor.

In the address, which he had carefully prepared before coming here, Mr. Davis laid great stress upon issues of honesty in government, and departing somewhat from the text at times, he brought cheers from the crowds with his reference in veiled sarcasm to President Coolidge's promise of "common sense in government."

Referring specifically to the oil veterans' bureau and prohibition scandals, Mr. Davis declared that the republican party could not escape responsibility for the acts of its high officers elevated by it to high places of power. Then he added:

"If the fact is that the public repute has been shattered, or if any answer to say that a budget system has been installed?"

"If unit and corrupt men have been put and kept in office and left to their own devices, is it a sufficient defense that the administration was not actually desirous of dishonesty? If the wounded veteran has been defrauded of the care that was his due, is there any comfort to him in the fact that congress made lavish appropriations?"

"If it be true that public interest in these things has waned," he asked, "is it not a public duty to see that it is revived before the day of judgment comes?"

"Common Sense" Rule. "In view of the record of the last three years," Mr. Davis said, "they (the republicans) pray, not without reason for a government of common sense. We stand for one of common honesty."

"What is honesty in government? Honesty in the handling of public funds and public property, of course. But it is something more. It is candor and fair dealing and impartiality and the transaction of the public business in the open, in broad daylight, without disguise, or pretense, or evasion. It is the playing of no favorites, whether in making public contracts or in writing public laws."

"It is the treating of all classes and all sections of the country on an equal basis. It is the avoidance of secrecy and whispering and sharp practice in the management of public affairs. Men love darkness rather than light only when their deeds are evil. Whether in Washington or out of it we will have no invisible advisers in our party councils, no alliance with any of those who work in secret for secret ends."

Mr. Davis told his audience that this was only one of the points on which the republican and democratic parties differ and he promised that as the campaign proceeded some of the points already clear would become "plains as still."

Oppose Special Privilege. "They outwardly deplore special privileges, except in the sacred guise of a protective tariff," he said. "We oppose it in this and every other form."

"They believe, or profess to believe that agriculture should be on an economic basis with other industries. They have no plans to this end but the appointment of a committee to investigate and advise that the farmer provide himself with leaders not interested in politics. We think that the first step to economic equality is to deprive others of their unjust advantage."

"They are content to conduct the foreign affairs of the United States through private citizens, unofficially observing. We think America is great enough to speak in its own name."

"They propose now, after nearly four years of absolute inaction, to enroll the United States as a member of the court of international justice. We promise to do so as soon as power is in our hands."

"They present a party made up of a president facing in one direction, a congress in another and the rank and file scattered in between. We have a harmonious army, officers and privates, marching to a common end."

Flyer Still Missing. Washington, Aug. 22.—The first word to be received by the navy from any of its ships along the route of the world flight in the north Atlantic was a brief message that came this afternoon from the cruiser Richmond, reporting that no word had been received from the Italian aviator, Lieut. Locatelli.

LA FOLLETTE-BRYAN PACT IS REVEALED

(Continued from Page One.) ... this character are carried out under cover. "It seems in the present case, however, that it is La Follette's plan to be as frank about his deal with Bryan as he has been about his program to prevent the election of a president in the election and force the selection to a vote in congress, thus giving him, through his control of a small minority in both houses, the position of dictator."

La Follette Strength Exaggerated. "It may be that the frank announcement of such a conspiracy would be good tactics in Wisconsin, where La Follette has the large socialist vote, but in the nation as a whole, it would seem that the boldness of the La Follette-Bryan program would be overwhelmingly repudiated."

"I feel certain that the result of Wheeler's statement of the La Follette program will result in the development of a nation-wide sentiment in favor of a program to 'make sure of Coolidge.' I would not be surprised before the campaign goes much further and seeing to the candidate crystallized into the organization throughout the country of 'make sure of Coolidge clubs.'"

FORCE CITIZENS TO VOTE, SAYS LANDIS

Lincoln, Aug. 22.—Kenesaw Mountain Landis, baseball commissioner and former federal judge, would force all citizens to go to the polls and vote, he told 30 auditors at a luncheon here today.

In his address Mr. Landis said voting in the primary and general elections was a duty and an obligation, and not a "right," as it is called by citizens.

If it were in his power, he said, he would make it obligatory for every person to vote and for the first failure would impose a fine, while for a second offense he would provide a jail sentence.

