Too Little Discontent.
Wireless Power.
Exit Mrs. Willow.
Will Labor Stick?
By ARTHUR BRISBANE

John W. Davis is much disturbed by "social unrest," and fears that Coolidge's election might cause a "social revolt." What effect it would have to elect the leading lawyer of J. P. Morgan & Co., the telephone monopoly and the biggest oil company, Mr. Davis does not say. These are the words of the democratic candidate: "In all seriousness and earnestness, I submit to you that there is in this country a great unrest."

So there is, and so much the better. Looking at the baby in the crib, the doctor is worried if the baby is too quiet. That's dangerous. So with a nation. Where there is no unrest, no discontent, no struggle for better conditions, no strongly expressed dissatisfaction, there is a lack of the right energy and national feeling.

It is all right to die quietly, but men and nations ought not to live too quietly.

If a farmer works all his life with nothing to show for it, he ought to show "unrest." Unrest, discontent, blaming and demanding, are the foundations of everything worth while. There was unrest in this country in 1776. There was unrest when the tea went overboard in Boston Harbor. Discontent is the mainspring of progress. There isn't enough of it.

Many years ago this writer suggested that the flying problem would be solved by transmission of electric power without wires. Power stations at Niagara Falls and other points, would supply the power, and machines flying above, would "pick it up."

Now Edison, who exhibited his first incandescent electric light just 45 years ago, predicts the age of "power transmission by wireless." When that comes, you may see gigantic flying machines going around the world year after year, six miles up, where no strong winds blow, rarely landing, carrying small planes to drop passengers at New York, San Francisco, Honolulu, Manila and so on, all the way around.

How fast we travel along the road of science!

Forty-five years ago, Edison's first incandescent lamp shed its feeble light. The other night, flares, practicing in the dark on Long Island, sailed down to the ground, following the shining ray of a searchlight with more than a million candlepower, slanting at the right angle and safely guiding them to the ground.

Soon light will be almost as cheap as darkness. Every street and highway in the country will be lighted as thoroughly as the main traffic of great cities.

Crime will vanish under light, as disease germs wilt under sunlight.

And there will be no "lost hours." Machines will be grinding out their wealth 24 hours a day, with men in three shifts of eight hours (or better, four shifts of six hours), superintending the production.

Mrs. Willow, widow, aged 39, appeared before a jury accused of ordering her young admiral, Shadel, aged 18, to kill her husband.

The jury finds her guilty of murder in the second degree. But Mrs. Willow could not possibly be guilty of murder in the second degree. If she planned the murder, and ordered Shadel to carry it out, that was premeditated murder, and therefore murder in the first degree. If she didn't plan the murder she was not guilty at all. Perhaps the jury acted on the theory that something ought to be done about the fact that the lady's morals left something to be desired.

Or it might have been chivalrous reluctance to hang a lady.

"Criticism is easy, art is difficult."

MacDonald, labor prime minister of the British Empire, discovers in his turn the truth of the old saying. It is easy to put a new "Utopia" with happiness and plenty for everybody on paper, or in a speech. But doing one thing when power comes is different.

Lloyd George attacks MacDonald, saying the labor party promised to find jobs for everybody, and goes out of office with unemployment greater than when labor entered office.

Lloyd George attacks MacDonald labor also for lending money to Bolshevik Russia. But Lloyd George, only the other day promising the British that he "would hang the kaiser," now favors lending hundreds of millions to Germany. England wants to do business with Russia. Why attack MacDonald for trying to make it possible?

The British elections will answer an old question, do working men ever stick together long? In this country politicians answer, no. England very likely, will answer otherwise.

Guilty Verdict Returned in Seven Trials at Franklin

Franklin, Oct. 27.—District court took recess after two weeks' session. Seven criminal cases were tried in all, resulting in conviction and one plea of guilty was made.

Roy Scott was sentenced to four years in state prison for assault with intent to kill Roy Deldrick. Mabel Deldrick, divorced wife of Roy Deldrick, was found guilty of assault and fined $100 and costs. Three liquor law violators were fined $100 and costs and given a jail sentence of 60 days at hard labor. One sentence of $500 fine and 30 days in jail was suspended and the defendant paroled to the sheriff.

Boy Shot With Revolver Believed Not Loaded

Bridgeport, Oct. 27.—With a deep furrow plowed through the fleshy part of his right leg, from the hip to just above the knee, and the bullet that had caused the wound still imbedded in his leg, Cleo Liggett, an Alliance boy, is in the hospital in bad condition as the result of loss of blood and the shock.

The wound was inflicted by a revolver which young Liggett, son of Mel F. Liggett, had taken, believing it to be unloaded, and which was fired as he attempted to take it from his pocket to show to playmates.

Growth of Winter Wheat Is Retarded by Drouth

Beatrice, Oct. 27.—Farmers report that winter wheat remains at a standstill because of the continued dry weather. In some fields the plant appears to be dead, while in others it is green, but is not growing as it should. It is believed, however, that a good rain would materially improve the crop.

COLDS THAT DEVELOP INTO PNEUMONIA

Chronic coughs and persistent colds lead to serious lung trouble. You can stop them now with Creomulsion, an emulsified crocote that is pleasant to take. Creomulsion is a new medical discovery with twofold action; it soothes and heals the inflamed membranes and kills the germ.

