

Luncheon Is Given Those Who Landed 1925 Legion Meet

Hastings Girl Cadets, Omaha Legion Drum Corps, Out-State Men and Others Present.

Attendants from all parts of Nebraska at the American Legion convention in St. Paul, Minn., helped Omaha land the convention for next year. There will be nearly 50,000 visitors here for a week. It is a great opportunity for Omaha to get nation-wide publicity.

Those statements were made by Hird Stryker and Leo Bozell during a luncheon tendered by publicity affairs committee of the Chamber of Commerce to the girl cadets of Hastings, the Omaha Legion Drum corps and others who were identified with Omaha's convention success at St. Paul.

Cadets Congratulated.

The luncheon was the occasion of congratulating the young women of Hastings, who won first prize in the drill team contest at St. Paul, and the Omaha Legion Drum corps for winning second prize in its contest.

Harley Conant, chairman of the publicity affairs committee, presided. Gen. George B. Duncan, who returned to Omaha Saturday morning with the Nebraska contingent, stated that he was proud to march with the legionaries at St. Paul as a private.

Reference was made by several speakers to the work of Everett Buckingham and Frank Judson at St. Paul in behalf of Omaha. Announcement was made that the Hastings cadets spoke and smiled the praises of Omaha wherever they went in St. Paul. General Duncan stated that the publicity methods by Omaha at St. Paul was an important factor of the success attained.

Keno Quartet Sings.

Capt. J. M. Turlyfill, instructor of the Hastings cadets, explained that his organization was started in connection with a hippodrome show at a Fourth of July celebration in Hastings. The young women appeared at county fairs and other places and earned enough to pay all of their expenses on the St. Paul trip. The captain said he will bring the cadets to Omaha next year. Roscoe Conklin, in charge of the drum corps of the Omaha legion post, expressed his elation over Omaha's convention success.

The Keno quartet, whose "Omaha" song captured St. Paul and Minneapolis, entertained the luncheon attendants.

Steamer "Decatur" at Omaha Dock With Owners, Passengers, Members of Crew

The steamboat Decatur as she lay at her moorings at the foot of Pierce street, having completed her maiden voyage from St. Louis in 13 days.

Second picture is of the three women and two babies who made the voyage from St. Louis. They are, left to right: Mrs. Thomas P. Craig, holding Doreen; Mrs. Jessie Palmer and Mrs. W. M. Craig, holding W. M., Jr. The three Craig brothers, Thomas P., W. M. and W. L., who are opening the Western Barge line between Omaha and Sioux City, are shown in the third picture.

The bottom cut is of three members of the Decatur's crew, J. C. Palmer, who built the barge at Omaha; George Bruce and J. P. Jipp.

River Tug Here From St. Louis

Comes Without Difficulty, Despite Low Water in Missouri.

The river boat Decatur, built at St. Louis by the Western Barge Line company, steamed up to Omaha, the destination of its maiden voyage, Friday afternoon, having completed the trip from St. Louis in 13 days. The Decatur will haul barges between Omaha and Sioux City.

The steamboat will eventually have six barges to pull up the river. At present but one has been completed. It was built on the river at Second and Pierce streets. Its five masts will be built during the winter, it is expected.

The boat and the Omaha-built barge will make their initial trip up the Missouri to Sioux City the last of next week, according to Thomas P. Craig, president of the barge line. Craig piloted the Decatur to Omaha. W. L. Craig is engineer of the Decatur and vice president of the barge line. W. M. Craig, the third brother, is fireman.

Craigs to Move Here.

Mrs. Thomas P. Craig, Mrs. Jessie Palmer, Mrs. W. M. Craig, Jr., 8 months, and Doreen, infant daughter of the Thomas P. Craigs, also made the trip from St. Louis. The Craigs will locate their families in Omaha, they said.

Other members of the Decatur's crew include J. C. Palmer, who built the barge at Omaha; George Bruce and J. P. Jipp.

"I believe that it is possible to connect Omaha and Sioux City with New Orleans by barge line," declared Thomas P. Craig. "If my company prospers, I may do it."

Old river men at St. Louis told the Craigs they would never reach Omaha.

"We navigated it all right," said Thomas Craig. "And were only aground 25 minutes on the whole trip."

Craig reported the river was the lowest he had ever seen it in his 10 years of piloting up and down it. Craig came to Omaha with the McPherson in 1915, 1916 and 1917, and with the Silver in 1917.

The Decatur draws 26 inches and the barges it will haul will draw eight inches. The river boat has a 65-ton hull. The boat was named for the Nebraska town.

"Decatur was the first town to boost my barge line," declared Thomas Craig. The people there invested $5,000 in the company, so I named the steamboat Decatur."

A permanent dock will be built below Pierce street. A warehouse is now being sought by the barge line concern.

