Stock Exchange Ground Broken

Oldest Commission Man Turns First Spade Full of Earth at Ceremonies.

The first spade of earth was turned Friday for the construction of the new $1,000,000 livestock exchange building in South Omaha. Hundreds of spectators were gathered to see the brief ceremonial which marked a milestone in the history of the South Omaha market. The first spadeful of earth was turned by James G. Martin, the oldest commission merchant in point of service, in the South Omaha yards. He was assisted by Frank Jones, assistant superintendent of the stockyards company, the oldest man employe in the yards. The importance of the new undertaking in the history of the South Omaha market was stressed by President Everett Buckingham, president of the Union Stockyards company, in his address at the ceremony. He pointed to the rapid growth of the Omaha market, particularly in recent years, and declared that the market would continue to grow in importance. John Fitz Roberts, president of the Livestock exchange, spoke briefly, and declared that prosperous years are ahead for the South Omaha market. Among the spectators were a score of men who have been connected with the South Omaha market, either as commission men or employes, for more than 30 years. Among these pioneers were the following men, who entered the market in the years indicated: Ed Cahow, 1890; Claude Talbot, 1889; Frank Chittenden, 1884; James G. Martin, 1886; Frank Jones, 1885; Sol Degen, 1886; Nels Purinton, 1885; Ed Cullen, 1884; Brad Hickox, 1886; George Thurlow, 1884; W. B. Cheek, 1887; W. F. Denny, 1886; C. C. Clifton, 1888; J. H. Bulla, 1887; Jack Sullivan, 1888; Bruce McCulloch, 1889; W. C. Wyman, 1887; Burt Anderson, 1888; A. F. Stryker, 1890; John Fitz Roberts, 1891; William Brayton, 1899; George Housman, 1891; Burt Blanchard, 1887. The new building, which is to be 10 stories high, will be H-shaped. It is to be erected north of the present Exchange building on the west side of the new viaduct.

Dr. Baker Relates Incidents of War

Tells Story of Captain Whose Legs Were Shot Off One Minute Before Armistice.

Aurora, Nov. 14.—At the weekly meeting of the Aurora Rotary club Dr. W. H. Baker spoke on "Armistice Day in France November 11, 1918." Dr. Baker was in charge of a field hospital close to the firing line and the incidents related by him in this talk were intensely tragic and interesting. He gave a graphic description of the artillerymen coming from the firing line where they had been days and months without bath, shave or haircut, covered with mud and drunken with loss of sleep. Dr. Baker told the story of one captain brought to his hospital who had both legs shot off just one minute before the guns ceased firing at 11 o'clock. This captain had been throughout the war an active participant and had never been injured until this fatal wound just 60 seconds before the war ended. Armistice day was observed in Aurora with speeches, a football game and a banquet and dance in the evening. The football game between the second teams of Aurora and Grand Island High schools resulted in a victory for Aurora by a score of 3 to 0.