During a golf match this morning a swarm of bees drove the former judge and his party from a hole, which Mr. Landis insisted on playing. He played it, but without his partner or opponents.

Third Fatal Auto Accident in Family of C. C. George.

Miss Minnedelle George, 57, sister of Charles C. George, president of George & Co., was killed Thursday in an automobile accident while touring Scotland, according to word sent in two cablegrams.

One cablegram was sent by McMichael, solicitors at Callander, Perthshire, Scotland, a town located on the London & Northwestern railway, about 80 miles north of Glasgow. The second cablegram was sent from the Trossachs hotel at head of the lake district in Scotland.

Mr. George, vacationing in Alexandria, Minn., was notified immediately and sent word to Scotland to have the body sent to Galesburg, Ill., the home of Miss George.

Miss George sailed for Europe in June on a tour of the continent and the British Isles. She had almost completed her trip and was making ready to return home. Miss George was well-known in Omaha, having spent many winters here.

She was the sister of the late J. E. George who was killed in an automobile accident at Fairmont, Neb., three years ago and also a sister of Mrs. George D. Tunnick, who died last winter following an operation.

Miss George was also survived by two sisters, Mrs. W. Harris Rooms of New York City, and Mrs. C. M. Edmundson of Galesburg, Ill. Charles C. George will go east to meet the body when returned to America. The British consul, Matthew Hall, who is at present at Dome Lake, Wyo., has been notified.

Tolstoi Lauded to Lunch Club

Continental Speaker Says Russian Leader Was True Christian.

Count Leo Tolstoi was a novelist, philosopher and thinker, according to Dr. E. Holovtchnier, who spoke to members of the Continental club Friday noon at Hotel Fontenelle.

"Tolstoi was unique in Russian literature," the doctor said. "He may be considered as a true disciple of Christ. He preached against evil-doers. He stood for the strict observance of an oath and he stood for simplicity in habits of life. He laid the foundation of a religion on which all could stand."

The doctor gave a sketch of the life of the great Tolstoi, down to his influence on the Russian revolution. "He believed in living as the millions live and toiling as the millions toil," the speaker added.

The talk was so interesting that the doctor was invited to return to the club during the winter and give another talk on Russia, a subject with which he is thoroughly familiar.

Mystery Signals Heard Over Radio

Wireless Experts Speculate on Possibility of Origin on Mars.

Vancouver, B. C., Aug. 22.—Mystery signals picked up by Point Grey wireless station here during the last week culminated Thursday in a strange group of sounds, causing wireless experts here to wonder if the planet Mars is trying to establish communication with the earth.

Four distinct groups of four dashes each came through the ether, the operator stated. The signals, they said, were in no known code, starting on a low note and ending with a "zipp" and that neither a spark nor a continuous wave was responsible for the sounds.

C. W. Mellich and W. T. Burford, operators of long experience, state they have never previously encountered such messages. The puzzling signals cut in on their regular messages and every known method of getting rid of the disturbance was tried without success.

"The fact that I distinctly got four groups of four dashes convinced me that some intelligible communication force was at work," Mr. Burford said.

Two Miners Killed. Superior, Ariz., Aug. 22.—F. W. BOTH FRENCH AND GERMANS IN ROWS

Premier Herriot defended himself frequently, enunciating the high idealistic standard that "France's right must be its strength," and blaming the admitted weaknesses of his negotiations upon the errors or pledges of previous governments.

Blum Attacks Plan. M. Blum, one of the most able debaters in the chamber, made a lengthy speech, which he prefaced with the announcement that his followers would vote confidence in the government. Nevertheless he attacked the government and the Dawes plan freely.

"Polenicism is dead indeed," he said, but then he launched into an attack on a statement attributed to Charles G. Dawes to the effect that the experts' plan would have been impossible if France had not occupied the Ruhr.

"The truth is that the Ruhr occupation dragged us into the Dawes plan," M. Blum added vehemently while the deputies of the left applauded. Near the end of his address, however, the socialist leader put in a good word for the premier.

"We thank the premier," he asserted, "for having begun to establish European solidarity and for having brought the United States, so long absent from Europe's affairs, to turn anew towards us who have need for its aid." This last remark evoked several jeers from the extreme right and the extreme left. M. Cachin shouting, "oh, they aren't disinterested."
