

Two Huge Sales in Omaha Stores Rich in Bargains

Crowds Through Burgess-Nash and Brandeis' After Liberal Newspaper Advertising.

Monday was a notable day in merchandising history of Omaha. A stock-reducing sale at Burgess-Nash company's store and an annual progress sale at the Brandeis store offer the explanation. These sales will be continued throughout the week, and the Burgess-Nash sale may be extended.

A trip through the Brandeis store Monday afternoon offered evidence of unusual activity in all departments. Karl Louis, general manager, stated that this year's progress sale was being started satisfactorily.

"Last year's progress sale broke all records for receipts in this store," Mr. Louis said, "and it looks like this sale will exceed last year's. He explained that full assortments of fall merchandise are included in this sale, which is being held in all departments of this great establishment.

A similar scene greeted the visitor at Burgess-Nash company's store where all departments were busy serving the hosts of eager buyers. This condition applied to all departments.

F. P. Redmond, manager, moved through the throng, from floor to floor, and viewed the busy scene. "This just demonstrates that the people of Omaha want this store to stay," Mr. Redmond said. "We are raising $1,000,000 by reducing the stock, and our advertisements in the Sunday newspapers certainly brought results. I am unable to state how long it will be necessary to continue this sale to raise the required amount, but if this large attendance is maintained, we will soon accomplish our objective."

Mr. Redmond stated that his store has an organization of nearly 1,000 clerks serving the people during the stock-reducing sale.

Mr. Louis, at the Brandeis store, also referred to the results obtained by liberal advertising in the Sunday newspapers.

Omaha Woman's Club Entertains Two Visiting Federation Celebrities

Mrs. Francis B. Whitley

Two celebrities in women's club circles were honor guests at a luncheon given by the Omaha Woman's club at the Y. W. C. A. Monday, Mrs. W. McNabb Miller of St. Louis, general federation chairman of public welfare, and Mrs. Francis Whitley of Webster City, Ia., past chairman of conservation for the federation.

Mrs. Horace J. Holmes, head of the conservation committee for the local club, presided. Among the guests at the speakers' table were Mrs. Phillip Potter, president of the Omaha Woman's club; Mrs. James Dahman, wife of Mayor Dahman; Mrs. C. E. Johannes, Mrs. C. L. Hemple and Mrs. F. H. Cole, past presidents of the club; Mrs. E. Bedner, president of the Omaha College club; Mrs. L. B. Webster, president of the North Side Woman's club; Mrs. L. M. Lord, Dr. Jennie Califas, and Mrs. Blanche Poe, who led the singing.

Mrs. Miller, in forecasting the work of her department for the biennium just begun, said: "As recognized, the public welfare department includes child welfare, public health, problems of industry and problems of delinquency. Justice for the first American, the Indian, is one of the big jobs the federation has given itself."

Mrs. Whitley spoke freely on conservation, a subject which is swinging into its proper place of importance in her opinion. "Years ago when Roosevelt called a conference of governors to consider the subject of conservation of our natural resources, he was widely criticized for taking up a 'fad,' the speaker said. Such a view of this important subject sounds like a joke to us now.

"Millions of acres in our country have been depreciated by ruthless treatment. Land has been made unfit for agriculture or even cattle. In Michigan stand 13,000,000 acres of idle land over or burnt over, unfit for use.

"Eighty-five per cent of our running waters have been polluted by municipal filth or industrial waste. Hoover himself told me," continued Mrs. Whitley, "that in 10 years there will be no oyster beds on the Atlantic coast unless something is done.

"I thought it was a joke until I saw with my own eyes that it was not, when I heard that mothers had to take along a jar of gasoline for scrubbing their children after they had been in bathing in waters along the Jersey coast."

These visiting women were on their way to Grand Island where the state federated clubs open their annual convention Tuesday morning. Fifty Omaha women left Monday night to attend.

Mennonites Hold Special Services

Fiftieth Anniversary of Colony's Arrival in York County Celebrated Sunday.

York, Oct. 13.—The 50th anniversary of the arrival of the Russian Mennonite colony in York county was celebrated Sunday with special services at their church in Henderson. These people have prospered materially. Homes have developed from first shanty-like sod houses to buildings of comfort and elegance. Their garages are built to hold immense wheat crops which come in good years, and often crops for several years are stored, waiting for good prices.

That they were good judges of land is shown in the fact that their present rich farms were chosen from land discarded by other early settlers who came about the same time to the same vicinity. The village of Henderson is almost entirely Russian. The land for it was given by one of the early Russian settlers, Cornelius Regier. The town, while not large, has always been a prosperous trading and shipping point.

Of the 35 families who came in the first colony, only 40 people survive. The last year has marked the passing of many of these sturdy pioneers.
