

Frank Tinney's Wife Says She Is Not Angry

Smiles as She Discusses Plan of Imogene Wilson to Join Comedian in England—but Cables Him.

By KATHRYN LEIBMAN.
Universal Service Staff Correspondent.
New York, Sept. 19.—While Mrs. Frank Tinney today smiled and said she was not angry because Imogene Wilson intends to sail tomorrow to meet Tinney in England, from another source it was learned that she not only communicated her intense displeasure to her husband by cable but that someone in Baldwin, L. I., also sent an undress flash to the English government.

Whether it is her purpose to put stumbling blocks in the way of "Bubbles" landing at Plymouth was not made clear.

Miss Wilson was warned of the move, and said she was taking theatrical costumes and "props" with her to prove that she is going abroad to seek professional engagements and that her objective is Paris, not London—that the British metropolis is only a stop-off on the way.

Wife Merely Laughs.
Aboard the Columbus, the ship on which she and Tinney's valet both have passage booked, she is expected about sunrise tomorrow morning. She has arranged for privacy, undisturbed by photographers and other intruders, peepers and quizzers.

Mrs. Tinney commented:
"It must be thrilling to have your sweetheart send you from across an ocean."

There had been a rumor that this would lead Mrs. Tinney to sue for alienation of affections. She laughed.
"What good would that do me? All the girl has is a few trunks, and I don't want those. But if Frank wants to spend his money I wish he would pay our boy's tuition at St. John Academy."

"However, I guess he will do that. Frank is generous, you know."

No Divorce Suit.
Mrs. Tinney was not the least surprised or angered by this latest show of her husband's devotion to the former follies girl. She said she was far past that state. She added:
"What's the sense of getting oneself upset? Love will always find a way. And if Frank and Miss Wilson love each other—well, that's all right with me. I suppose it all happened because the romance in our love wore off and so Frank sought it else where."

When asked whether she still loves her husband, she answered:
"I will always hold a good thought for him, but I don't suppose that is love."

Though a separation suit is pending, Mrs. Tinney balked at the suggestion of a divorce, saying:
"Divorce Frank? I should say not. It will be only after I am dead that Miss Wilson will have a chance of becoming Mrs. Tinney. And maybe not then."

FOSTER ATTACKS ALL CANDIDATES

By Associated Press.
Fargo, N. D., Sept. 19.—Severe denunciation of the economic policy of the republican and democratic parties, as well as the independent candidacy of Senator Robert M. La Follette was made in an address here tonight by William Z. Foster, workers party candidate for the presidency.

Foster stopped in Fargo en route to the Pacific coast where he is scheduled to make several addresses in furtherance of the workers party campaign.

"There is as much difference between the policies of Coolidge and Davis as there is between the words 'twiddle dee dum' and 'twiddle deum,'" said Foster. "Each party is absolutely controlled by the Wall street capitalist. The American worker isn't represented in either of them."

"Senator La Follette is the candidate of the middle class of America," he said, "but this middle class is controlled by the smaller capitalist. The La Follette movement is merely a movement of the smaller capitalist to gain material advantage along with the over-powerful capitalist of the east. But, I warn you, if La Follette ever wins his way to the presidency he will be at the service of the capitalist, large and small."

Real Home of Sheiks Has Many Lures in Heart of African Desert

London, Sept. 20.—The real African desert has a dozen shapes, a dozen aspects, a dozen colors, a dozen atmospheres, for it is a world of people, not merely a wilderness of geography. When you slip through the mountains which rise from the African shores of the Mediterranean, it is early morning, with the sun shining coldly like a moon, and a wind which pierces a whole thatch of overcoats. A jagged ribbon of white edges a distant peak. It is snow, and that explains why the mountains are green and carpeted with wild flowers. The road runs among vines, which are many in Tunisia, and then among olive trees. With its green-grey air the olive tree completely personifies a whole thatch of overcoats. Maughan Is Modest About His Epochal Dawn-to-Dusk Flight

San Francisco, Sept. 20.—Modesty is the greatest characteristic of Lieut. Russell L. Maughan, whose sensational flight across the continent between dawn and dusk definitely revealed the possibilities of the airplane. "Anyone could have done it," said Maughan almost as soon as the congratulations began to pour upon him from thousands of enthusiastic Americans in all parts of the country. Maughan is hardly a handsome man. He bears a striking resemblance in the stamp of his features to the rawboned backwoods type popularized during the covered wagon days and previous to those days by such men as Lincoln. Not tall, he yet tends the impression of height when he is dressed in military uniform, his wide shoulders and slender figure accentuating his five feet nine—possibly, 10. Maughan's face is a study in human types. His home is in Utah. Seventy-one years ago his ancestors pushed their way across the continent over many weary months in a covered wagon—a journey Maughan made in hours.

BRITAIN ADMITS RUSSIAN RIGHT

By Associated Press.
Moscow, Sept. 19.—Soviet officials express satisfaction over the success of the expedition on the armed transport Kramy Oktabr (Red October), in planting the red flag on Wrangell island, of northern Siberia, taking formal possession in behalf of the soviet republic.

