All About Politics.
Three Honest Men.
The Good Things Are True.
No Calamity Threatens.
By ARTHUR BRISBANE.

As far as campaigning goes, the fight is over. Ten per cent of the people will devote part of Sunday to thinking about the campaign and what it means.

For anybody knowing how to use them, the hours of the campaign that could be made most valuable, still remain.

The average American, there are 111,000,000 such, realizes with satisfaction that good things said about candidates are true in the main, and evil things said of them are not true.

President Coolidge is sufficiently described by Henry Ford in a message to this column. "He is an honest, able man."

But this nation needs "world-wide exploiters," men with ability to reach out for business all around the world.

Business is no longer done on a local scale. The whole world is the business man's "oyster." It is his business to open it.

Europe is organizing business on a gigantic national scale. The country cannot meet with old-fashioned methods the modern European scheme in which France, Germany and Belgium plan an international combination of their steel and iron business.

The straw vote and the gambling odds both agree that Coolidge will be elected. Odds yesterday afternoon were 18 to 1 against La Follette, 7 1/2 to 1 on Coolidge, and "even" money that Coolidge will carry New York by 650,000.

A WIFE'S CONFESSATIONAL

An Extraordinary Encounter on the Beach.
As I drove away from the butcher shop in Bayview, where I so unexpectedly had encountered Bess Dean, my thoughts were busy with the surprising welcome news she had given me of the approaching visit of Alice Holcombe Stockbridge.

That Bess would have given much to have suppressed the news and kept me ignorant of Alice's visit I knew, and the very fact that she had felt impelled to tell me of it assured me that Alice's friendship for me was as strong as ever. If Bess could have made mischief between us, she would have welcomed, with open arms, the opportunity to do so, and my heart warmed at this indubitable proof of my old friend's affection.

Until my encounter with Bess I had not realized how deep had come the hurt dealt me by Alice Stockbridge's failure to answer the letter which I supposed had been mailed to her long ago, and which Bess Dean had so conveniently "forgotten" to send her.

The fact that she owed that happiness in great part to me did not alleviate the hurt any. It was no salve for the wound to believe Alice Stockbridge guilty of ingratitude, and the loyalty of my friendship would not admit her dereliction until after a second letter, which I now realized had also been given to Bess Dean to mail, had brought me no reply.

Naturally, I had resolved then never to write again, and my own life since then had been so crowded with incident that Alice Holcombe Stockbridge had been pushed far back among my memories.

Now she had been restored to my life, because Bess Dean did not dare risk facing Alice, the one person in the world whose opinion she valued, with a revelation of her treachery or of the wide gulf that now lay between her life and mine.

Madge's Memories!
There was not much pleasure, however in my anticipation of her visit, because I knew that most of my meetings with her would be necessarily shared with Bess Dean. But I promised myself that some time during her stay I would have Alice to myself for a whole day.

My anticipations were realized. We were the only persons on the beach of the delightful curving cove, when, after bringing the car as far as we dared into the road, we took our

Elections Will Be Followed by Relief in Trade

Opinion as to Result Seems to Have Crystallized, However, and General View Is Optimistic.

By RICHARD SPILLANE, Universal Service Financial Editor.
New York, Nov. 2.—There will be a feeling of relief in the business world with the elections over. They are a plague to industry. Meanwhile opinion appears to have crystallized as to the result and it is viewed optimistically.

As for politics, conditions vary, but generally there is improvement. The steel industry is slowly making headway; the advance in the price of pig iron is significant. In the automobile field there is a seasonal contraction. The copper people seem to be on the highway to better times.

It appears as if the oil business is nearly clear of its embarrassments. Advances in gasoline prices are not infrequent and reports of reduced production would suggest more advances.

News from the agricultural belt continues very cheerful. Why not? Grain prices remain high. That has benefited those late in marketing their crop. Cotton, while down from its early heights, still is at a remunerative price.

