District Attorney's Office Scores Victory in Every October Case

Of 33 Accused of Crime 27 Plead Guilty and Conviction Secured on Remaining Six; Only One Murder Case.

Victory has marked the efforts of the county attorney's office in every criminal case on the docket which has come to trial since the opening of the fall term of court, October 6.

There have been 33 persons accused of some crime who have faced a judge during these first 30 days of the court term. Of this number 27 have entered pleas of guilty rather than face a jury, five have stood trial and have been convicted by a jury and one has been found guilty after a court hearing at which no jury was present.

The docket, so far, has not been exceptionally heavy. It has included the usual run of criminal cases which come up every term of court.

Those who have been found guilty after a trial by jury are: Charles N. Bowden, accused of stealing and receiving a stolen automobile; Joseph J. Stephens, charged with breaking and entering; Thomas Flynn, charged with robbery; William Fitzsimmons, nonpayment of alimony; Lloyd Churchill, attempting to steal an automobile.

Andrew J. Reed, charged with violation of his parole, was heard before a court and found guilty. There was no jury called in the case.

Of the charges to which pleas of guilty were entered those of robbery led in number with nine. Breaking and entering was next with five. Forgery was third with four. Larceny from the person and illegal use of a still, mash and liquor each had three. Failure to support wife had one victim and carrying concealed weapons another. Clyde Finnan was the only person charged with murder. He entered a plea of guilty to murder in the second degree, also charged the complaint against him charged the murder.

The French parliament will reconvene tomorrow with the socialist party on record as determined to make Premier Herriot execute part of the socialistic program as the price of the socialists' support.

Parliament's most important work will be the discussion of the 1925 budget. The prime minister and Finance Minister Clement intend to have the chamber examine the various expenditures and immediately send them to the senate when the lower house has voted them, instead of waiting until the entire applications bill is approved by the end of the year.

Suppression of the French embassy at the Vatican, resumption of diplomatic relations with soviet Russia, duration of military service, the status of religious orders, the high cost of living and the salaries of functionaries are other questions which parliament will be called upon to discuss.

About 30 deputies have served no notice upon the government of their intention to interpellate it upon measures enacted since it assumed power last June. Most of the interpellations deal with international policies, except the de jure recognition accorded the soviet government.

Woman 98 Years of Age to Vote for Coolidge

West Boylston, Mass., Nov. 3.—Mrs. Emily W. Parker, who was 98 September 14, is in receipt of the following letter from President Coolidge:

"White House, October 31, 1924. "My Dear Mrs. Parker: "One of my friends in West Boylston has been good enough to send me a newspaper clipping telling the story of your registration and of your life interest in public affairs. I am writing to congratulate you on your being able at your advanced age to continue your activities and to express the hope that you may have many more years of continued interest. Davis Appeals Over Radio for American Ideals. New York, Nov. 3.—John W. Davis closed his campaign tonight with an address over the radio, the first ever made by a presidential candidate on the eve of election day.

The nominee spoke in the presence of the smallest audience and in the smallest room he has visited as a speaker during the campaign. Not more than 20 persons were present.

Yet he was heard by numbers too great even for radio experts to estimate. His words were sent out by a chain of broadcasting stations with an aggregate power to carry them to listeners in every state.

It was his final effort to "present the issues that the people might pass judgment on them." He spoke "not merely as a candidate appealing for your votes but as an American speaking to Americans concerning matters that involve our common welfare and the future of our beloved country."

Through this most miraculous of all modern inventions I am enabled tonight to give to the people of the United States a closing word concerning the issues of this campaign and the duty that awaits them tomorrow," Davis said. "I was to do so in no spirit of partisanship or self-seeking; not merely as a candidate appealing for your votes, but as an American speaking to Americans concerning matters that involve our common welfare and the future of our beloved country. Whether I, who talk, and you, who listen, are of the same political faith, is a matter of secondary importance if we are all devoted to America and to American ideals, determined to seek what is right and pursue it and willing to think first of our country and only thereafter of ourselves. The rule we should all apply to every governmental problem may be expressed in language which I borrow from another: 'That which is right can harm no man; that which is wrong can profit no man; though all other lights swing and circle, this is the pole star by which we may safely steer.'
