Dawes Hits New Note in Campaigning

Candidate Deaf to Pleas of Political Wiseacres; "Give Public Facts," His Plan.

Points La Follette Danger

Staff Correspondent The Omaha Bee. En Route With Dawes, Casper, Wyo., Oct. 9.—To one who has ridden "round the circle" in past campaigns, with candidates for president and for vice president, the physical features of the present trip are much like all other such trips. The newspaper men, who are along to represent the great press associations and the special representatives of papers in the bigger cities, are much the same fine type of men as have traveled with the candidates in previous campaigns. In fact many of them are the same men.

The meetings in the towns are much like all other meetings. The crowds that gather to hear the rear platform talks are like all other such crowds, sections of the great American sovereign, the people.

Outwardly this Dawes' train is just a campaign train—and yet there is something here that is altogether different. It is the candidate that is different. It is Dawes. He is unlike any candidate within the experience of the newspaper men aboard.

The difference is in Dawes, yes, but more properly it might be said that the difference is in Dawes' training. All his life, Dawes has dealt with facts. A fact, to Dawes is the biggest thing.

It may be a stubborn fact, it may be a disagreeable fact, but neither less it is a fact and this is the purpose, as he knows that. Dawes also knows that the American people can understand facts if they are presented properly. He has been a thorn in the side of many old-time political advisers who believe that the people want to hear glittering promises and oratory.

The winning of votes is the primary purpose of this campaign trip. Dawes knows that this is the purpose, as he knows that. Dawes also knows that the American people can understand facts if they are presented properly.

Thus it is, that on this trip there is felt the difference between other trips and other candidates come to mind.

There are three big facts in this campaign that Dawes has seen from the beginning:

First, that La Follette would be the real contender in the election struggle.

Second, that the backbone of the La Follette movement, the only real national organization, the only factor in the heterogeneous makeup of (Turn to Page Two, Column Two)

Fink Makes Affidavit Upon Probe

Says Wheeler and Brookhart Induced Roxie Stinson to Testify Against Daugherty on Framed Evidence.

Steck Reads Statement

By Associated Press. Burlington, Ia., Oct. 9.—An alleged affidavit by A. L. Fink of Buffalo, N. Y., describing Fink's version of how Senator Burton K. Wheeler induced Roxie Stinson to testify against former Attorney General Harry M. Daugherty, was read tonight by Daniel F. Steck, democratic candidate for United States senator of Iowa, in a campaign speech. Steck charged that his republican opponent, Senator Smith W. Brookhart, assisted in obtaining Fink's services to induce Miss Stinson to testify. Steck said he has started petitions to Attorney General Stone, requesting an investigation of the Daugherty investigation committee.

The affidavit said that Fink, in return for assistance in the senate investigation, was promised the office of internal revenue collector in Buffalo, and that his attorney, Henry Stern of Buffalo, was promised a federal judgeship in New York. The affidavit said these promises were made by Senator Wheeler. It asserted that Wheeler promised Miss Stinson opportunity for personal gain on the New York stock market if she would testify.

Asked Her for Loan. Reading the affidavit, Steck quoted Fink as saying he went to Cleveland on February 18 last, on business. From newspapers he learned that Roxie Stinson, a friend of 12 years ago, had fallen heir to a considerable amount of money. In need of additional funds for his business, he requested Miss Stinson to meet him. They went to a hotel to discuss his affairs, but Miss Stinson interrupted the affidavit said, with the statement: "I have a far bigger deal on right now and you ought to come in on it."

No Real Evidence. Fink, the affidavit continued, "realized that the woman knew nothing positive but was depending purely upon hearsay and gossip."

Handed Subpoena. "At last we have got something to go on," the affidavit quoted Senator Wheeler. Wheeler then told Fink, the affidavit continued, that Wheeler wanted him to go to Columbus and bring Miss Stinson to Washington, but the Buffalo man refused. Wheeler then handed him a subpoena and informed him he was in the service of Senator Wheeler.

Digest Poll Shows Coolidge Holding Commanding Lead

Latest Figures Give President Margin of 447,172 Votes Over Next Candidate.

With a total of 1,481,591 votes counted, including those for half a dozen lesser candidates for president, President Coolidge continues to maintain his majority over John W. Davis and Senator La Follette in the Literary Digest poll. The returns are from 42 of the 48 states.

Coolidge Leads in Nebraska. Nebraska votes so far counted are as follows: Coolidge, 64,847; Davis, 7,983; and La Follette, 6,381.

Democratic Returns Slow. "On the other hand, as the Digest has frequently pointed out, democratic returns have been slow to come in, due partly to technicalities in the mailing of the ballots, and even in the present large returns, including 42 of the 48 states, it will be observed that most of the southern states have so far made a small return, and that the results of this election were, and we can compare the prophecy and the fulfillment. The last returns on the Digest's straw ballot appeared (Turn to Page Two, Column Three).

The Story

Of a man who had money and didn't know what to do with it. Of a man who was king—over no more than a small Pacific Island, to be sure, but still a king. A highly improbable person? You won't think so when you read I, THE KING

Frosts Play Havoc With Corn Crop

Heavy Loss During September, Wheat Prospects Increase; Large Crops of Oats, Hay in Forecast.

Nebraska Corn Damaged

Washington, Oct. 9.—Frosts played havoc with the country's corn crop during September and today's forecast of production by the crop reporting board of the Department of Agriculture showed a loss of 54,000,000 bushels in the month with the present prospective production placed at 2,453,000,000 bushels, much of which will be of low grade.

The wheat crops prospects were increased to the extent of 12,000,000 bushels, with the total crop now preliminary estimated at 856,000,000 bushels, of which 589,000,000 is winter wheat. Spring wheat, the preliminary estimate shows, is an excellent crop with 266,000,000 bushels of which 53.4 is of a high medium grade.

Tobacco is low. Tobacco productions, estimated at 1,182,000,000 pounds, is 309,000,000 pounds below last year's crop, and is below expectations. Sweet potato, apple and cranberries production also are below last year.
