

Woman Suspect Counterfeiter May Survive Shot

Refuses to Talk About Charge; Husband and Son Arrive at Bedside.

Special Dispatch to The Omaha Bee. Auburn, Neb., Aug. 29.—The condition of Mrs. Hazel Robertson, who shot herself in the breast here yesterday and is in the Auburn hospital, is somewhat improved today and the attending physician says she has a chance for recovery.

Her husband, Gilbert Robertson, and little son, arrived last night. He is a wealthy farmer at Panaman and was greatly shocked by the turn of affairs, but maintains reticence regarding his wife.

Mrs. Robertson is closely guarded and no one but the attending physician and the hospital force are allowed to see her.

She has refused to make any statement regarding the affair with the counterfeit gang.

The gun with which she shot herself belongs to W. S. Charra, husband of the woman who had Mrs. Robertson in custody, and was hidden underneath some clothes in a dresser drawer. It was not known that she had possession of it until after she shot herself.

Bandits Loot Bank.

Minneapolis, Minn., Aug. 29.—Five bandits today raided the Fidelity State bank here while two assistant cashiers were alone, scooped up between $500 and $1,000 and fled.

"Hang These Rats." Worse Than Crime. The Tactful Prince. What Is "Well Born?" By ARTHUR BRISBANE

The Loeb-Leopold case is over, all but the sentence. The representative of the state closed with the appeal "Hang these rats."

The judge orders stricken from the record as grossly impertinent and insulting part of the public prosecutor's speech. It was certainly "red hot" to put it mildly. The man who made it is about to run for public office again.

On September 10 the judge will decide.

It was new in court procedure when the judge denounced the argument of the state's attorney as a "cowardly, dastardly attack upon the integrity of the court and an attempt to intimidate it."

The state's attorney had talked of the power of money in the murder case, and appealed from the bench to the mob, saying: "If they—the young murderers—don't get what they deserve in this trial, I am not so sure they won't hear the cry of the mob."

The public is not quite so sure about it either, but it is not a pleasant subject for discussion in open court.

Will Hays, representing the super-moral end of the movies, talking common sense to moving picture advertisers yesterday, urged them to leave out of their announcements all appeals to the "immoral" side of human nature.

Mr. Hays might have said of such advertising in the language attributed to Talleyrand, that "it is worse than a crime—it is a blunder." Immorality does not pay.

Hays showed that the moving picture is the American product. This country has 6 per cent of the earth's population, 40 per cent of its steel and iron business, more than 50 per cent of its gold, 80 per cent of the total automobile business of the world, and 90 per cent of the moving picture business.

Ninety per cent of those that see moving pictures want to be entertained decently. Those that provide the other entertainment will lose their money in the end.

The young prince of Wales might have made a successful career on his own hook. He has tact, the keystone to the arch of success.

Reporters wired from the ship that he had danced with a young St. Louis girl whom he had never met. When the news was sent back to the ship by wireless, the prince requested an introduction to the young woman and danced with her twice.

Scientists, students of eugenics, welfare workers and others, including the brilliant author of the "New Decalogue of Science," are much worried about human breeding, and the future of the race. "The well born refuse to breed, and the ill born insist on breeding too much," say these anxious worriers.

It all depends on what you call well born. The fortunate child is born of a mother that wants children, and the ill born from a mother that does not want children.

Time, evolution, gradual lifting up of the frontal angle, and public schools will take care of the human race, if the babies get the right start. The right start begins in a mother's affection for the father of her children. Without that, pity the child. With that, everything else can be straightened out. What heat is in the making of steel, affection is in the creation of children.

There are great power and profit possibilities in an absolute monopoly, such as the government postoffice. Two days ago Mr. New, postmaster general, placed a contract for 12,000,000 stamped envelopes and wrappers. These supplies cost the postoffice $5,000,000. Their sale at an average of 2 cents, will bring in $240,000,000.

When the people own and manage their own monopolies, learning from Rockefeller that competition is stupid and costly, this prosperous country will begin its real prosperity.

Mr. Larson, president of the Nebraska Real Estate Boards association, says farm lands have jumped up in price. More Nebraska lands will be sold in the next 90 days than in the past five years. Prices will be higher everywhere. That's good news for Coolidge.

It seems that "Margery," highly successful spiritualistic medium of Boston, could not do "her stuff" in a special locked box arranged by Houdini, the magician. In another box, of her own construction, bells rang, spirit brought messages about papa and mama and all went well.

The radio or telephone would have worked in Houdini's box. The spirits are more sensitive.

The Tuchuns have seized Chinese railways in the Chekiang Kiangsu provinces. Chi Shieh-Yuan, military governor, will fight to get them back. American and British warships are hurrying to the scene. Censorship has been established. Civil war will soon be raging, and so it goes.