Of all known drugs, crocote is recognized by the medical fraternity as the greatest healing agency for the treatment of chronic coughs and colds and other forms of throat and lung troubles. Creomulsion contains, in addition to crocote, other healing elements which soothe and heal the inflamed membranes and stop the irritation and inflammation, while the crocote goes on to the stomach, is absorbed into the blood, attacks the seat of the trouble and destroys the germs that lead to consumption.

Creomulsion is guaranteed satisfactory in the treatment of chronic coughs and colds, bronchitis, asthma, catarrh, bronchitis and other forms of throat and lung diseases, and is excellent for building up the system after colds or flu. Money refunded if any cough or cold, no matter of how long standing, is not relieved after taking according to directions. Ask your druggist. Creomulsion Co., Atlanta, Ga.

Driver of Death Auto Blameless, Verdict of Jury

Finds Boy, 6, Ran in Path of Car Traveling at Rate of Only 10 Miles an Hour.

Unavoidable accident was the verdict returned Monday afternoon by a coroner's jury following an inquest held into the death of Edward Schomerus, 6, 420 North Eighteenth street, who was fatally injured when struck by an automobile driven by Maenard Hall, 605 Hazel street, Council Bluffs, at Sixteenth and Cass streets.

Recommendation was made that Hall be released from custody.

Ran Into Auto Path.

Testimony of seven witnesses to the accident was almost identical as to how the Schomerus boy ran out into the street in the path of the automobile when chased by a playmate.

Edward O. Lockmiller, 1812 1/2 North Seventeenth street, first witness called by County Coroner Paul Steinwender and questioned by Assistant County Attorney Dan Gross, declared that Hall was not driving at a high rate of speed and that the boy ran into the path of the car.

"I was crossing the southwest corner at Sixteenth and Cass streets," said Lockmiller, "and I saw a number of children playing on the north side of Cass on the curb."

"A Ford roadster had turned from Sixteenth street west into Cass street and was driving at a rate of about 10 miles an hour when suddenly Edward, the little boy, rushed out into the street, another boy after him."

Knocked to Pavement.

He wasn't looking where he was going. The automobile hit him knocking him to the pavement although the driver had averted to the left to avoid the boy and had jammed on the brakes. When the car had stopped a foot or two after it had struck the boy, he was found next to the rear wheel.

The driver immediately jumped out of the car and picked up the boy. He called to another man on the street to accompany him to the police station. They placed the boy in the car and drove off. Hall did everything in his power to avoid hitting the boy.

Henry Wertz, 2510 Cass street, who was called by Hall, told the same story of the carelessness of the boy and the efforts of the driver to avoid striking him. The boy's half-brother, Orville Franklin Williams, testified that he didn't see much of the accident when he saw his brother's body under the car.

Screamed and Ran Home.

"I screamed and called to me brother, then ran home," said Orville.

Walter Edwards, another playmate who lives at the same address as the Schomerus boy, told that the reason Edward rushed out into the street was because a playmate, Bob Snyder, had wanted to put chalk upon his back. He said Edward was not looking at anything except at the boy who was chasing him.

Other witnesses were Mrs. Edward O. Lockmiller, Marjan and Lillian Wells, 12-year-old twins, 1612 Cass street, and Mrs. Edith Snyder, 1608 Cass street.

Woman Finds Ring Lost Five Years Ago in Crop of Prairie Chicken

Bridgeport, Oct. 27.—A silver finger ring, with initials, lost five years ago, was found in the crop of a wild prairie chicken that was killed recently more than 300 miles from the place where the ring was lost.

James Cory of Syracuse lost her ring in a plum thicket at Syracuse, in the extreme east end of the state, a prairie chicken killed here, brought it to her, in connection with a good meal. The ring was in almost perfect condition.

LEG BROKEN, LAD CRAWLS TO SAFETY

Crab Orchard, Oct. 27.—Earnest Skrabach, farmer lad, was kicked by a horse and sustained a fracture of the leg below the knee and other serious injuries while working on the Hayes Allen farm near here. No help was at hand and young Skrabach crawled some distance on his hands and knees until he was seen by Clyde Little and taken to a Beatrice hospital. The break is a bad one, the bone being exposed.

Dad Said to Mother:

Dad: "Mother, a life insurance man called on me today. He made me think we must be sure of Bobbie's and Dot's complete education. That old policy I have had since I was 21 is inadequate."

Mother: "Well, what are you going to do about it?"

Dad: "I think that an additional $5,000 policy is necessary."

Mother: "I think so, too. What company did the agent represent?"

Dad: "It was a good Omaha company. My friend the agent was right in saying that men and women of Omaha would all profit directly and indirectly by buying their insurance protection of Omaha companies. These companies are safe because of their large assets. Large deposits of their securities are kept by the state and moreover, the companies are well regulated by the laws of Nebraska and other states."

Mother: "You know best."

Dad: "Before my friend called today I did not realize that Omaha companies had invested millions in our city, county and school district securities, the money being used for the material improvement of this city."

"I have concluded that we as citizens of Omaha, where we have our home and business, should feel a sense of pride in the growth of our city and do our part in promoting that growth. Without prejudice to any outside company I think it is our duty, to buy protection of our splendid Omaha life companies. They are a very great factor in Omaha's present and future prosperity."

Mother: "I am agreeably surprised to hear these facts."

Dad: "Our companies employ nearly 5,000 people and buy large quantities of supplies, their total city disbursements running up into many millions annually. I feel that we must patronize them out of a sense of loyalty to the old home town."
