Girl Forgers Led by Lure of Pretty Clothes, They Say

Longing for Dance Frocks May Mean Prison for Two Maidens at Grand Island.

Special Dispatch to the Omaha Bee. Grand Island, Neb., Sept. 12.-Long ing for pretty clothes in which to at tend dances may mean a jail sentence on a forgery charge for Evelyn Fines. 16, and Millie Pitke, 17, who were arraigned in district court here Wednesday

The girls pleaded guilty to the charge of passing two checks here one for $64 and another for $29 drawn on banks in Kearney and Loup City. Judge Paine took their appli cation for parole under advisement. One of them weeping and the other defiant, the two school girls told of a series of recent dances which con tinued into the early morning hours and of their desire for pretty dresses in which to attend these affairs.

Tuesday, they said, they decided that they must have new clothes at any cost, and they came to Grand Island from Gibbon, where the Pitke girl lives. They purchased a dress at one store, giving a forged check for Samuel S. Carlisle, of the Carlisle-$29 on the City National bank of Burns Grain company, for $250 a Kearney. At another store they month, bought two coats, giving a forged support of herself and their daughter theck for $64 on a Loup City bank. Virginia. The father of the Fines girl is a director of the school district at Shel. Carlisle did not ask divorce nor sepa-