They believe this action will settle the status of the island, which has been in dispute for more than a half century. They regard it as an important base for a wireless station and depot of supplies in event of war. It now develops that Great Britain recognizes Russia's right to the island in the recent negotiations in London. Although the soviets have never had the opportunity of surveying and appraising the resources of the island, the government is prepared to lease it to Americans or others for development, provided Russia is given adequate participation in the revenue. A good part of Wrangell island is barren, but other portions produce excellent furs and fish. It also has a certain potential value in the event of the laying of intercontinental railway between America and Asia.

John Quincy Adams' Descendant at White House

Washington, Sept. 19.—The great-grandson of the first occupant of the present White House was shown through the executive mansion today by President Coolidge. He was Officer Thomas H. Willett, direct descendant of President John Quincy Adams and one of a detachment of Portland, Ore., who called to pay their respects to President Coolidge. Learning of Willett's ancestry, the president singled him out of the group and insisted upon escorting him in person through the executive mansion. All members of the detachment belonged to the I. O. O. F.

Car Driven by Boy Kills Man

Street Railway Foreman Dies in Hospital; Youth Held Under Bond of $5,000.

Edwin Lockhart, 17, 2430 Brown street, is at liberty under $5,000 bonds pending an inquest into the death of Andrew Christison, 1518 Canton street, who died at Immanuel hospital following an automobile accident Thursday afternoon. Lockhart was driving a machine east on Ames avenue. With him in the back seat, were Donald Falconer, 16, 3702 North Twenty-first street, and Lawrence Turner, 15, 2420 Brown street. As Christison, who is road foreman for the street railway company, stepped from the south curb on Ames avenue, he saw the approaching car nearly upon him. According to eye-witnesses, he became nervous, dodging back and forth.

Both boys state that Mr. Christison became nervous and that Lockhart attempted to miss him but that the man leaped in front of the moving car. Christison is survived by his widow and five sons, Lawrence, Egan, Victor, Carl and Wilbur.

TRADE DEMANDS ARE BROADENING

New York, Sept. 19.—Dun's tomorrow will say: "While the general business situation continues in the main to reflect cautious buying, with more attention being paid to current requirements than to future needs, there has been a perceptible broadening in demand in many quarters. The conservatism being so widely practiced has been to a considerable extent offset by the early advent of cool weather which, following immediately a spell of the summer's highest temperature, proved to be a most potent stimulant to retail trade. 'The active consumptive demand for practically all kinds of seasonal commodities has been promptly reflected in improved buying in the wholesale market while this improvement is not altogether uniform, there being few departments that have not benefited more or less from the gain already established to some extent in iron and steel, lumber, dry goods, hides and leather and other important industries and there are numerous indications that a widespread paucity of supplies caused by the hand to mouth buying policy practiced for several months past will have to be remedied at an early date. Weekly bank clearings $7,565,207,000."

New Home of Fillmore Chronicle

Within two weeks the Fillmore Chronicle of Fairmont, Neb., will move into its specially designed brick, concrete and steel building which has just been completed. The new home of the Chronicle will be one of the most modern of the smaller newspaper buildings in the state. It is 32 by 72 feet in dimensions, with the most modern systems of heating, lighting and plumbing. Presses will be of the most modern type. The completion of the new building marks the development of the paper from a small sheet printed on a hand press in a tiny frame 'printing office' to one of the most attractively prepared small papers in Nebraska. The Chronicle was established on May 1, 1872, and was purchased by its present owner, Lou W. Frazier, on July 1, 1885. Frazier has published the paper continuously since that time.

Subscription Dances Planned

Starting September 26 the younger set of Omaha will have a new form of entertainment in the form of subscription dances, to be held in the ball room of Hotel Rome.

George W. Ainlay with his orchestra from the medical school at the University of Nebraska has arranged to play every Friday evening. Mrs. Erma Hubble, hostess of the Fontenelle, will chaperone the dances.

Klan Attacked by Allen White

Emporia Editor Runs for Governor Solely to Fight Ku Klux.

Topeka, Kan., Sept. 20.—Making his slogan "Free Kansas from the Ku Klux Klan," William Allen White in a statement issued today in connection with the filing of his independent candidacy for governor declared "I am in the race to stay and to win." "The issue in Kansas this year is the Klan above everything," the veteran Emporia editor asserted. "I have attacked Ben S. Paulson and Jonathan M. Davis, republican and democratic gubernatorial nominees, respectively, charging that the two major parties in the state are 'led in the race for governor by men who had Klan support in the primary and who will not disavow that support today.'"

Mr. White's statement follows:
"I have filed my petition for governor and am in this race to win. 'The issue in Kansas is the Ku Klux Klan above everything.' 'The Ku Klux Klan represents a small minority of the citizenship and it is organized for the purpose of terror. Its terror is directed at honest, law-abiding citizens, negroes, Jews and Catholics. These groups in Kansas compose more than one-fourth of our population. They are entitled to their full constitutional rights; their rights to life, liberty and pursuit of happiness. They menace no one. They are good citizens, law-abiding, God-fearing, prosperous, patriotic. Yet, because of their skin, or their race, or their creed, the Ku Klux Klan in Kansas is subjecting them to economic boycott, to social ostracism, to every form of harassment, annoyance and every terror that a bigoted minority can use. 'And the leaders of two major parties in this state lift no hand to defend these people.' 'I want to be governor to free Kansas from the disgrace of the Ku Klux Klan. And I want to offer Kansans afraid of the Klan and ashamed of that disgrace a candidate who shares their fear and shame. So I am in the race to stay and win.'"
