

Burgess-Nash Granted Delay for One Week

Receiver to Be named October 13 Unless Company and Two Creditor Groups Reach Agreement.

With three eastern mercantile companies said to be negotiating for the purchase of the assets of the Burgess-Nash company, a final effort will be made this week to effect an agreement between the Burgess-Nash company and two creditor groups—banking and merchandising.

B. H. Dunham, referee in bankruptcy, will appoint a receiver for the company next Monday unless an agreement, in writing, between these two groups of creditors and the company, is presented to him before that time.

These decisions were reached Monday morning at a hearing before Mr. Dunham in the Federal building.

Asks for Time. E. M. Morrison, representing the Burgess-Nash company, declared that it would be easy, in view of the company's recent progress in reorganization, to effect an agreement with the creditors.

He asked that he be given time to go east to see these men and take up plans for a definite reorganization along the lines proposed by James Jackson, vice president of the National City Bank of New York at a meeting in Chicago last week.

Attorneys for the merchandise creditors insisted that a receiver be appointed at once and the referee finally agreed that, in case an agreement cannot be reached, the receiver would be appointed next Monday.

J. A. C. Kennedy, appearing for the banker group, opposed immediate appointment of a receiver. He said the company might be sold ultimately to a chain store group which would renew the lease on the present site of the store for 30 years at a rental of $120,000 a year, in place of $72,000 now paid.

Would Aid Stockholders, Claim. He added that if this group obtained control of the store stockholders would be benefited by the better facilities of the company for fall buying.

W. C. Dorsey and Malcolm Baldrige, appearing for the merchandising group, opposed any further delay on the ground that nothing had been done as yet to aid their clients. They declared that they represented 400 creditors with claims totaling $500,000.

The total amount of the claims of the banker group is $1,200,000, according to Mr. Kennedy.

State Corn Value Is $195,000,000

Crop of 209,000,000 Bushels Forecast; Average Price to Be 95 Cents.

Nebraska farmers will receive approximately $195,000,000 for this year's corn crop.

This estimate, which was made Monday by Omaha grain men in inquiry of the bureau of publicity of the Chamber of Commerce, is based on a corn crop of 209,000,000 bushels, forecast September 1 by the government. It is believed the farmers will receive 95 cents a bushel for corn, with a total of more than $3,000,000 allowed for marketing costs.

Farmers who shipped grain to the Omaha market in August received $14,854,706, of which $11,963,250 was for wheat, the state's great cash crop. Cash payments for grain received on the Omaha market in September are estimated to total $9,600,000. Effect of this big payment has been noticed in the increase of bank deposits, increased buying, both wholesale and retail and better business generally during the past month.

Stockmen also have been cashing in on their stock during September, as evidenced by the large receipts of the Union Stock Yards company during the month. Receipts totaled all the previous September records for hogs. A total of 977,536 head, including 205,731 cattle, 15,450 calves, 202,034 hogs, 552,873 sheep and 1,418 horses and mules were received the past month. This is 130,511 more sheep and 5,900 more hogs than were received in September, 1923.

The filing of the petition for the regular budget was followed 22 days later by the filing of a remonstrance. The farm bureau in asking for the injunction alleges that the remonstrance should have been filed within 10 days. It is also alleged that some 215 farmers' wives signed the remonstrance and their names are ineffective. If these names are eliminated, the remonstrance falls to have sufficient signatures. A temporary restraining order was granted and the case set for hearing Wednesday, October 8.

Official Cudahy Loss Is $275,000

Omaha Firemen Commended by Superintendent; No One Out of Work.

Damage to the Cudahy Packing plant by fire of undetermined origin Saturday night will exceed $275,000, according to the estimate offered Monday morning by R. E. Youcm, general superintendent of all Cudahy plants, and George L. Raymer, claim adjuster, who are in Omaha investigating the blaze.

Loss to buildings was placed at $75,000. Stock destroyed was valued at $200,000.

The fire, first discovered at the lumber yard, destroyed a lumber shed and the lumber stored in it, the loading dock between the railroad track and the box factory, swept the Old Dutch Cleanser storage plant, damaged hides stored in the hide cellars beneath it and ruined machinery and lumber in the box factory. Three box cars valued at $3,000 each, and containing 37,500 in lumber also were destroyed.

Work of the Omaha fire department in fighting and checking the blaze was commended highly.

A thorough investigation into the origin of the fire will be made, Superintendent Youcm announced.