Burton Wheeler Opens Campaign in Middle West

Bob's Running Mate Attacks Dawes; Says Charley Is "Kidnaping Constitution."

Chicago, Ill., Sept. 20.—Senator Wheeler of Montana, vice presidential candidate on the third ticket with La Follette, opened his campaign in the middle west here tonight with an attack on Charles G. Dawes. The senator referred to "Dawes, the banker," and "Dawes, the general of the minute men." The speaker reviewed the history of the Lorimer bank failure, with which he associated Dawes on account of his presidency of the Central Trust company of Chicago.

Cites Bank Case.

The senator stated that, when the La Salle Street National bank decided to change into a state bank, an announcement of $1,250,000 capital and surplus was made, which amount the senator asserted Lorimer's new bank did not have in cash as required by law in Illinois.

"On the afternoon of October 21, 1912, Dawes turned over to Lorimer's new bank the required $1,250,000," Wheeler said. "The agent of the state auditor of public accounts counted it and issued a certificate authorizing Lorimer's bank to do business. Then the $1,250,000 was handed back to Dawes' Central Trust company. The part that Mr. Dawes had taken in his transaction became known when the receiver, appointed by the court, tried to find the $1,250,000."

Calls Dawes "Kidnaper."

The Montana candidate takes issue with General Dawes on an interpretation of the Illinois laws pertaining to the issuance of injunctions by judges against labor unions or other organizations or individuals "merely upon the filing of a bill of equity." Wheeler stated that the enlightened opinion of the American bar is that no injunction should ever be issued in controversies between capital and labor. He also stated that injunction should not be issued in any case unless it is apparent that irreparable damage will be done and there is no adequate remedy at law. Wheeler also charged that Dawes is trying to "kidnap the constitution and convert it to his own uses."

Pyrometer Purchased by Dr. Frank Burhorn

Dr. Frank Burhorn.

Frank Burhorn, who has been practicing in Omaha for 10 years, recently returned from Davenport, Ia., and announces the purchase of a new pyrometer, an instrument whose function is the detection of heat along the spine, for the purpose of locating the extent of nerve pressure having to do with the cause of disease.

Dr. Burhorn in explaining the pyrometer states that it is of especial value, for the reason that it detects the variation of 1-100 of a degree centigrade, and due to that fact, is able to detect even the very slight impingements.

In speaking of the installation of the machine in his offices, Dr. Burhorn states that this new invention will not be commercialized by him. No extra cost or fee will accrue to the patients through its use, says Dr. Burhorn.

"MORE LATIN" IS PLEA OF PUPILS

Special Dispatch to The Omaha Bee. Columbus, Neb., Sept. 20.—"Give us more Latin, ancient language and mathematics" is the universal plea of high school students this year not only in Columbus, but throughout Nebraska and the United States. R. H. McGee, superintendent of schools, announced today, adding that business men and big corporations prefer students trained in classical courses instead of the last 10 years' practical studies.

"Minds of classical students are developed more keenly and business is settling a long argued controversy in education," said McGee.

NEGROES PICNIC ON FREEDOM DAY

The fifth emancipation celebration by Omaha negroes will be held at Krug park Monday, when the park will be reserved exclusively for them. The park closes to the public Sunday midnight.

A parade through the downtown section; the crowning of an Emancipation day queen; a barbecue, and a contest with a prize for the oldest slave, are high lights on the program. Rev. W. C. Williams, pastor A. M. E. church, is in charge of the celebration.

6,000 Tickets to Concert Series Placed on Sale

Omaha Symphony Orchestra to Appear November 20, January 15 and March 19.

With all arrangements completed for the presentation of three concerts this winter by the Omaha Symphony orchestra, the business and professional women's division of the Chamber of Commerce has launched a campaign for the sale of 6,000 tickets to the series.

The concerts will be presented at the Auditorium on November 20, January 15 and March 19, and the season tickets, including admission and reservation for each concert, are sold for $3.

The orchestra will be composed of 60 musicians, including two harpists, and will be under the direction of Ernest Nordin, resident director, and Rudolph Seidl, assistant resident director. Engelbert Roentgen, assistant director of the Minneapolis Symphony orchestra, will be guest conductor at each concert, and will co-conduct the orchestra for a week before each program.

Florence Van Haven, dramatic soprano, will be the soloist at the concert on November 20, and Renee Charnet, French woman violinist, will be soloist on the program of January 15. Frances Nash, noted American pianist, will be the soloist at the concert on March 19.

The campaign for the sale of tickets to assure the financial success of the venture is under the direction of Margaret Lee Knight, president of the women's division of the Chamber of Commerce, assisted by Miss Gladys Shamp, chairman of the concert committee; Miss Grace Rowland, board member in charge of concert orchestra activities, and Miss Sylvia Neuburg, secretary of the division.
