

Bryan Convinced He's White House Timber All Right

Governor Allays "Fears" of Senators Lest He Is Unqualified to "Slip Into" Presidency.

Oberlin, Kan., Oct. 5.—Governor Bryan of Nebraska carried his campaign for the vice presidency into Kansas today, and in two speeches replied to Senators Cummins of Iowa and Willis of Ohio, republicans, and others who have expressed the "fear" that he might become president through a deadlock in the electoral college.

Governor Bryan also declared the republican party was "morally bankrupt with no one having the authority or moral courage to appoint a receiver for it because the party is controlled by the same group that put those in power that have been driven out."

The democratic vice presidential nominee spoke before two large audiences of farmers.

Bryan was urging repeal of the Esch-Cummins railroad act when he digressed to say that "it was this man (Cummins) who expressed fear that I would become president through the election being thrown into congress, while his brother senator (Brookhart) now is out in open revolt against the republican party."

Allays All Fears.

"Others, including Senator Willis of Ohio, are worrying about my becoming president," Bryan added, "yet I was elected in a state where there is less illiteracy than in any other state, where there are more college graduates than in most states, where there are more church members, and where I was elected by the largest majority ever given a chief executive of Nebraska."

"The whole republican party," he continued, "is in open revolt, and in the last two days you have seen a republican senator from Iowa publicly demand that the republican vice presidential candidate be taken off the ticket and another placed there, more in sympathy with the agricultural interests of the country."

Calling attention to the "demoralized state of affairs in the republican ranks," Governor Bryan declared the "only way they could purge themselves and the government put on an honest and efficient basis, is to change to a democratic administration."

Defends Reclamation.

Governor Bryan again bitterly attacked "special privilege," and the proposal of Charles G. Dawes, his republican opponent, that reclamation projects be abandoned.

"Farmers," he said, "don't want special privileges. They merely want a fair return on what they produce, and a competitive selling market as well as a competitive buying one. They do not want to wait, like we have the last four years, for a crop to fall in some states to get temporary relief."

"Unless there is a change in administration," he added, "the farmers will be confronted with the same things they were before. That argument of prosperity of agriculture is only applicable to a few places in the country and will not continue until permanent legislative remedies are enacted."

County to Aid State.

Special Dispatch to The Omaha Bee. This decision was reached by the county board of supervisors today, which decided to aid the state in an effort to prove that the roads are not entitled to a 25 per cent reduction. Platte county would lose $16,000 a year under the 25 per cent reduction plan.

Frost Helps Corn.

Special Dispatch to The Omaha Bee. York, Neb., Oct. 5.—According to reports from farmers in various sections of York county, corn in this vicinity has not been injured by frosts of the past week. While some of the very late corn may show some damage, many have expressed the opinion that this year, both as to number and quality, a 3,000-pound steer has a tent to himself, and is attracting his share of attention, among other exhibits.

It was almost impossible to sleep at night due to the intense irritation. I tried several remedies but to no avail. A friend advised me to try Cuticura Soap and Ointment so I purchased some. Washington Wins Second Game of World Ball Series

Big Fred Marberry, "Relief" Hurler for Senators, Turns Tables on Giants, Fanning Dangerous Hitter.

(Continued from Page One.) Jack Bentley, McGraw's $65,000 south-paw from Maryland, pitched well until the ninth, when he turned in that base on balls. A base on balls is never good pitching, especially when it becomes the winning run.

Bill Klein, umpiring at the plate, had one very close decision which caused the denizens of Washington to swool at him afterwards. It gave the Giants one of the two runs they scored in the ninth. The final score today was the same as the score in the 12-inning game yesterday. It is developing that these are truly halldog teams that are fighting this series, both of them dead game and evenly matched. The fur will be flying all week.

FIRE DAMAGES CUDAHY PLANT

15,000 Gallons a Minute.

Two downtown engines were pumping heavy streams of water into the mammoth furnace, while the Cudahy fire department had started to accumulate steam in its department with 7,500 pounds of pressure and was pumping 15,000 gallons of water per minute into the burning wreckage.

The northwest wind fanned the flames into sheets which towered hundreds of feet high.

Great crowds of spectators, roused from their slumbers by the mad roar of the flames and the clang, clang of the rushing fire trucks, lined G street, L street and South Thirty-third street.

As the wind hurled a blazing brand of wood into the crowd, the people crowded and shoved each other back in frantic fear to get away from the licking tongues of flames.