The Old Dutch Cleanser storage plant was valued at $60,000. The fire did $45,000 worth of damage to it.

Twenty-four employees of the cleanser plant will not be thrown out of work by the fire, officials stated. They will merely be transferred to other departments.

Butler to Shout "Oil" at Norton

Platform to Be Announced Tuesday; Promises Exposure of "Interests."

Dan B. Butler, progressive candidate for governor, stated Monday morning that he will announce his platform Tuesday morning and at that time will have a few words relevant to the candidacy of J. N. Norton, democratic nominee.

Mr. Butler indicated that in his forthcoming campaign declaration he will state that Norton is too friendly to persons who are friendly to the International Harvester company and the Standard Oil company to be "for the people."

Worked for Oil Attorney. "Before his nomination, and even since, Norton was in the offices of Arthur Mullen and W. H. Herdman of this city," Butler said. "Mullen is attorney for the International Harvester company and Herdman represents the Standard Oil company. Draw your own conclusions. I am going to tell the people about these things when I start out this week on my speaking tour of the state."

Butler would not disclose all of the information he said he had on the subject of the alleged interest of the International Harvester company and the Standard Oil company in the election of Mr. Norton.

"Just wait until I begin my campaign talks and then I will tell what I know," he added.

Petition Held Illegal. Butler stated that he received a telephone call Monday morning from Secretary of State Pool, stating that the petition filed in behalf of Butler last week was not legal because ditto marks had been used under the address of "Omaha," instead of writing the word out against each name.

"You had better look up the law," was Butler's sharp reply to the secretary of state.

Campaign pictures of Butler contain "progressive" as the party designation.

Then bitterness and anger filled him. His first thought was that some boys in the neighborhood who had known about the melon had come in the night and feasted on it. He clenched his fists and declared that

Burgess Bedtime Stories

By THORNTON W. BURGESS.

The prize is never yours till won. Nor task completed till it's done. —Farmer Brown's Boy.

Why Farmer Brown's Boy Left the House Whistling. He was on his way to the melon patch in the garden to get the big watermelon he was sure would win first prize at the fair a few days later. All the way to the garden he whistled. He had visited that melon just before dark the night before. He had been tempted to take it up to the house then, but had decided to leave it on the vine just one night more.

He entered the garden and made his way to the melon patch. Then he looked eagerly for his prize melon. He stopped whistling abruptly. With

With a cry of dismay he ran forward to where his prize melon should have been.

"It must have been had boys from the village," declared Farmer Brown. "Somehow they must have learned about the melon and came up here for a feast last night. You know there are boys who seem to think that taking melons isn't stealing. It is. It is just as much stealing as taking other things that do not belong to them."

"But how could boys have done that and left no footprints?" demanded Farmer Brown's Boy.

he wouldn't rest until he had found out why he had done this and had made them pay for it. He tried to think what boys were mean enough to do such a thing. But he couldn't think of one that he could honestly suspect. Then it popped into his head that a tramp might have come along and discovered that melon patch. For the first time he thought of looking for footprints. He looked and looked, but the only human footprints he found around that melon patch were his own. This was queer. It was very queer. It seemed as if the thief of thieves must have left a footprint somewhere.

Farmer Brown's Boy returned to the remains of his once beautiful melon, the melon that now never would win a prize. Anybody had given away to the puzzled wonder. Who could have eaten that melon? The more he thought it over the more he realized that boys or men would have been likely to carry that melon away and not break it open and eat it there. But, think as he would, he couldn't think of any one but boys or men who would want a melon to eat. Once more he made a careful, very careful search for human footprints. His own were all that he could find.

Farmer Brown's Boy had come to the garden whistling. There was no merry whistle as he slowly made his way back to tell the news of the loss of his prize melon. Once more he was very close to tears, for his disappointment was very great. And when he wished he had taken that melon to the house the night before, as he had been tempted to do!

The faces of Farmer Brown and Mrs. Brown was very grave as they listened to the story of Farmer Brown's Boy. They didn't like to think that they had any neighbors who would do such a thing.

"I must have been had boys from the village," declared Farmer Brown. "Somehow they must have learned about the melon and came up here for a feast last night. You know there are boys who seem to think that taking melons isn't stealing. It is. It is just as much stealing as taking other things that do not belong to them."

"But how could boys have done that and left no footprints?" demanded Farmer Brown's Boy.
