Fire Destroys Bungalow Inn

Woman Receives Burns; Gasoline Stove Explosion Cause of Blaze.

Bungalow Inn, Twenty-third and N street, a small restaurant popular with South Omaha business men, was gutted by fire at 11:45 Wednesday morning when a small gasoline stoy in the establishment exploded.

Mrs. Charles Lindsay, owner, and waitress attemped to extinguish the lames but were compelled to call the fire department.

After the firemen had arrived Mrs. Lindsay ran back into the blazing building to retrieve her pocketbook, containing a number of old coins given her by her mother. Her hair and eyebrows were singed and her