Roar Heard a Mile.

Roar of the flames from the box factory could be heard for as far as a mile, according to estimate of some of the motorists who drove to the scene.

Two young men, who were among the first to see the lumber yard in flames, immediately volunteered their services for fire fighting, and were assigned to duty with a Cudahy plant hose by Chief of Cudahy Police Peter Jolly.

They are Walter Berger, 4314 South Twenty-third street, and Edward Nowiski, 3662 I street.

Pressure of the water in their hose was so weak that Chief Jolly immediately started an investigation, but could establish no definite cause.

Lights Go Out.

Lights in the office building went off at 2 a. m.

An emergency detail of five officers.

Roar Heard a Mile.

The last big packing house fire in Omaha was in the Armour & Co. plant in February, 1923.

The blaze lasted four days and it was two days before the flames were reported under control. The fire was discovered in the dead of night on February 14. It burned itself out. One fire engine pumped water continuously into the flames for 87 hours.

cers was dispatched from central police headquarters to augment the South Omaha force in handling the crowds at the scene of the fire, while the entire motorcycle squad was pressed into directing the traffic of the many automobiles filled with spectators on their way there.

Blood-Red Sky.

Miles of sky were painted blood-red by the reflection from the fire and the Omaha Bee office was flooded with questions of anxious Omahans, asking where the fire was located and what danger there might be of it spreading toward town.

Reports were received that the fire could be seen clearly from the vicinity of Thirty-second and Myrtle avenue, while the studio operators and announcers of the WQAY radio station atop the Woodmen of the World building reported a vivid view from that vantage point.

Farm Banks May Cut Loan Rates

Director Expects Action to Dispose of Surplus Deposits.

Columbus, Neb., Oct. 5.—Revision in interest rates of the Federal Farm Loan banks of the United States on or before March 1 or else the declaration of an extra dividend to the stockholders is one of the actions which P. F. Luchsinger, director of the Omaha Federal Farm Loan bank and in charge of the local branch here, anticipates when the 12 presidents of the regional Federal Farm Loan banks hold their meeting in Washington this fall.

Mr. Luchsinger said today that a movement was under way to standardize the banks so that those which have reached standard requirements may make lower rates. The standardization would require that the bank have a reserve equal to 20 per cent of capital stock.

The Omaha bank, Luchsinger said, is in the best condition of any of the 12 banks in the United States, with a million in legal reserves, and a capital stock of $5,000,000. At the present time, Mr. Luchsinger says the loans are practically stationary although none of them is being reduced.

Swarms of Gnats Appear.

Columbus, Neb., Oct. 5.—A veritable deluge of gnats, in masses six to eight feet above the ground, almost darkened the air for several hours today, bringing discomfort to autoists and pedestrians. The swarms extending in a swath several miles wide coming from the west moved gradually east and south.

COOLIDGE RISES WITH BALL FANS

Washington, Oct. 5.—President Coolidge was a baseball fan this afternoon and the excitement which stirred 37,000 other fans to the wilder pitches of emotion brought the president also to his feet time and again, applauding vigorously the hectic points in the thrilling 12-inning opening battle of the world series.

Mr. Coolidge, also a baseball follower of more or less enthusiasm, lit his cigar and sat back at the opening of the contest apparently ready to enjoy a leisurely two hours. The cigar went out twice in the early part of the game but when Kelly hit a homer for the first marker and Judge followed soon after with the Senators' first hit, the story burned more steadily.

PROPOSED DRIVE CAUSE OF SUIT

Ten property owners, living in the southeastern part of the city, whose property is included in the land recently appraised for the proposed river drive, filed suit in district court Saturday for damages which they declare they will incur if the city demands the lots at the appraisal figures.

Rev. Edwin Hart Jenks, pastor of the First Presbyterian church, yesterday celebrated his 25th anniversary as pastor of that organization. Rev. Mr. Jenks spoke on "Remembered Years." Tuesday evening a reception will be held at the church in his honor.

Rev. Mr. Jenks came to Omaha from Los Angeles, Cal. In the course of his address he reviewed the growth of Omaha and of the First Presbyterian church itself since he arrived. He first visited Omaha in 1883. In 1899 he accepted the pastorate of the First Presbyterian church.

"Approximately 7 per cent of the men and women who were in my church in 1899 are still attending this church," said Mr. Jenks.
