Dairy Show for Omaha Urged to Assist Industry

Chamber Agriculture Committee Surveying Possibilities for Exposition Here This Fall.

A dairy show in Omaha is being urged as a means of furthering the move for dairy development in Nebraska.

The desirability of such a show will be discussed shortly by the agricultural committee of the Chamber of Commerce, and there already is much the golden opinions of the other sentiment in favor of it.

"But it should be entirely possible for Omaha to stage a dairy show at which a few cows of each breed could be on exhibit, and at which lectures by experts on feeding and milk testing and the desirability of pure bred stock could be delivered."

While not directly interested in the development of dairying. Everett Buckingham of the Union Stockyards company expressed himself as being greatly in favor of a dairy show here. He pointed out that Nebraska is developing rapidly in dairying. This development is due to a realization of the need of diversified products by farmers, the work of the University of Nebraska agricultural college dairying department and the formation of the Nebraska Dairy Develop ment association, for which $50,000 recently was raised and which is now operating out of Lincoln

Members of the state college of agriculture faculty will be on bon; to lecture on the advantages of diver sification to farmers and to point out how great an expense a poor mill cow really is, as compared to a good one. They will show how the high grade milk cow will produce many times more milk than the poor one on the same amount of feed. "We believe the train will have a valuable effect in creating interest in the possibilities of dairying as a means for farmers to get through bad crop years," said C. L.