Transportation is surprisingly good. That is indicative of good trade. A minor but significant illustration of the great changes for the better with the railroads is furnished by the Maine Central railroad in declaring a dividend of five per cent, the first since 1920 on its preferred stock.

Havana, Nov. 2.—Almost complete returns from the six provinces of Cuba as compiled early tonight at the office of the secretary of the interior showed that General Gerardo Machado, the liberal candidate for president of the republic, was leading General Mario G. Menocal, conservative, by 178,166 to 122,009 votes.

London.—The record of Miss Margaret J. Williams, a Richmond school teacher, who has gained only one pupil during a teaching career of 40 years, is rather unique in this country where pedagogues still accept the old adage, "spare the rod and spoil the child."

Movies

At the Rialto.
Petit and charming Alla Nazimova is back again after a two year's absence from the screen, this time appearing with the unforgettable Milton Sills in "Madonna of the Streets," a screen adaptation of W. E. Maxwell's "The Ragged Messenger."

At the Sun.
A gallery of favorites in a rousing good story might well describe the photoplay at the Sun for the first of this week. Reginald Barker who directed the production has filmed an entertaining story, but rarely do we see such a collection of stars in one picture.

At the Strand.
"The Fast Set," is the title of the screen version of Frederick Lonsdale's New York stage success, "Spring Cleaning," which is showing at the Strand for the week.

At the Moon.
Usually in a "western picture" the human note is lacking due to the director's interest in producing thrills.

BODIES OF THREE FOUND AFTER FIRE

Sallina, Kan., Nov. 2.—Firemen, answering an alarm here yesterday, discovered the bodies of Ote E. Morgan, a jeweler, Mrs. Morgan and their son, Loren, 19 years old. All had been shot several times and the bodies of Mrs. Morgan and her son were badly charred by fire in the bedding where they lay.

When shots were heard by neighbors, who had believed they were caused by Halloween pranksters, it is believed the shots set fire to the bedding. The body of Morgan which was found in another room was shot five times. Several of the shots were in the walls of the room, showing many had gone wild.

A pistol was found lying near the body of Loren.
It was learned that Morgan and his wife had quarrelled frequently.

Will your boy become a Leader?

Roosevelt, as a boy, was sickly, puny, and backward in school. His ailments being properly remedied—notably his poor eyesight, he very soon rose above his fellow pupils and became the leader all men love and honor.

If your boy is handicapped by poor vision, and he may be thus handicapped, because fully one in four is badly in need of correction, his chances for success are slight.

The difference between failure and success is relatively so small that even trifles will throw the balance in the wrong direction.

Just as Theodore Roosevelt's parents by their thoughtfulness and parental devotion gave to the world one of our greatest men, so will you be giving your boy his chance.

Have His Eyes Examined!
ONE OF A SERIES OF ADVERTISEMENTS

VOTE FOR Judge Abraham L. Sutton For District Judge

I am a candidate for District Judge, and served on the District Bench more than ten years. I am in no combination with other candidates, and no money has been collected or solicited from special interests to aid in my election, and if I am re-elected no one will have any strings on me and I will be in a position to give the poorest and the humblest citizen the same consideration as the most powerful man in the community.

I wish to thank the voters of Douglas, Washington and Burt Counties for the 15,600 votes I received on Primary Day and if re-elected promise faithful and conscientious service as District Judge.

Wonderful for Piles Says Peterson

If you received every week a dozen or more letters like the ones below from people who have suffered torments from piles, wouldn't you feel happier than the man whose life is devoted to money-grubbing?

Two months ago I determined to give Peterson's Ointment a trial. The improvement was so decided after using one box, that I have continued, and on the completion of the fifth box am now entirely better.

This is written with the view of passing along the good word to other sufferers. Very truly yours, Chas. E. Caswell, 232 Third Street, Albany, N. Y.

Here's another from Mr. Edgar Thomas, age 76, of Hemlock, N. Y. He writes: "I had the itching piles for a long time. I used one box and Peterson's Ointment for itching piles and the piles disappeared, also the high blood pressure. It came in a box at all drug stores.—Advertisement"
