McMullen Struggle for Education Told by Old Classmate

Crowds Greet Candidate's Party on Speaking Tour Through First Nebraska District.

By P. C. POWELL. Special Dispatch to The Omaha Bee. Falls City, Neb., Oct. 21.—Audiences who gathered at street corners in Richardson county today to listen to Adam McMullen, candidate for governor, learned something of his early struggles for an education. The story was told by Arthur J. Weaver of Falls City, who, with dozens of other citizens, traveled with Mr. McMullen today.

"I roomed with Mr. McMullen at the state university," Mr. Weaver said in introducing the candidate. "He had to work his way through school and organized a boarding club for fellow students. I was one of his star boarders. That was 30 years ago.

"He furnished three meals a day to the students for $2 a week. Every boarder he had was a close friend and for a boarding house keeper to hold friends is almost next to impossible as you all know. The reason he kept friends there in Lincoln 30 years ago was because he gave us value received for our $2 a week. And when he becomes governor I know he will give the taxpayers value received."

Friends Form Escort. From three to eight carloads of friends traveled with Mr. McMullen throughout the day. He spoke at Julian, Auburn, Hope, Verdun, Stella, Shubert, Rulo and Falls City. Frank J. Mondell of Wyoming, former republican floor leader in the lower house of congress, who spoke at Falls City last night, joined Mr. McMullen and traveled with him during the morning. The former Wyoming congressman will speak at Tecumseh tonight. At Julian, Frank Cline, S. M. Bixby and J. W. Armstrong of Auburn, Col. Tom Majors, Wilson E. Majors, David Jack, Frank Majors and wife, and W. R. Fate of Peru met Mr. McMullen. J. D. Graham, precinct committeeman, introduced by H. R. Howe, while E. J. Tucker introduced the speaker at the town of Howe. Upon arrival at Stella, in Richardson county, he was met by the following delegation of Richardson county citizens, who accompanied him the remainder of the day: A. J. Weaver, Tom Hall, Loren Corn, Dan Griffith, Marian and Vincent Arnold, Joe Lewis, J. M. Griffith and wife, Charles Heinzelman and wife, S. M. Beachy, Cass Jones, S. H. Edejack, M. J. Workman, E. O. Richest 23-Year-Old in World Pays Pays Fleeting Visit to Omaha

John Nicholas Brown Doesn't Even Cough on Survey of Property Here.

John Nicholas Brown is the only 23-year-old man in the world who has been approved and the United States government never created without the energy, scope of vision and active cooperation of Alexander Hamilton, declared John Lee Webster before the Triangle club Tuesday night at Hotel Fontenelle. "Alexander Hamilton, considering his age, was a prodigy," said Mr. Webster. "In his accomplishments he was a genius."

"In the few years that followed after the surrender of Lord Cornwallis, the federal government, under the articles of confederation, was gradually fading into a dim shadow. It was under these distressing conditions that Hamilton wrote the address of the Annapolis convention in 1786, calling a constitutional convention in Philadelphia in 1787. Alexander Hamilton is personally entitled to the credit of having the constitution adopted by the state of New York. After six weeks, by his debate, his oratory, his magnetism, and his patriotic spirit, he procured the adoption of the constitution. Without this achievement by Alexander Hamilton New York would have remained an independent nation, a calamity to America."

"As secretary of treasury under Washington, Hamilton established a financial system which laid the foundation for a solid American government and which made the United States independent of other governments." Mr. Webster then called attention to distinguished writers and statesmen who have lauded Hamilton. He gave a description of the bronze monument of Hamilton that stands at the south front of the treasury building in Washington.

"Leap to Death" Fractures Heel

Bluffs Laundryman Attempts Suicide to Avoid Arrest, But Fails.

Walter Holloway, laundryman at Jennie Edmundson hospital, Council Bluffs, failed Monday in an attempt to place himself forever out of reach of the law through suicide when a 35-foot leap from the third floor of the hospital served only to fracture his heel. Holloway is now in Mercy hospital. A detective is in constant attendance to prevent his making another attempt on his life. The laundryman was outside of the hospital Monday evening when officers approached to arrest him. He recognized them, ran into the hospital and jumped from a third floor window. He fell on the cement driveway. Residents in the vicinity of a certain vacant house about which Holloway was loitering Sunday were alarmed at the attention he paid their children and caused his arrest. In a municipal court Monday Holloway declared that he was waiting at the house to see a carpenter. He said that he merely had passed the time by amusing children of the neighborhood with puzzles. Holloway was sent to the hospital Monday night to rearrest him upon another complaint received from that neighborhood.

Hamilton Lauded by Omaha Lawyer
