

Douglas County Farms Visited on Annual Tour

County Agent Heads Delegation of Omaha Men on Inspection Trip.

The annual farm tour of Douglas county was taken Saturday, under the lead of County Agent Maxwell. Twenty-five tourists started from the Chamber of Commerce at 9:15 in the morning, but were joined later by interested farmers until by the middle of the afternoon the caravan consisted of upwards of a hundred.

Chris Stanggaard's dairy farm, north of Minne Lusa was the first visited. Mr. Stanggaard was a member of the dairy party that visited Wisconsin lately, a fact that shows his enterprise and interest in his business. He has a Holstein herd of 110 purebred and grade cows, some of the cows having splendid records for milk and butterfat production. His dairy barns and milk house were inspected closely and approved by the critical inspectors in the party.

Hickey Farm Visited.
The Guernsey dairy farm of Mrs. O. W. Hickey was next on the list. Mrs. Hickey's herd is small but choice, and is proving a great success.

"It pays all the bills," she said. Here the visitors were given a "milk luncheon" and pretty souvenirs typical of dairying.

Marsh Finds Uniform Plan of Accounting
Summerhill farm, founded by Col. James H. Pratt, 50 years ago, and now operated by his grandson, Wayland Magee, was the third visitor. This farm of 1,200 acres specializes in pure field seeds. It is also one of the best known hog and short-horn farms of the state. No more modern farm improvements and equipment may be found in this section.

Birchland Farm, Operated by C. F. Kuehl. is modern in every respect. Mr. Kuehl has 22 head of purebred and high-grade Holsteins, whose average milk production is 7,825 pounds of milk and 237 pounds of butterfat. He is a member of the county cooperative cow testing association.

Hog Lot Sanitation.
The Major Leedy farm near Waterloo was inspected because it shows in the best possible way hog lot sanitation.

The Stafford Farm, near Waterloo. 480 acres operated by Frank, Ben, Charles and Mary Stafford, specializes in corn, cattle and hogs. Hog lot sanitation has here shown its beneficial effects.

Edgewater farm, 1,100 acres, three miles north of Waterloo, is operated jointly by C. B. Noyes and his two sons, Julius and Lawrence. The certified dairy operations are supervised by Julius and the field operations by Lawrence. The farm has 115 cows—40 Guernseys and 75 Holsteins. The barns are modern and each cow has an individual drinking cup. The milk from this dairy is retailed in Omaha at far above the ruling price for dairy milk.

County Agent Maxwell piloted the party about and gave interesting demonstrations. He said that interest in better dairy methods was growing rapidly and remarked that clean and sanitary dairies are now the rule instead of the exception. The tourists returned to Omaha about 5:30.

25 LEAVE FOR TOUR OF COUNTY

Twenty-five tourists left Omaha by auto caravan Saturday morning on the annual Douglas county farm tour. The inspecting party was headed by County Agent Maxwell.

The first stop was at the dairy farm of Chris Stanggaard, north of Minne Lusa. The tourists viewed Mr. Stanggaard's 110 Holsteins and inspected his dairy.

The G. W. Hickey farm at Bennington was the second of the eight stops the farm trippers intend to make before they conclude their tour at 4 Saturday afternoon.

Among those making the trip are George W. Holdrege, H. A. Holdrege, R. L. Carter, H. G. Gould, J. M. Gillan, Ben Marti, Chris Schwager, J. C. Lord, Wayland Magee, Mrs. C. W. Hickey, A. W. Sears, H. F. McIntosh, John Ekin.

FAST WORK DONE BY DETECTIVES

Police caught the thieves before the robbery of 2016 North Fifth street was reported.

Detectives Farmer and Davis picked up Lester Grothe when they found him with a grip containing a woman's coat. Shortly thereafter Mrs. Oscar Stenow reported the robbery of her home at 2016 North Fifth street. She identified the coat.

Henry Hoffman, 1422 North Nineteenth street was also arrested. The two men carried in a ton of coal at the Stenow home a few days ago and are alleged to have returned and robbed the house of $255 worth of apparel and jewelry.

Police hunted for Clifford Short. They found his wife and arrested her when she refused to tell them the whereabouts of her husband.

Old People's Home.
The Old People's Home, 325 Fontelle boulevard, services Sunday at 3, will be in charge of Rev. E. B. Whitcomb, assistant pastor of the First Presbyterian church. The young people of the church will furnish music.

He Doesn't Mind a Trifle Like That

Robert Meisinger, 817 South Thirty-fourth street, stepped smartly from his Guaranty Laundry company truck after a runaway street car hit it at Twenty-fourth and Leavenworth streets, knocking it against a brick wall, from which it rebounded against an electric light pole. The car was wrecked.

Marsh Finds Uniform Plan of Accounting

New System Aids Examiners, Resists Manipulation and Is Economical.

A uniform system of accounting for county treasurers, being established by George W. Marsh, state auditor, is attracting considerable attention throughout Nebraska. Mr. Marsh is republican nominee for reelection.

C. A. Sommer, state accountant of the state auditor's department, has issued a 32-page booklet which sets forth detailed information concerning this system. It is believed that the immediate object, outside of complying with the law, which requires the state auditor to establish uniformity, is to be helpful to county treasurers, to facilitate the work of the state examiners and to make manipulations difficult; also there will be a saving to taxpayers since the use of standard forms will avoid the expense of having costly books ruled and printed.

Speaking of the county treasurer examinations being made by the state auditor's department, Mr. Sommer said: "The law providing for two county treasurer examiners was passed in 1923. Since then several new counties have been established, the population and the wealth of the state have increased, and many new duties have been laid upon the county treasurers, such as collecting auto licenses, increase in paving, drainage, irrigation and other taxes; paying bonds and coupons, all of which were then doubled. The work of the state examiners. The uniform system of accounting will lighten the work of the examiners, but for the best results the force should be increased, so that time could be taken for a more extended examination."

G. O. P. RALLY AT M'KENNA HALL

James A. Rodman, candidate for the legislature from the Nineteenth district, attacked La Follette's stand in regard to amending the constitution during his address at the big republican rally held at the McKenna hall, Sixteenth and Locust streets, last night.

"La Follette is gnawing at the very roots of our government when he attacks the constitution," said Rodman. Other speakers at this meeting were Thomas Sheehan, Mrs. A. H. Peters, Richard W. Wood and Senator J. W. Cooper.

NEW SCHEDULE FOR FREIGHT

OMAHA WOMAN 90 YEARS OLD TODAY

Mrs. Anna Larsen, 1013 North Twenty-ninth street, resident of Omaha for half a century, is celebrating her 90th birthday Saturday at the home of her daughter, Mrs. Anna Phelps. Mrs. Larsen was born in Denmark. Many floral gifts and messages of congratulation were received by Mrs. Larsen through the day. One of her callers, Rev. Charles W. Savidge, has known her for 40 years.
