Rheumatism

"Yes! it's all gone."

DO NOT close your eyes and think that health, free motion and strength are gone from you forever! It is not so. You can get rid of your rheumatism by building up your blood power. It is a fact that rheumatism means "blood poverty." It is a fact with the increase of red cells in your blood, impurities are destroyed. It is a fact that S.S.S. will help Nature build these red blood cells! S.S.S. is one of the most powerful blood cleansers in existence. Its results in thousands of rheumatic cases have been nothing short of amazing! The medicinal ingredients of S.S.S. are purely vegetable. This is very important to remember! What can be more inspiring, more wonderful than to see the shackles of pain released from your struggling body, swellings, lingering pains, stiffness of joints and muscles disappear; your stomach made strong; your face pink with the old, sweetheart glow, your blood enriched and your cheeks more plump as they used to be. You can do it! Take S.S.S., the great destroyer of rheumatic impurities.

S.S.S. is sold at all good drug stores in two sizes. The larger size is more economical.

S.S.S. Makes You Feel Like Yourself Again.

A WIFE'S CONFESSIONAL

Adele Garrison's New Phase of Revelations of a Wife

Why Dicky Tried to Side Step What He'd Started.

Despite my anger, and it was hot against both my husband and his mother, I could not restrain a smile at Dicky's discomfiture when he entered Mother Graham's room and saw Junior struggling in his grandmother's arms while he hurriedly fled to his room.

Dicky had indignantly drawn a pathetic picture of the child, sobbing bitterly because of my sending him away, being called into his grandmother's room and comforted in her arms. Instead, Dicky was faced with a disagreeable disciplinary problem, which, in true, masculine fashion he instantly solved.

"That child needs a good spanking, Mudge!" he snapped, and made for the door.

I did not attempt to detain him, for I was well-content with the sudden destruction of the picture he had drawn. He knew as well as I that he had made himself ridiculous, and he also knew that I knew it, which was worse still.

Even his mother's voice raised in a sharp command, "Richard, come here," failed to recall him, and the door closed emphatically upon his hastily retreating figure.

Across my small son's purpled angry little face, my mother-in-law glared at me. But she did not speak immediately. Junior's naughty epithet of "you old bunch of soup greens!" which I recognized with dismay as one of Katie's favorite obnoxiousnesses against people whom she does not like, had evidently roused the temper which both her son and grandson "come by honestly," in the homely old phraseology.

There was hot wrath as well as efficiency in the way Mother Graham twisted the struggling child over her knee, and administered the chastisement which Dicky had suggested.

"There!" she snapped, setting the struggling, sobbing child upon his feet. "If ever in your life, Richard Second, you say a thing like that to me again, you'll get worse than this! Now go over there in that chair until I tell you to get up."

"I Demand—"

I clinched my fingers into my palms to keep from snatching Junior from her during this performance. Only the knowledge that he richly deserved the chastisement for his temper and insolence, restrained me. For I realized that in my little lad's brain was gathering the storm which injustice always brings to any human being possessing any spirit worth mentioning, and for the moment I was powerless to come to his aid.

Junior stood erect for a second, his head thrown back, fighting his sobe, and so fierce was the light in his eyes that I feared he would fly at his grandmother in unreasoning rage. But instead he plunged toward me with a despairing little cry of:

"Mama! She wouldn't let me mind you!"

He was upon me in an abandonment of grief, arms and legs wound tightly around my body. I knew old fashioned discipline demanded that I force Junior to sit down as he had done when he had told him to do so. But sheer love of justice forbade this, and clasping him closely, I moved toward the door, speaking to my mother-in-law apologetically as I did so.

"I will bring him back ready to obey you in a few minutes, mother." She sprang to her feet with flashing eyes and crimsoned face.

"Margaret! I forbid you to take that child from this room!" she shouted. "Is it not enough that he should be taught to insult me by that—that—ape in the kitchen," she was fairly stuttering in her rage—"without your abetting him in his insolence? I demand—"

I did not wait to hear what she demanded. The scene was becoming unbearable for me, and an impossible thing for a child's eyes and ears.

"Will She Spank You?"

"I am sorry, mother," I said deprecatingly, as with Junior in my arms I hurried out of her room, and down the hall into my own.

I locked the door without setting Junior down, and at once had my hands justified, for my mother-in-law's knock resounded on the door, and her furious voice rang in my ears.

"Margaret! If you know what is
