

International Year in Tennis Forecast by Net Stars' Trips

Borotra, Brugnion and Kinsey Brothers to Go to Australia, Japan and China.

NEW YORK, Oct. 20.—Tennis during the coming season promises to be greater internationally than it has been at any time during its history. The United States, French, Australian and Japanese players are planning tours in various countries which are of mammoth scope, and the English are due in the United States.

The Kinsey brothers, Robert and Howard, according to present plans, are going to make a sweeping tour through Australia, Japan and China. This will be their first long trip and will extend over a period of six months. Bob Kinsey last year went to Honolulu, capturing the mid-Pacific tournament there, and the brothers have made other short excursions, but nothing corresponding to the present one.

Jean Borotra, captain of the French Davis cup team, which was defeated this year by Australia at Longwood, has planned a year of constant travel, covering practically the same course as that of the Kinsey brothers. With him will travel Jacques Brugnion.

It is expected that the Harvard-Yale team will be hosts to the Oxford-Cambridge tennis players next summer. This year the Americans went to the other side.

T. Harada and Masanao Fukuda during the last season talked of bringing several college undergraduates to this country so that they might see how the game is played here. It is possible that the plan will be carried out.

Vincent Richards for a while contemplated a trip to Australia, but will remain in this country for the time being. His trip was to have taken him through February to the formal opening of next season.

It is also expected that the Australian Davis cup team will be back in this country next summer. This year found Pat O'Hara, Wood, Norman E. Brookes, R. E. Schlesinger and Frederick Kalms here for six months, playing in all the leading tournaments.

Says "Bugs" Baer:
TEX O'ROURKE AND HIS THREE
 Trio of English Heavies Are Here for the Indoor Slugging Season.

TEX O'ROURKE is back from England with three imported heavyweights. The old boy is anxious to start a Tong war with the local heavies.

Bringing them over in threes is something different. Tex says there are no Bombardiers or Gunners in this squad of canvas bouncers.

He is teaching them to fall correctly. After the boys learn to tumble in rotation, he is going to send them after Dempsey.

He had better send them three at once. Bombardier Wells tried fighting one at a time, and the Bombardier never felt lonelier in his life.

Tex doesn't claim that any one of his champs can whip Dempsey. But he intends to build them up slowly and allow nature to take its course.

The fighting game is flatter than a mud bank with the tide going out. When Wells rolled Firpo he took the interest out of the heavyweight class. Tex may be able to build it up, but until he does that, all heavies should learn a trade.

The three English knuckle clerks are all good fighters. Tex got them in an elimination contest. At the finish, there were only two fighters left and one spectator. So, Tex took all three of them.

The spectator turned out to be the best of the bunch. He weighed about 200 pounds, would rather fight than eat, and only eats because it gives him a chance to pick a fight with the waiter.

A good English champion would hype up boxing. The game started there and it only seems proper that the cradle of boxing should start rocking again.

Here's hoping that all three of Tex's athletic immigrants all make good. Not only for their own sake, but for the sake of heavyweight boxing, which is now withering on the stalk.

We have had French champs, Argentine bulldozers, Spanish sluggers, Chinese bouncers and Mexican heavies. Boxing is what made the Latin world lay down knives and take to their fists.

And if Tex's expedition turns out to be fat spluttering in the pan, it looks like England will have to take to knives.

We are not rooting for Tex to knock off Dempsey, but we would like to see one of his fighters come through.

Frisco Loses Chance.
San Francisco, Oct. 19.—The San Francisco baseball club of the Pacific Coast league, winner of the pennant last year and leader for three-fourths of the present season, lost its last chance to annex another flag when it dropped a game to Oakland this morning, 11 to 2. This left the race between Seattle and Los Angeles, with the outcome dependent on double-headers today.

"Red" Grange Turns Down Position With Insurance Company to Juggle Cakes of Ice During Summer Months

Urbana, Ill., Oct. 20.—For the love of football, Harold (Red) Grange, the famous halfback of Illinois, is an ice man during the summer vacations instead of a much higher salaried insurance salesman, Grange said today, in discussing his athletic and scholastic ambitions.

"I was offered a good chance with a life insurance company," he said, "but I figured that the hard labor of handling cakes of ice would put me in good physical condition for football this fall. I took off 10 pounds last summer by heaving ice and I expect to go back on the ice wagon next summer because I have another year of football to play."

"After that I hope to get into some business, but I would like to try my hand at coaching before I get too firmly settled in business. I love the game of football, and always have."

Grange's younger brother, Garland, on the freshman team at the University of Illinois, gives promise of being a running mate for his famous brother next fall. Their mother died when "Red" was 5 and with their father, Lyle Grange, they keep bachelor hall in Wheaton, a Chicago suburb. They moved from Forks, Pa., "Red's" birthplace, after the mother's death, to Wheaton. The senior Grange was king of the lumberjacks in the Pennsylvania hills in his early days, so it is easy to tell where "Red" inherited the power for his football achievements.

TECHNICAL AND SOUTH ONLY OMAHA ELEVENS IN RUNNING FOR 1924 PREP CHAMPIONSHIP

Cambridge, Fremont, Lincoln and Neligh Out-Staters Who Have Clean Records—Central Eliminated in the Game With Links—Important Games This Week-End.

Lincoln High pulled a big surprise when it swept down on Tech field and put Central out of the running. The score was 16 to 6 and a big blow to Coach Schmidt and his followers. York was shoved out of the running by the crack Fremont eleven, 13 to 7, while Cambridge put the skids under Gothenburg, 55 to 0.

South High pulled through with a victory over Creighton Prep last Friday, 7 to 6, and is still in the running for the state title. The Packers play Abraham Lincoln in Council Bluffs this week. The game will not have any bearing on the state race.

Technical High, another Omaha eleven in the scramble for the state championship, lost to the strong

Sioux City High on the latter's field last week. This contest did not have anything to do with the Nebraska prep race. The Bookkeepers have an off day this week. Cambridge, 1920 state champions, walloped Gothenburg, 55 to 0, thereby eliminating the latter from the race. That Cambridge has a strong team is not disputed. When an eleven can run up a 55 to 0 score against a Gothenburg team, the winners must have something in the way of football. This week Cambridge plays Minden, already out of the running, and should win. Fremont, after eliminating York, will tackle West Point at Fremont, Friday. The Dodge county eleven hurdled two hard foes when they beat Grand Island and York. West Point should fall victim of the Fremonters, providing the latter play like they did against the Islanders and York.

Lincoln stands out as the high school team to beat for the championship. Coach Browne's men proved this Saturday when they beat Central, 16 to 6. Next Saturday Lincoln plays Beatrice in Lincoln. Central had little trouble beating Beatrice. Judging from this Lincoln should win over the Blues.

Neligh remained in the race by defeating Albion at Neligh last Friday, 55 to 7. It was the first game in four this season that Neligh had been scored on. It also was the 22d straight victory for Neligh in three years. Friday Neligh plays at Stanton. The latter high has a strong team and may cause Neligh trouble. It will be a game worth seeing and one that will attract the attention of the high school followers throughout the state.

Reynolds, playing in a foursome with Blaine Young, Henry Dunn and Thomas Swift, scored a hole in one on hole No. 8, when he drove the distance of 110 yards in a single drive. Young had a 2 on the hole, while Dunn took three and Swift four.
